

Player Handouts

A PRINTER-FRIENDLY (ISH) COMPILATION OF ALL THE PLAYER INFORMATION FOR ROOT: THE RPG.

- Includes all player content from the Core Book, Travelers & Outsiders, and Ruins & Expeditions.
- The Table of Contents should be clickable for quick reference.
- All 25 Playbooks are included. The Playbooks have all been expanded to include new Natures, Drives, and Connections, as well as all the Roguish Feats, Weapon Skills, and Masteries from all the books – consult with your GM before assuming these options are available to you.
- Playbooks have been designed with customization built in. The default options are there as suggestions, but space has been left for you to write in any suitable alternative. They have also been designed with Advancement in mind so you should be able to use this one playbook for the entire journey of your vagabond.
- Small liberties have been taken (with deep consideration) to the Drives and Connections of each Playbook to include defaults that best fit that Playbook and to attempt to represent material from both expansions. One change: The "Perfectionist" Drive from the R&E expansion has been changed to "Snob" (as "Perfectionist" was already a Drive from the Core Book).
- Species Moves and Species Abilities are included as options, with additional species not from the books.
- All Moves are presented as summaries, designed with simplicity for players' reference.
- All Equipment Tags are included as well as an optional Crafting Roll when crafting equipment. The Pre-generated equipment is from the books as well as the equipment decks available; they are not the limit on what is available for PCs, simply an inspiration.

This layout was designed by a fan and GM of the game, and has not been endorsed or tested by Magpie Games or any other official party. May it serve you and your players well as you venture into the Woodland!

Your Drives

CHOOSE TWO DRIVES

☐ Ambition

Advance when you increase your reputation with any faction.

☐ Traveler

Advance when you replace a valuable or meaningful item with one that represents the local culture.

☐ Antimilitarist

Advance when you sabotage a non-denizen faction's armies or their ability to wage war.

☐ Folklorist

Advance when you prove a local folktale or legend true or false.

☐ _____

---

---

☐ _____

---

---

---

CHOOSE YOUR NATURE

☐ Extrovert

Clear your exhaustion track when you share a moment of real warmth, friendship, or enjoyment with someone.

☐ Peacemaker

Clear your exhaustion track when you resolve a dangerous conflict nonviolently.

☐ _____

---

Background

Where do you call home?

- ☐ _____ Clearing
- ☐ The forest
- ☐ A place far from here
- ☐ _____

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I want to help the Woodland
- ☐ I want to explore the Woodland
- ☐ I believe the current factions should be overturned
- ☐ I must keep a promise to a loved one
- ☐ I want freedom from society's constraints
- ☐ _____

Whom have you left behind?

- ☐ my mentor
- ☐ my family
- ☐ my loved one
- ☐ my student
- ☐ my greatest ally
- ☐ _____

Which faction have you served the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Partner

_____ and I fought alongside each other to defend a clearing from a faction's advances...but we failed. Why did we defend the clearing? Why did we fail? Who defeated us?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Friend

I traveled with _____ for a time right after I became a vagabond. They helped keep me safe and showed me the Woodland. What keepsake did I gift them?

When you help them, you can mark 2-exhaustion to give a +2, instead of 1-exhaustion for a +1.

Protégé

_____ helped me escape a life-threatening situation; ever since, I have admired their ability and look to them for inspiration. What situation was I in?

Once per game session, when you spend time training with them, choose one and hold 1:

- Learn tricks of the trade: they choose which roguish feat they teach you, and you may spend hold to attempt that roguish feat as if you had it.
- Spar with them: they choose which weapon skill they teach you, and you may spend hold to use that weapon skill as if you had it.
- Ask them about how they see the world: spend hold to take +1 forward to prove them right or wrong.

☐ Sterling Reputation

Whenever you mark any amount of prestige with a faction, mark one additional prestige. When you mark any amount of notoriety with a faction, you can instead clear an equivalent amount of marked prestige.

☐ Subduing Strikes

When you aim to subdue an enemy quickly and non-lethally, you can engage in melee with Cunning instead of Might. You cannot choose to inflict serious harm if you do.

☐ Galon on the Pulse

When you gather information about the goings-on in a clearing, roll with Cunning. On a 10+, ask 3. On a 7-9, ask 2.

- Who holds power in this clearing?
- Who is the local dissident?
- What are the denizens afraid of?
- What do the denizens hope for?
- What opportunities exist for enterprising vagabonds?

On a miss, your questions tip off someone dangerous.

☐ Orator

When you give a speech to interested denizens of a clearing, say what you are motivating them to do and roll with Charm. On a hit, they will move to do it as they see fit. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- They don't try to take your intent too far
- They don't disband at the first sign of real resistance
- They don't demand you stand at their head and lead

On a miss, they twist your message in unpredictable ways.

☐ Well-Read

Take +1 Cunning (max +3).

☐ Fast Friends

When you try to befriend an NPC you've just met by matching their personality, body language, and desires, mark exhaustion and roll with Cunning. On a hit, they'll look upon you favorably—ask them any one non-compromising question and they'll answer truthfully, or request a simple favor and they'll do it for you. On a 10+, they really like you—they'll share a valuable secret or grant you a serious favor instead. On a miss, you read them totally wrong, and their displeasure costs you.

Alternate Playbook Moves

(MAX: 2)

Notes on The Adventurer Moves

For Sterling Reputation, keep in mind that you only increase prestige gains by one each time you gain prestige. This incentivizes pursuing lots of small good deeds. Don't hesitate to lose prestige to stop yourself from gaining notoriety— racking up notoriety can hurt your Reputation much more than losing a few prestige.

For Subduing Strikes, “aiming to subdue an enemy quickly and non-lethally” often requires using an appropriate weapon. Coming at a foe with a sword makes it difficult to try to subdue them non-lethally, even if you hit with the flat of the blade. If your weapon inflicts exhaustion, then you are guaranteed that it is nonlethal.

For Talon on the Pulse, you need a bit of time to actually collect the information. Think of the move as covering a short montage of you going around the clearing and asking NPCs lots of different questions. On a miss, you won't necessarily be attacked or accosted, but drawing the interest of a dangerous individual will complicate your life.

For Orator, you have to give your speech to “interested denizens of a clearing.” The move won't trigger if you try to speak to denizens who have no reason to pay attention to what you say, and it won't trigger if you're speaking to non- clearing denizens, like a group of bandits or a squad of well-trained soldiers. “They will move to do it as they see fit” means that you don't control exactly how they follow your exhortations—the GM will describe what they do, based on who they are and what choices you make from the list.

For Well-Read, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

For Fast Friends, a “non-compromising question” is one they don't feel endangers them or threatens them in any way; a “simple favor” is one that doesn't cost them too much to conduct. A “valuable secret,” however, can actually put them at risk for sharing it, and a “serious favor” might cost them quite a bit in time, effort, or money—not so much that it's self-destructive, but enough that it actually puts them out.

Partner

_____ and I together helped a faction take control of a clearing, and share responsibility for it. What is the name of the faction leader who was run out by our actions?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Protector

I once protected _____ from a mortal blow during a fight, and I would do it again. Why?

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Battle-Sibling

I've never seen a fighter as good as _____...except for myself. The first time we fought together, we dealt a major blow to a faction's forces. What is their most impressive battle maneuver?

When you fight side-by-side or back-to-back with them, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves as long as you remain within intimate range of each other.

Playbook Moves

CHOOSE THREE TO START

☐ Carry a Big Stick

When you use words to pause an argument or violent conflict between others, roll with Charm. On a hit, they choose: mark 2-exhaustion and keep going, or stop for now. On a 10+, take +1 ongoing to dealing with them peacefully. On a miss, NPCs turn their anger to you, and PCs take +1 ongoing against you for the scene.

☐ Hardy

Take 1 additional injury box (it does not count against your maximum). Whenever time passes or you journey to a new clearing, you can clear 2 injury boxes automatically.

☐ Crash and Smash

When you smash your way through scenery to reach someone or something, roll with Might. On a hit, you reach your target. On a 10+, choose 1. On a 7–9, choose 2.

- You hurt yourself: mark injury
- You break an important part of your surroundings
- You damage or leave behind a piece of gear (GM's choice)

On a miss, you smash through, but you leave yourself totally vulnerable on the other side.

☐ Strong Draw

When you target someone with a bow, mark wear on the bow to roll with Might. On a hit, mark exhaustion to inflict 1 additional injury. Mark exhaustion again to make your shot ignore the enemy's armor—they cannot mark wear to absorb the injury.

☐ Brute

Take +1 Might (max +3).

☐ Guardian

When you defend someone or something from an immediate NPC or environmental threat, roll with Might. On a hit, you keep them safe and choose one. On a 7–9, it costs: expose yourself to danger or escalate the situation.

- Draw the attention of the threat; they focus on you now.
- Put the threat in a vulnerable spot; take +1 forward to counterstrike.
- Push the threat back; you and your protectee have a chance to maneuver or flee.

On a miss, you take the full brunt of the blow intended for your protectee, and the threat has you where it wants you.

Notes on The Arbiter Moves

For Carry a Big Stick, every party in the fight has to make the choice to mark 2-exhaustion and keep going or to stop for now. If one side keeps going and the other stops, the side that keeps going has to mark 2-exhaustion but gets to make the first move in the continued fight—after that, the side that chose to stop can act as normal. “Stop for now” means that they have to stop fighting more or less for the scene, but they can pick back up later. The “+1 ongoing to dealing with them peacefully” also lasts only until the end of the scene (only lasting longer at the GM’s discretion).

For Crash and Smash, you need a destination to trigger the move. “You break an important part of your surroundings” means you break something you don’t want broken—the GM will describe what that is. “You damage or leave behind a piece of gear (GM’s choice)” means the GM chooses whether you damage the gear or leave it behind—not both. The amount of damage (in wear marked) that the equipment suffers is at the GM’s discretion based on where you are and what you’re smashing through, although it defaults to 1-wear.

For Hardy, “journeying to a new clearing” includes both through paths and through forest.

For Strong Draw, you must mark 2-exhaustion to ignore the enemy’s armor— you cannot mark exhaustion just for the armor-piercing effect without the additional 1-injury.

For Guardian, “defending someone” means that you are actively trying to keep them from harm caused by an immediate danger—not hypothetical harm, not harm in the future, but harm right now. “Draw the attention of the threat” means that, as long as it’s a conscious threat, it’s now a danger more for you than for your protectee. “Push the threat back” means that you create an opportunity where you and your protectee are not in immediate danger and can try to maneuver to safety.

For Brute, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET TAKE UP THE CALL,
THEN CHOOSE ONE MORE

☒ Take Up the Call

Name two non-denizen factions: declare one to be the best hope for the Woodland (The Just) and the other evil tyrants (The Enemy). Take +1 ongoing to protect members of the Just or harm agents of the Enemy. You may switch which factions you consider to be the Just or the Enemy at the end of any session by clearing all prestige from the faction which no longer inspires you; your reputation with both factions remains the same.

The Just: _____ The Enemy: _____

Choose a role you often fill as a champion:

- ☐ Luminary: When you persuade an NPC to fight for the Just or resist the charms of the Enemy, roll with Might instead of Charm.
- ☐ Paladin: When you inflict harm on the Enemy, inflict 1 additional harm; when you suffer harm protecting the Just, suffer 1 fewer harm.
- ☐ Emissary: When you mark prestige with the Just, mark an additional prestige.

Whenever you mark notoriety with the Enemy, mark an additional notoriety.

☐ Skill Against Skill Alone

When you grapple with an enemy and roll a 12+, you may take their blows to incapacitate them; suffer their full harm to fill their exhaustion or injury track.

☐ Of the People

When your band travels down a path at a relaxing pace, roll with +1 instead of -1. On a hit, you encounter friendly faces on the journey who offer food and assistance; your band marks half as much depletion as normal. On a 7-9, the characters you meet are in a bit of trouble; they expect you to lend a hand. On a miss, a dangerous foe committed to ending your "righteousness" catches you (and your friends) unaware and unprepared.

☐ Raw Force

Take one of the following weapon skills: Disarm or Parry (it does not count against your maximum). When you use either weapon skill, you can mark exhaustion to roll with Might.

☐ A Just Cause

When you threaten an authority on behalf of the downtrodden, mark notoriety with the authority's faction and roll with Might. On a hit, the force of your defiance unnerves them; they must make a concession right now to your cause or openly attack you. On a 10+, your words are inspirational; you and your allies take a +1 ongoing against them and their allies if they attack you. On a miss, the authority reveals that the cause you champion is not as just as you were led to believe.

Notes on The Champion Moves

For Take Up the Call, pick the two factions from the list of factions included in your campaign. You can't name the Marquisate if the Marquise and her forces aren't really present in the Woodland. If you decide to change which faction you consider the Just or the Enemy, you can also change the role you fill to match your new understanding of your work as a champion. When you make the switch, remember that you always keep whatever notoriety you've accrued with the Enemy.

The +1 ongoing for protecting members of the Just or harming agents of the Enemy only covers moves directly in line with those goals. Take the +1 when you persuade an authority to release members of the Just from prison, but you can't take the +1 to trick someone into giving you access to a location that might be useful to the cause.

For Of the People, you completely replace the -1 you would normally roll when you travel along a path at a relaxing pace with a +1. Everyone still clears 3-exhaustion, and you still have to mark a total of 2-depletion. If you meet friendly faces on the path using this move, you can expect them to have already heard of your exploits as a champion of justice.

For Skill Against Skill Alone, you have to suffer the full harm they would normally inflict before you can fill their exhaustion or injury track. If you're facing a bear that normally inflicts 5-injury, you've got to mark it all—and still be standing—in order to break the bear's neck with your paws and fill its injury track.

For A Just Cause, name what you want them to do to address the problems of the downtrodden, and say what you will do if they don't act. The authority doesn't have to give in completely if they make a concession, but their offering must be in line with your threat. If they attack you, the +1 ongoing lasts for the rest of the scene.

For Raw Force, remember that your weapons must also have the weapon skill tag for disarm or parry to make use of the associated weapon move.

☐ Folklorist

Advance when you prove a local folktale or legend true or false.

☐ Mysteries

Advance when you discover the truth behind strange phenomena or goings-on within a clearing.

☐ Discovery

Advance when you encounter a new wonder or ruin in the forests.

☐ Justice

Advance when you achieve justice for someone wronged by a powerful, wealthy, or high-status individual.

CHOOSE YOUR NATURE

☐ Observer

Clear your exhaustion track when you enter a dangerous situation to try to witness a significant or secret event or meet an important individual.

☐ Activist

Clear your exhaustion track when you publicly confront the leadership of a clearing about changes you think are vital to the community's success.

Which faction have you served the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Partner

_____ and I exposed a dark secret of a faction, leading to a meaningful political change. What was it? And which member of that faction hates us for it?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Peer

I think _____ sees the truth of the world, and I value their perspective deeply. What kinds of information do they see that I often overlook?

If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Confidant

_____ trusts me implicitly, and it is very exciting for me to work through issues together. What advice have I given them that they still take to heart?

When they come to you in confidence with a problem, mark exhaustion to suggest a course of action to resolve it; if they do as you say to the best of their ability, they clear their exhaustion track.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET THE WORTH OF A BOOK,

☒ The Worth of a Book

When you study your tomes and scrolls to discover old techniques or methods to solve an intractable problem—curing a deadly disease, ending a drought, legally unseating a leader, etc—decide what you want to accomplish and tell the GM. The GM will give you between 1 to 4 conditions you must fulfill to discover a path forward, including time taken, additional information needed, mentors or translators needed, facilities/tools needed, or the limits of your solution. When you fulfill the conditions, you gain whatever knowledge you were seeking—it's up to you to put to use.

☐ An Eye for the Real Story

When you read a tense situation, mark exhaustion—even on a miss—to spot someone who knows more than they're letting on. Take a +1 ongoing to convince them to share their secrets with you when you get them in private.

☐ Search the Records

When you examine the documents, records, or assorted notes of an important NPC (your call), roll with Cunning. On a hit, you discover evidence of their secrets; the GM will tell you who would pay for the information you've uncovered. On a 10+, you also take a 12+ instead of rolling the next time you try to figure them out. On a miss, your search yields terrible news—someone is acting against you or your interests in an unexpected arena.

☐ Loremaster

When you consult your knowledge in order to understand a political conflict, roll with Cunning. On a hit, the GM tells you what information you remember that completes your understanding of the messy situation. On a 10+, you can ask a followup question; the GM will answer honestly. On a miss, something about the situation doesn't fit the history—the GM will tell you what has radically shifted.

☐ Good Advice

When you offer an NPC advice about a sticky situation, offer them the best advice you've got and roll with Cunning. On a hit, they see the wisdom of your suggestion; they have to mark exhaustion or incorporate your advice into their plans. On a 7-9, you let something about your own plans or allegiances slip as you try to help them out. On a miss, the advice angers or offends them; the GM will tell you what local custom you've overstepped with your meddling.

☐ Dedicated Scholar

Take an extra box of exhaustion (it does not count against your maximum). When you acquire a new tome or scroll documenting the history of the Woodland, clear your exhaustion track.

Notes on The Chronicler Moves

For The Worth of a Book, you are a bearer of real knowledge, a vagabond who can end a plague, reshape a clearing's infrastructure, or even reform failed institutions with knowledge that can pave a path to solve otherwise intractable problems.

- “Time taken” means the GM can tell you how long it will take to study your materials; you need a safe space to consult your tomes and scrolls for all that time, and new events may occur while you're busy.
- “Information needed,” “mentors or translators needed,” and “facilities/ tools needed” all center around additional resources or aid of a specialized nature that you need to accomplish your goal. Obtain those resources or aid to fulfill the condition. The GM will tell you what specifically you need—whether it's a general category (“a translator of Ancient Ka-Kaw”) or a specific thing or person you've heard of (“the old sage Philias Wren”).
- “The limits of your solution” means the GM can tell you in what way you can't quite manage the full extent of what you hope to accomplish; if you want to unseat an important member of the Marquisate, the GM might tell you that the limit is only removing their authority over this clearing, not removing them from power entirely. Accept that limit, and the condition is satisfied.

Once you satisfy the conditions, you earn the knowledge—a cure for the plague, a new plan for aqueducts, a legal case to establish a trade guild—but you still have to put that knowledge into practice. The cure still has to be made and distributed; the aqueducts still have to be constructed; the legal case still has to sit before a court.

For An Eye for the Real Story, you can decide to mark the exhaustion before, during, or after you read a tense situation. The GM will tell you who you discover when you mark the exhaustion; it's up to you to get them alone to get the bonus.

For Search the Records, you must make use of the information granting you the 12+ to figure someone out in a reasonable time period; if you leave the clearing and come back, the situation may have changed.

For Loremaster, you need to be explicit when triggering the move; consulting your knowledge might just look like you are thinking hard. Your knowledge of Woodland history is broad! Nearly any political conflict is a fair target of this move, since even the newest turmoil has roots in old disputes.

For Good Advice, you don't have to wait for NPCs to ask for advice—you're offering it! That said, the NPC must be someone who would consider your thoughts on the sticky situation in question. Most denizens are willing to listen to a vagabond with a good idea, but your bitter rival might shut you down before you can get a word in!

For Dedicated Scholar, acquiring a new tome or scroll filled with Woodland history effectively becomes a second nature. Whatever you get your hands on has to be a work of some significance to trigger the move!

To which faction have you given the most lucrative deals? (mark four prestige for the appropriate group)

From which faction have you stolen a treasure already? (mark two notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Friend

_____ was there to bail me out when an illicit deal went terribly wrong. How did they help me? What over-the-top gift did I use to express my gratitude?

When you help them, you can mark 2-exhaustion to give a +2, instead of 1-exhaustion for a +1.

Partner

_____ and I worked together to bring a treasure to a faction, succeeding despite another faction trying to sabotage us. What did we recover for the faction we helped?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Ex-Convict

_____ were framed and imprisoned by a faction. Name that faction. We're always on the lookout for the real criminal. Who was it that set us up?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-notoriety with one faction. When you read a tense situation, you can always ask "What is most valuable here?" for free, even on a miss. Both you and your connection get a +1 when acting on any of your answers.

Playbook Moves

☒ Whisper Network

At the start of play—or when time passes—name an active faction, and roll with Cunning. On a hit, your network gives you a lead on a treasure desired by a high-status member of that faction, someone who is willing to pay fairly (roughly 6-Value per member of your band) and guarantee your safety upon delivering the treasure; the GM picks up to two:

- the treasure is in a hard-to-reach area (ex: a forest ruin, far-off clearing, etc.)
- the treasure is held securely by another faction or vagabond
- the treasure is in a particularly dangerous location

On a 10+, the treasure is extremely valuable to the faction...so much that another faction (GM's choice) would pay to keep it out of their hands. On a miss, someone approaches you—on behalf of a powerful patron from the faction—to demand you secure for them an item you had previously sold to a different faction; take the job or mark 3-notoriety and make an enemy of the patron.

☒ Investments!

You start play with 10-value of gold earmarked for Investments. When you invest at least 5-Value worth of coin into expanding your business interests in a clearing, choose one Investment for purchase. You can select any available Investment, but some Investments require you to buy a cheaper version before upgrading to the more expensive version. You can only purchase one new Investment from each level (5-Value, 10-Value, 15-Value) at a time; you have to wait for time to pass before investing again.

☐ Market Research

When you figure someone out, you can always ask (even on a miss), “What does your character desperately need?” Take +1 when acting on the answer.

☐ Always Be Crowing

Take +1 Cunning (max+3).

☐ Dishonest Scales

Gain the roguish feats Pick Pocket and Sleight of Hand (they don't count against your limit). When you attempt a roguish feat as part of a conspiracy to defraud someone of an asset or holding, roll with Cunning instead of Finesse.

☐ Better Part of Valor

When you dramatically feign death during a fight in a way that puts you out of reach—falling off a cliff, casting yourself into the river, etc.—roll with Cunning. On a hit, your opposition falls for your ruse, and you live to fight another day. On a 7-9, you also lose something precious—coin, a weapon, etc. On a miss, the ruse fails: you suffer 2-injury...and your enemies are still right on your tail!

Notes on The Dealer Moves

For Whisper Network, the move itself represents the network of contacts you've built up across the Woodland to keep you clued in to who needs what. The faction you name doesn't have to be friendly; even a bitter enemy could desperately want something, and if you're hoping to make amends, bringing a valuable object is a great way to do it! The GM always picks exactly what you're being asked to recover, by which specific person, and the conditions that complicate your retrieval (up to two from the list). On a 10+, whatever you're seeking is extraordinarily valuable to the faction in question...which means other factions would pay to keep it out of their paws. The advantage of a 10+ is that you get a bit of a choice of which faction to deliver the object to, and you can even try to set up a bidding war! The second faction is always willing to meet or beat the original price, and the first faction might be willing to raise the price as well...but those negotiations will have to be handled in person. On a miss, the item you had previously sold to another faction can be something you sold during the course of the campaign, or it can be something you sold before the game even began. Work with the GM to make those details make sense.

For Investments!, keep in mind the key restrictions: you can only make any given investment for each individual clearing a single time; you often will have to buy a lower-level investment before upgrading to a higher-level one; you can only invest in increments of 5, 10, or 15 Value; and at any given time, you can only purchase one investment at each increment. If you want to make more investments, you'll have to return after time passes. This move gives you 10-Value for investments to start; you can spend it when you make your character, or wait until the right time. You can't use it for any other purpose. You can supplement that 10-Value with additional coin you earn elsewhere.

For Market Research, keep in mind you can always ask the question whenever you figure someone out. It does not count against the total number of questions you can ask when you figure someone out.

For Always Be Crowing, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

For Dishonest Scales, attempting a roguish feat as "part of a conspiracy to defraud someone of an asset or holding" means that you're trying to steal something by talking or tricking someone, and it isn't a spur of the moment decision. If you have a plan to steal something from someone—and it involves trickery as opposed to simply breaking and entering—you can consider it part of a conspiracy to defraud someone of an asset or holding.

For Better Part of Valor, you must put yourself out of reach. If you feign death but leave yourself where your foes can actually check you, then this move doesn't trigger. You've got to dramatically throw yourself off a balcony or into a raging river! The GM tells you what you lost on a 7-9, imposing any cost that makes sense. On any hit, your foes won't search for you, at least for long enough for you to collect your wits and get away.

Dealer Investment List

5-Value Investments

LOCAL TOUGHS: You've got a group of local denizens on call; mark 2-depletion to call on their help for a scene (small mob, 3 boxes of each type, deal x2 average harm).

ENDORSEMENT: A local leader or celebrity is openly favorable toward you; take +1 ongoing to Reputation moves with their faction in this clearing.

EYES & EARS: You have a local info broker friendly to your work; take +1 when you roll Whisper Network in this (or adjacent) clearings.

FIRE SALE: A local vendor tries to impress you with a deep discount on a useful item; work with the GM to craft a piece of equipment (8-value) you can purchase for only 5-Value.

RISKY LOAN: You make a loan to a local entrepreneur; when time passes, roll with Luck. On a hit, they repay you with interest (10-Value). On a 7-9, their business—and your investment—has attracted the attention of a local faction leader, GM's choice. On a miss, they've fled the clearing to avoid paying you back, but you have a lead on where they went...

10-Value Investments

HARDY ENFORCERS: (upgrades Local Toughs) You've instead got a larger group of hardy enforcers at your beck and call; mark 2-depletion to call on their help for a scene (medium mob, 5 boxes of each harm type, deals x3 average harm).

KNOW THE TERRITORY: You establish yourself as a patron of a local historian. When you consult the custodian of lore about a fabled treasure in the area, roll with Cunning. On a 7–9, ask 1. On a 10+, ask 3. Take +1 ongoing when acting on the answers.

- What dangers or risks are associated with the treasure?
- What other powerful people would be interested in the treasure?
- What stories are told of those who have sought the treasure?
- How is the treasure connected to _____?

FRIENDS IN HIGH PLACES: (upgrades Endorsement) An influential bureaucrat in the clearing also owes you some favor; when you or your friends draw unwanted attention from the authorities, mark exhaustion to have your bureaucrat make the attention or evidence go away.

BRICK AND MORTAR: You establish a physical storefront in the clearing with legal goods on display—and a secure backroom for other dealings. While you are within your establishment, roll with +1 when you attempt a roguish feat, figure someone out, persuade an NPC, read a tense situation, or trick an NPC.

LENDING HOUSE: (upgrades Risky Loan) You are known within the clearing as a moneylender; each time you visit this clearing, you can call in a Risky Loan your agents gave to a local business in your absence.

15-Value Investments

EAGER APPRENTICE: You have secured a vagabond apprentice, someone who you one day hope to inherit your empire. Make a second PC; work with the GM to include the new character into the band. You can't help or interfere with your own characters.

ONE OF US: (upgrades Friends in High Places) Your increasing influence earns you acclaim and respect from all who live here. Specify one significant change you make to the clearing using your newfound power; whenever you roll your Reputation with someone who calls this clearing home, treat your Reputation as a +3.

A FEAST FOR CROWS: You and your fellow vagabonds arrange for a day of feasts and celebration, earning you the favor of the clearing's controlling faction. Each vagabond clears all notoriety with that faction and either sets their Reputation to +0 or marks 10-prestige. No member of your band can have a -3 Reputation with the faction you're impressing to purchase this Investment.

SHOWROOM: (upgrades Brick & Mortar) Rather than sell the treasures you acquire, you can install them into your showroom. Each treasure installed this way earns you 5-prestige with each active faction in the Woodland and clears your exhaustion track.

Your Drives

☐ Diplomacy

Advance when you aid in forging a treaty, diplomatic venture, or formal agreement between two (or more) conflicting groups.

☐ Ambition

Advance when you increase your reputation with any faction.

☐ Greed

Advance when you secure a serious payday or treasure.

☐ Discord

Advance when your actions create or intensify a serious conflict between two factions.

☐ _____

☐ _____

☐ Agent

Clear your exhaustion track when you convince someone influential to allow you to represent their interests.

☐ Sworn

Clear your exhaustion track when you openly commit to resolve a dangerous conflict on behalf of someone vulnerable.

☐ _____

Background

Where do you call home?

- ☐ _____ Clearing
- ☐ The forest
- ☐ A place far from here
- ☐ _____

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I am called to serve a noble cause
- ☐ I want to make a name for myself with every faction
- ☐ I hold no loyalty save to the highest bidder
- ☐ I have many conflicting loyalties
- ☐ I seek the truth behind an ally's disappearance
- ☐ _____

Whom have you left behind?

- ☐ my commander
- ☐ my family
- ☐ my loved one
- ☐ my master
- ☐ my mentor
- ☐ _____

Which faction have you served the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Watcher

_____ reminds me of a powerful political figure of the Woodland. Whom do they resemble? Why is the resemblance so striking to me?

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Peer

_____ and I negotiated a truce between two warring parties within a clearing. Why were they so important to closing the deal?

If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Loyalist

I'm supposed to be neutral, but I see how _____ has benefited from serving one faction well, so I bettered my connection with them. What faction is it and who is my contact inside?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you once served together. When you ask for a favor from that faction, you may mark 2-exhaustion to take 10+ instead of rolling.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET DIPLomat, THEN CHOOSE TWO MORE

☒ Diplomat ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

You are known across the Woodland as an accomplished diplomat; you have a track (Diplomat) to reflect your professional reputation, starting at a +1. When you raise your reputation with any faction, raise Diplomat; when you lower your reputation with any faction, lower Diplomat. You cannot lower Diplomat below +0 or raise it above +3.

- Mark exhaustion to use Diplomat when you ask for a favor or meet someone important for the first time, regardless of the faction of your target.
- When you persuade or figure out an important NPC while acting on behalf of another—not you or your band—roll with Diplomat instead of Charm.

☐ Fancy Meeting You Here

When you carouse in a popular locale, roll with Luck. On a hit, you meet a lackey of a powerful faction in the area—the GM will tell you what they do for the faction, and you tell the GM when and how you met them in the past. On a 10+, they get sloppy: they let a secret slip about the faction's plans or offer to introduce you to the faction's leaders on friendly terms. On a miss, someone who is looking for you finds you first.

☐ Turncoat

You gain the roguish feats Blindside and Counterfeit (they do not count against your maximum). When you attempt a roguish feat to blindside someone who trusts you, roll with Cunning instead of Finesse.

☐ Plots and Schemes

Take +1 Cunning (max+3).

☐ Trust In Me

When you soothe or placate an angry NPC, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you calm their rage. On a 7-9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 2:

- They reveal an unexpected vulnerability
- They hesitate in their fury; you create an opportunity
- They take you further into their confidence

On a miss, you can only calm them by redirecting their frustrations.

☐ Kiss the Ring

When you exit a meeting with someone rich or powerful, say you took a few of their things and roll with Cunning. On a hit, the GM tells you what valuable or interesting item you got. On a 7-9, it will be missed, but not until you are gone; mark notoriety with that faction. On a miss, they're going to notice; mark 2-notoriety with that faction and either run or come up with a good excuse.

Notes on The Envoy Moves

You can use Diplomat instead of the normal stat when you meet the conditions listed, effectively leveraging your professional reputation over your personal reputation or natural attributes. You are “acting on behalf of another” anytime you are working for an NPC instead of yourself, even if you expect to benefit from their success.

For Fancy Meeting You Here, you need time to carouse and indulge long enough to meet someone of note. You can suggest a faction, seeking out one particular group, but ultimately the lackey you encounter is detailed by the GM. On a hit, you establish the relationship, but it’s still up to you to figure out, persuade, or trick your new mark.

For Turncoat, the denizen who trusts you must believe you are on their side long enough to turn their back or reveal a weakness in their defenses. It’s unlikely anyone you just met trusts you, unless you’ve tricked them into thinking you’re someone they already know or someone loyal to the same cause or faction.

For Plots and Schemes, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

For Trust in Me, the peace you grant an NPC on a hit lasts only for a scene or two. As soon as the situation flares up again, the NPC will return to their rage. No matter how long the reprieve, however, the other benefits you gain are generally more permanent. The vulnerability they reveal remains true beyond their anger, and the trust they place in you when they take you further into their confidence remains until you betray it. The opportunity you create when they hesitate is more transient, based on that moment, but it’s always possible a job opportunity might remain on the table past that scene.

For Kiss the Ring, you establish that you swiped a few things after the scene in which you met with someone wealthy or powerful; you don’t have to decide in advance that you’re stealing. If you score a full hit, you get away clean, but a weak hit means someone not only noticed the theft, but also directly associated the larceny with you. On a miss, you may have swiped something valuable— the GM will tell you—but whatever you took matters enough that the folks you stole it from notice right away, even if it’s effectively worthless. Mark the notoriety regardless of how you react to their discovery of your thieving...and make your decision to run or lie quickly!

Protector

I see greatness in _____ that I wish to nurture...and perhaps turn to my own purposes. What is it about them that inspires me so?

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Family

_____ sheltered me in the earliest days of my exile when I was at my most vulnerable. Why did they offer me such kindness in my moment of need?

When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion tracks.

Rival

I envy _____ for their abilities, but they've never exceeded me in what really matters. What do I do better than them? Where to they excel where I come up short?

When you challenge them to take a completely unnecessary and excessive risk to prove themselves, they take +1 forward to accept and meet your provocation; if they decline, they mark exhaustion instead.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET KNOWN BY ALL,

☒ Known By All

When you first encounter an important NPC from your former faction, you may declare them to be an old ally—choose and mark one unmarked option from the list below instead of meeting someone important—and roll.

- ☐ They shared your political networks; roll with +1.
- ☐ You worked closely with them for years; roll with +2.
- ☐ They were a loyal friend or dutiful servitor; roll with +3.

On a hit, their loyalty has not diminished; they offer whatever aid they can, even risking their own reputation and safety. On a 7-9, they can only assist you if they can pretend you forced their hand and cover their tracks when you leave; mark as much notoriety with their faction as you added to your roll. On a miss, your attempt to reconnect only reveals your desperation; mark as much notoriety as you added to your roll and know that those who hunt you will be here soon.

When you have marked all three options, clear them all; your agents will tell you of an opportunity to redeem yourself in the eyes of your faction now that they know you are still active.

☐ I Bring You...

When you spend time talking to the denizens of a clearing, mark exhaustion to learn what vital resource or fugitive the powers-that-be seek. When you deliver a vital resource or prisoner to a faction, you may ask for a favor from the faction as if you rolled a 12+ in addition to marking prestige. If your reputation with that faction is already +2 or greater, you may instead sway the NPC whose cause you most directly benefited with your contribution as if you rolled a 12+.

☐ Above it All

When you trick an NPC into granting you access or information by pretending to be a high-ranking faction leader, roll with Charm instead of Cunning.

☐ Born to Be a King

Take +1 Charm (max+3).

☐ Greatest of the Age

When you engage an enemy in melee, you take all four options and one for double effect when you roll a 12+.

☐ Fancy Paper

You gain the roguish feat Counterfeit (it does not count against your maximum). When you attempt a roguish feat to produce counterfeit documents using your intimate knowledge of your home faction's politics and procedures, mark notoriety with that faction to make the move as if you had rolled a 12+.

Alternate Playbook Moves

(MAX: 2)

Notes on The Exile Moves

For Known by All, you can only declare an NPC an old ally the first time you meet them; remember that this move completely replaces meeting someone important when you use it. Other PCs in your band may still meet someone important, but you're declaring that you definitely know this particular figure! If you get a 7–9, you immediately mark the notoriety; the ally starts the ruse right then and there, possibly requiring you to play along as a threatening outcast who is forcing their hand.

The agents who come forward with an opportunity after you've marked all three options don't have to be the same characters you're declaring as old allies. You may have other members of your former faction who want to see you return to power! The GM details those agents and their relationship to you.

For Above It All, you don't have to claim to be a member of your former faction. As long as you're tricking someone by pretending to be a high-ranking member of an active Woodland faction, you can use the move.

For I Bring You..., the information you gather by marking exhaustion is the result of you asking around about the current gossip. If you deliver a vital resource or prisoner to a faction without asking around first, you can still ask for a favor as if you rolled a 12+.

For Born To Be A King, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

For Greatest of the Age, you get all the options listed while engaging an enemy in melee on a 12+ and one option a second time. If you “inflict serious (+1) harm” or “suffer little (–1) harm” for double effect, then you get a +2-harm or –2-harm modifier to the outcome; if you “shift your range one step” for double effect, then you shift your range twice. Selecting “impress, dismay, or frighten your foe” for double effect indicates that you greatly shake the will and resolve of your opposition, perhaps inflicting additional morale harm or just scaring them off entirely; the GM details the full effect.

For Fancy Paper, you are using your knowledge of terminology, style, patterns, insignias and so on—nothing that requires any special equipment to replicate. The GM may still have you mark depletion to pull together the basic supplies like ink, paper, wax, and other accoutrements necessary for the ruse, as with any Counterfeit attempt.

Which faction most recognizes your skill as a culinary genius? (set your reputation with them to +1)

Which faction wishes to claim your service? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Friend

_____ always helped provide me with the ingredients I needed in exchange for a square meal...though they never hesitated to tell me when my recipes needed work. What is the strangest thing they brought me?

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Family

Once, I took care of _____ helping them find their feet and keeping them sustained, but now they resist me trying to care for them. What happened between us?

When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion tracks.

Confidant

_____ always opens up to me over a hot meal. I really enjoy being a source of comfort and inspiration to them. What is their favorite food that will always get them to talk?

When they come to you in confidence with a problem, mark exhaustion to suggest a course of action to resolve it; if they do as you say to the best of their ability, they clear their exhaustion track.

Playbook Moves

☒ Herbs & Spices

When you assess appropriate surroundings for ingredients, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you spy something useful; the GM will tell you what ingredient you spot (1-Value+), and how you might harvest it safely. On a 10+, it's extremely valuable, worth at least 3-Value. On a miss, you can't find anything you can convince yourself is acceptable; mark 2-exhaustion.

☒ Recipe for Success

When you try to cook an impressive meal, roll with Finesse. On a hit, the meal is finished; choose BENEFITS for the eater(s) equal to the ingredients' Value and 1 cost. On a 10+, the meal is exceptionally impressive; choose an additional 2 benefits. On a miss, things go embarrassingly awry; mark 3-exhaustion and finish the meal (choosing benefits as normal) or you cannot clear exhaustion until the next time you successfully cook an impressive meal, your choice.

BENEFITS:

- Clear 2-exhaustion (can be chosen twice)
- clear 1-injury (can be chosen twice)
- achieve clarity—the GM provides insight on your problems
- your heart is lifted—clear all morale (NPCs) or gain +1 ongoing to achieve a goal this session (PCs)

COSTS:

- It takes a lot of time
- mark 2-depletion
- mark 2-exhaustion
- mark 1-injury

☒ Excellent Service

When you serve an impressive meal to an important NPC, roll with Charm. On a hit, your entire service impresses them alongside the meal; they express their gratitude. Choose 1 from below. On a 10+, they feel incredibly grateful to you; choose 2 from below. If the meal you served was exceptionally impressive, choose an additional 1 from below. Each option below can be chosen twice.

- they will answer a question truthfully
- they will spread word of your greatness; take 3-prestige with their faction
- they will counter word of your misdeeds; erase 2-notoriety with their faction
- they will provide you with a gift worth 2-Value
- they will provide you help as if you had rolled a 10+ to ask them for a favor

☐ The Perfect Fillet

Take the weapon skill Vicious Strike (it does not count against your advancement limit). When you use Vicious Strike with a kitchen implement, roll with Finesse instead of Might.

☐ Campfire Cook

When you engage an enemy in melee, you take all four options and one for double effect when you roll a 12+.

☐ Renown Culinary Master

When you persuade an NPC with a promise of an impressive meal, you may add your Reputation with their faction in addition to your Charm (max +4).

Notes on The Gourmand Moves

For Herbs & Spices, you can only evaluate any given area once until time passes again; you can't simply assess an area over and over. The Value of the ingredients is real; you could try to sell them! But for a Gourmand, it's most useful for Recipe for Success, guaranteeing you a baseline Value without having to spend any additional Value. The ingredients you find with this move can feed approximately 4-5 eaters.

For Recipe for Success, you can try to cook an impressive meal with any ingredients, but the more valuable the ingredients, the more likely you are to be able to provide many benefits. Work the GM if you're unclear on the Value of your ingredients for any given meal; the Value should reflect the quality of the ingredients for about four or so eaters. If you are serving a vast banquet, for example, the Value spent on the overall feast would obviously be higher just because you must work with more food—but for this move, pay attention only to the average Value for four or so eaters. That said, even if you are serving a great feast (and have enough ingredients to do so), this move provides its benefits to everyone who eats. The effects go straight to the eater; they are the ones who clear exhaustion or gain insight, for example. On a miss, you can always choose to finish the meal as normal so long as you have the exhaustion to mark; if you don't mark the exhaustion, then the meal is a mess that provides no benefits, and you cannot clear exhaustion for any reason or by any means until you use this move successfully again.

For Excellent Service, you do not have to be serving a meal you cooked to trigger the move...but the meal must be impressive, and the NPC must be important. This move only covers the quality of your actual service, acting as a waiter for them. Keep in mind that if you get a 10+, each option may be chosen twice. Note that the move has no specific miss condition; the GM gets to say what happens on a miss based on what fits the situation, including being interrupted or making a terrible faux pas during your service of the meal.

For The Perfect Filet, a kitchen implement is any tool you would use, first and foremost, to cook! You can have a knife that is especially sharp, but if it's intended as a combat knife, then it's not a kitchen implement anymore.

For Campfire Cook, vagabonds are "resting rough" any time that they are sleeping out in the forest, along a path, or otherwise without safe, built lodgings. You can use this to supplement one of the travel moves appropriately, or any time that the vagabonds take in a meal in appropriate circumstances. The "additional 2-exhaustion" they can clear is in addition to whatever the move or the normal meal would allow them to clear.

For Renowned Culinary Master, remember that the max bonus of +4 applies to the total of your Charm and your Reputation. To persuade an NPC with the promise of an impressive meal, they do have to have some awareness of who you are and believe that you can actually provide that meal.

☐ Parkour

When you dash your way through a chaotic scene or fight, roll with Finesse. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 2. Spend your hold 1-for-1 to dash to something within sight and reach without being stopped, or to dash away from something nearby without being stopped. You can dash away from an enemy even at the moment they attack. On a miss, your surroundings trip you up, and you're caught in place while danger closes in.

☐ Traveler Extraordinaire

When you travel along the paths to another clearing, you can always give +1 to the roll or clear 2-exhaustion, your choice. When you travel through the forest to another clearing, you can always give +1 to the roll or clear 2-depletion, your choice. In both cases, before you arrive at the next clearing, you can ask the GM any two questions about the next clearing, based on what you remember from your last time through.

☐ Cross Country

Take one extra box of exhaustion (it does not count against your maximum). When your exhaustion track is full and you must mark exhaustion, you may choose to mark an equivalent amount of injury instead of being removed from the situation or going unconscious.

☐ Fleet of Foot and Hand

Take +1 Finesse (max+3).

☐ Don't Shoot the Messenger

Take the Counterfeit roguish feat (it does not count against your maximum.) When you pretend to be an innocuous messenger carrying a missive of import to trick someone, roll with Luck instead of Cunning.

☐ Fancy Paper

You've got a good sense for finding secret paths and doors. When you spend time looking for a secret way in or out of a place that might have one, mark exhaustion and roll with Luck. On a hit, you find a hidden path—the GM will detail it and to where it leads. On a 10+, there's something along or inside the path of value to you—the GM will tell you what. On a miss, you find a secret path...and someone else is using it right this second. They probably won't be happy you found their secret.

Notes on The Harrier Moves

For Cross Country, the injury you mark represents pushing your body past its limits. You cannot soak this injury with armor.

For Fleet of Foot and Hand, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

For Don't Shoot the Messenger, remember that the "Counterfeit" roguish feat granted by this move doesn't count against your maximum total allowed through advancement (six feats). You don't have to have a counterfeit message in your possession to "pretend to be an innocuous messenger."

For Parkour, whatever hold you generate from the move, you may continue to spend as you choose throughout the duration of the scene. Once the chaos is over, any remaining hold is lost. You can spend your hold to move to places "within sight and reach." "Within sight" means you must either be able to see them or know they are there; "within reach" means you must feasibly be able to reach them within a few seconds of very fast, skilled movement. If you "dash away from an enemy at the moment they attack," you spend a hold and automatically shift ranges, and their attack misses (unless they can still reach you).

For Traveler Extraordinaire, make the choice of adding +1 or clearing 2-exhaustion or 2-depletion before the roll, but after any other expenditures you make—if the results of the move allow you to clear exhaustion or depletion, you can clear the exhaustion or depletion you just marked for the roll. When you ask two questions of the GM about the next clearing, the answers the GM gives you only refer to what you can recall; things very well may have changed since last you were there.

For Smuggler's Path, you can only make the move in a place that might have a secret path. The GM determines if the place might have a secret path; if it couldn't have a secret path, the GM tells you that and you don't need to mark exhaustion. On a miss, you still find the path and the GM will ultimately detail it as a hit, but you have to deal with the other denizen inside it first.

Your Drives

☐ Principles

Advance when you express or embody your moral principles at great cost to yourself or your allies.

☐ Devotion

You follow an organized or folk religion; name it and describe its beliefs. Advance when you get a non-believer to share in one of your beliefs or practices.

☐ Freedom

Advance when you free a group of denizens from oppression.

☐ Antimilitarist

Advance when you sabotage a non-denizen faction's armies or their ability to wage war.

CHOOSE YOUR NATURE

☐ Believer

Clear your exhaustion track when you publicly call out a symbol or authority dedicated to beliefs opposed to yours.

☐ Healer

Clear your exhaustion track when you attempt to start a dialogue between two foes from different factions.

☐ _____

Background

Where do you call home?

- ☐ _____ Clearing
- ☐ The forest
- ☐ A place far from here
- ☐ _____

What are the fundamental tenets of your cause? (pick 2)

- ☐ To overturn a tradition
- ☐ To exalt the worthy
- ☐ To unseat the corrupt
- ☐ To uplift the downtrodden
- ☐ To destroy a falsehood
- ☐ _____

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I must make amends for my past
- ☐ I want to bring my truth to all
- ☐ I seek still greater understanding
- ☐ I'm being hunted by the powerful
- ☐ _____

Whom have you left behind?

- ☐ my devotee
- ☐ my guru
- ☐ my family
- ☐ my secret love
- ☐ _____

Which faction is known to hate those who share your cause? (set your reputation with them to -1)

Which faction is known to harbor those who share your cause? (set your reputation with them to +1)

Your Connections

Protector

_____ has come to share my beliefs; I must stand with them, no matter the cost. What happened to us that convinced them of the wisdom of my cause?

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Watcher

_____ was once hurt greatly by someone who shared my cause. Why do I think I might still win them over? What have I already tried to do to earn their trust?

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Confidant

_____ asks thoughtful questions about themselves and the world; I believe the more I can influence them, the better off they will be. What about them do I perceive as a weakness?

When they come to you in confidence with a problem, mark exhaustion to suggest a course of action to resolve it; if they do as you say to the best of their ability, they clear their exhaustion track.

☒ Friends Indeed

When you first seek out those who share your cause after arriving in a clearing, roll with Charm. On a hit, you find one or two; they provide what they can in service to your collective work. On a 7-9, they also tell you about a threat to your shared ideology that has arisen in the clearing. On a miss, you are caught by someone in the clearing who openly despises your kind.

☒ Hear Me

When you give an inspiring speech to a persuadable crowd in the service of your cause, mark exhaustion and roll with Charm. On a hit, you sway them; pick 2. On a 7-9, you must put yourself at the crowd's mercy and lead them directly for them to follow through.

- They tear down an opposing symbol
- They overthrow a vulnerable tyrant
- They destroy the trappings of tradition
- They elevate someone overlooked
- They deliver justice to the wicked

On a miss, the crowd is moved to action but ignores your guidance, leading to terrible consequences.

☐ Destroy Something Beautiful

When you wreck a false idol or symbol of oppression alongside your allies, roll with Charm instead of Might; you and all your allies clear an exhaustion, even on a miss.

☐ Center of the Universe

Take +1 Charm (max+3).

☐ Devilish Charm

When you trick an NPC you've previously aided or impressed, mark exhaustion to make the move as if you had rolled a 12+, instead of rolling.

☐ You Shall Not Pass

When you plant yourself in the way of your enemies, roll with Charm. On a hit, your foes cannot get past you until they take you down—brace yourself. On a 10+ choose 1. On a 7-9, choose 2:

- You suffer +1 harm from all your enemies' attacks
- A single enemy (GM's choice) slips past you
- You cannot retreat from your position

On a miss, your enemies find or create a new way past you that makes your situation far worse.

Notes on The Heretic Moves

For Friends Indeed, whatever denizens you find are true believers like you, but they may be keeping their allegiance to your cause quiet to avoid trouble. Few of them will be vagabonds whose outcast status insulates them from the consequences of being outspoken, and just as few will be members of other factions who must keep their beliefs well hidden to remain in their positions. The sympathetic ordinary denizens you find will often know better than to flaunt their odd beliefs.

For Hear Me, the crowd must be persuadable! In other words, you must have a reasonable chance at moving them to action. You can't use this move to turn the Marquisate army against its leaders unless you have some way of making that army susceptible to your words and your cause. If you must put yourself at the crowd's mercy and lead them, you must join them in the work you've called them to do and expose yourself as a main leader of the movement.

For Destroy Something Beautiful, you need at least one other accomplice for this move to trigger. You can't wreck something by yourself using this move.

For Devilish Charm, you're working the long game when you trick someone you helped or impressed. You've got to have earned at least a bit of their trust in a previous scene or encounter to take advantage of it later!

For You Shall Not Pass, you've got to have a reasonable chance of holding off your enemies with your position, like on a bridge or at some other chokepoint like a doorway or a hallway. It doesn't have to be a perfect block to their progress, but you can't stop them in a big open field! If you choose to suffer additional harm, every attack against you inflicts additional harm until you abandon your position; if you choose that you can't retreat, it means your avenue of escape is cut off...and your only options are victory or defeat.

For Center of the Universe, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

Watcher

I have doubts about _____ and their motivations ever since they harmed some denizens with their actions. What did they do, exactly? Why don't they seem to feel they did something wrong?

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Peer

_____ assisted me in dealing with a dangerous monster that had come to threaten a whole clearing. What did we defeat? How did we defeat it? Why doesn't the clearing feel more indebted to us?

If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Refugee

I was with _____ when [Clearing] _____ was destroyed, though I lost track of them for many years and don't care to speak about it. What happened to our home?

You and your connection are from a clearing that no longer exists. You both share a common cultural practice; when you mark depletion to practice it publicly, a local denizen—either another survivor like yourselves or someone sympathetic to your loss—comes forward to offer you comfort and aid.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET TRAPS AND SNARES,

☒ Traps and Snares

When you spend time setting up traps in an area, roll with Finesse. On a hit, mark any amount of depletion (min. 1) to create a Traps item with wear equal to twice the depletion marked. On a 10+, the Traps have +4 wear. Mark wear on the Traps to establish a trap at any range to a foe in the area—you can engage in melee or target with the trap, or mark wear again to use a weapon skill, rolling +0 in all cases. If the move tells you to suffer harm instead mark wear on the Traps. If a trap inflicts harm, mark wear on the Traps to inflict +1 harm. On a miss, you discover a serious problem; you can't set up traps until you deal with it.

☐ Follow the Trail

When you track someone or something, roll with Cunning. On a 10+, you have a clear sense of where they are going; the GM will tell you where. On a 7-9, the trail is fleeting or the target is on the move; if you don't follow immediately, you won't find their final destination. On a miss, the GM will tell you what new danger comes upon you while you investigate the trail.

☐ Slayer of Beasts

Mark exhaustion and 2-notoriety with a target's faction to make a pointed threat as per the Reputation Move, rolling with Might instead of Reputation.

☐ Waste Not

When you scavenge through the remains of a recent battle to find hidden items, mark 2-notoriety with the faction of anyone present and connected to the remains, then roll with Finesse. On a 7-9, choose 1; on a 10+, both.

- you find some valuable items (3-6-Value); the GM tells you how much
- you find an item useful to you right now; the GM tells you how it helps

On a miss, you find a few smaller hidden things (1 or 2-Value) but you are haunted by what you've done and seen; mark 2-exhaustion.

☐ Poultices, Ointments, and Brews

When you have time, you can make useful potions. You may spend depletion, 1-for-1, to prep concoctions, each with a single effect upon consumption. Choose:

- Healing: Mark exhaustion to clear 1-injury.
- Awareness: Mark exhaustion to ask a question from read a tense situation.
- Energy: Clear all exhaustion; at the end of the scene, mark 2-injury.
- Quickness: Mark exhaustion to speedily change your range from a foe.
- Fury: Mark exhaustion to fill yourself with a chemical rage and inflict an additional 1-injury the next time you inflict harm this scene.

☐ A Hunter's Look

You built a reputation as an effective professional. When you meet someone important for the first time, if you approach as a hunter, you may mark notoriety with their faction to roll at +1 instead of your Reputation.

Alternate Playbook Moves

(MAX: 2)

Notes on The Hunter Moves

For Traps & Snares, you are spending time and resources (through depletion) to set up a series of traps, and then revealing them as you need them. The single Traps item you create is just a representation of all the traps you have left throughout the area. When you establish a trap, you can say that the trap is at any range to your target to ensure you can use whatever move you want. You can either engage in melee or target a foe just by establishing the trap at the cost of 1-depletion, but any other weapon move you use costs an additional 1-depletion. You must be trained in any weapon skill move you try to use with your Traps. Using your Traps can never cause you to suffer additional harm; be sure to only mark such harm as wear on the Traps item. By default, any given trap deals 1-injury in harm, but you can mark an additional wear on the Traps item to have it deal +1-injury, and if the GM agrees, any given trap might deal exhaustion or depletion harm based on its form. Each trap is usually a single-use trap; if you want to attack with a trap again, you'll have to establish a new one by marking another wear on your Traps item.

For Follow the Trail, a 10+ guarantees you full knowledge about exactly where they are going. You are then free to act on that knowledge at your discretion. A 7-9, however, requires you to act and follow them immediately to find out where they are going; if you do not, they escape, and you won't be able to find them.

For Slayer of Beasts, the only requirements to make a pointed threat are marking the exhaustion and the notoriety; you do not need -3 Reputation with their faction. When you roll with Might, simply roll as normal instead of inverting it the way you would have inverted your Reputation. Read more about this move on page 118 of the Root: The RPG core book.

For Waste Not, you can only use this move if the battle was "recent." That is a relative assessment, and the GM is the final arbiter of whether or not the site of the battle is fresh enough to offer you opportunities. In general, no battle older than a week could be considered "recent." A battle usually means a fight of the Woodland War between at least two factions, but it might also include a battle against a beast, or some kind of disastrous internal conflict. You only mark 2-notoriety if someone of the factions involved in the fight is looking on; they are disgusted by you rooting through the remains of their compatriots. If no one connected to a faction involved in the conflict is around, you can loot freely.

For Poultices, Ointments, and Brews, you must have time to prepare concoctions. You do not have any concoctions unless you explicitly spend the time and resources to brew them. They provide their effect to any character who imbibes them, and they are consumed when used.

For A Hunter's Look, you use the value of +1 instead of your Reputation when you identify yourself as a hunter before meeting someone important for the first time. It entirely replaces your Reputation value, whatever it might be.

Background

Why do you wander?

- ☐ I was born into a nomadic community of fellow wanderers
- ☐ My desire for knowledge transcends all borders
- ☐ I am on a cultural pilgrimage
- ☐ I have not yet found a place to call my own
- ☐ I seek to find a loved one who left me behind
- ☐ My homeland is no more

Why do you travel with the band?

- ☐ I have sworn to serve this band, for their good and for mine
- ☐ I am consistently entertained by their antics and adventures
- ☐ They know the Woodland well, and I see them as guides
- ☐ They are destined for greatness, and I want to see their rise

Protector

I think _____ is still wet behind the ears. If they're going to survive, they're going to need me looking out for them. What am I intent on teaching them?

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Watcher

I was passing through a clearing when I saw _____ doing something truly brave and deeply foolish. Which one was it? What did I learn from it?

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Enabler

_____ is a sucker for a good story, and I know exactly how to manipulate them. What is my go-to move?

When you plead with them to join you in reckless action and they agree, they take +1 ongoing to follow the plan in addition to clearing exhaustion.

Playbook Moves

☒ Itchy Feet

When you put your past experiences on the road to use solving a problem, mark a condition below to take a 10+ instead of rolling on any move:

- ☐ Bored: cross out a box of exhaustion; you can't clear it. Learn a new skill or tradition from a local to clear Bored.
- ☐ Irritable: take -2 to persuading NPCs. Experience a new relaxing or luxurious local custom to clear Irritable.
- ☐ Lethargic: take -2 to tricking an NPC. Enjoy a new stimulating or exciting local amusement to clear Lethargic.
- ☐ Distracted: take -2 to attempting roguish feats. Help a local denizen complete a laborious, mundane project to clear Distracted.

When you leave a clearing and hit the open road, clear one of your marked conditions and give the group +1 forward to their chosen travel move.

☒ Stranger in a Strange Land

When you wander about a clearing by yourself to observe the locals and their customs, roll with Luck. On a 7–9, ask one. On a 10+, ask two.

- Who has the most potential to change things here?
- What is this clearing's greatest vulnerability?
- Who here can be trusted by my band of vagabonds?
- What is the greatest threat to the controlling faction's hold?

On a miss, your curious meandering leads you right into the middle of an awkward, dangerous, or incriminating situation you should have seen coming.

☐ Truth to Power

When you share your perspective as an outsider to sway an NPC authority figure, mark exhaustion to roll with Luck instead of Reputation.

☐ Born Under a Wandering Star

Take one extra box of exhaustion (it does not count against your maximum). When you travel from clearing to clearing by path at a relaxing or average pace, clear your exhaustion track after the roll.

☐ I've Seen This Before

When you offer comfort—a story, a meal, a song—to an NPC paralyzed by emotion, roll with Luck. On a hit, you bring them back to themselves, and they immediately strive to make things right. On a 10+, they are truly thankful for your wisdom; mark 2-prestige with their faction as well. On a miss, you realize too late how badly you misjudged things; they reveal the terrible truth.

☐ I'll Take That

Take the weapon skill Disarm (it does not count against your limit). When you disarm someone who is threatening someone weaker, roll with Might instead of Finesse; if they lose the weapon, mark exhaustion again to end up with it.

Notes on The Nomad Moves

For Itchy Feet, in order to trigger the move you do have to explain a past experience and how it relates to this moment, but you can be creative as you describe experiences from before your campaign even began, from places far from the Woodland. Use this move before you roll; instead of rolling, you take the 10+. The real cost of using this move is marking one of the conditions. As long as that condition is marked, you continue to experience its effects. The only way to clear a condition is to either fulfill its special requirement, or to leave a clearing and hit the road. Heading into the forest will do it, but leaving a forest won't clear a condition—you have to reach a new clearing and leave it again to clear another condition!

For Stranger in a Strange Land, you ask the questions of the GM, who answers honestly. The questions represent things you learned as you wandered about, including truths that no one in the clearing may openly acknowledge. Work with the GM to establish exactly how you learned any of these truths, including where you went and whom you spoke to as you poked around.

For Truth to Power, when you share your perspective as an outsider, it allows you to use the sway Reputation move without having the necessary reputation. As long as you mark the exhaustion, you can use that move with your Luck instead of your Reputation, ignoring the prerequisite.

For Born Under a Wandering Star, remember that you clear your exhaustion track after the roll, after any additional costs have been paid to travel between clearings.

For I've Seen This Before, “an NPC paralyzed by emotion” is an NPC who is unable to act, stuck in a moment by their feelings and their situation. For example, an NPC who has lost so much that they don't have the will to fight back against an oppressor would be paralyzed by emotion; so too would an NPC who feels obligated to their Marquisate parents and won't defy them, even though they wish they could. This move allows you to help break them out of their paralysis; when you bring them back to themselves, they can begin to move again, taking action. You don't get to control what they do, but they will “strive to make things right”—that means they will do their best to make amends and rectify a bad situation however they can. On a miss, “they reveal the terrible truth” refers to them showing that they were never paralyzed the way you had imagined, and their beliefs about right and wrong in their situation are wildly different than what you would have hoped for or expected.

For I'll Take That, “someone who is threatening someone weaker” is an assessment made from your perspective. It might turn out that the situation wasn't what you had imagined, but so long as you honestly believe someone weaker is being threatened, you can trigger this move. When you mark exhaustion after they lose their weapon, you immediately grab it and take control of it, instead of it simply being cast to the side.

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Loyalist

_____ has supported the faction that my family favored. Serving that faction sometimes makes me feel like my family is still around. What do they do that reminds me of my parents?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you once served together. When you ask for a favor from that faction, you may mark 2-exhaustion to take 10+ instead of rolling.

Family

_____ has treated me like family from the day we met. How do I prove myself worthy of their belief in me?

When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion track.

Protégé

I secretly imitate _____ ever since I witnessed them accomplish a heroic feat. What did they do that impressed me so much?

Once per game session, when you spend time training with them, choose one and hold 1:

- Learn tricks of the trade: they choose which roguish feat they teach you, and you may spend hold to attempt that roguish feat as if you had it.
- Spar with them: they choose which weapon skill they teach you, and you may spend hold to use that weapon skill as if you had it.
- Ask them about how they see the world: spend hold to take +1 forward to prove them right or wrong.

Playbook Moves

☒ Still Learnin'

What you lack in experience, you make up for in enthusiasm; you have a confidence track to reflect your surefire gumption. Choose one of the other vagabonds as your idol: _____. When you are acting as you think your idol would act, you can mark your confidence track to take 10+ for any move. When you fulfill your idol's nature, clear the track and cross out one of the boxes. You can change your idol at any time; when you do so, reset the track completely to the full six boxes. You can never return to idolizing the same character a second time.

Confidence: ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

☐ Easily Overlooked

You gain the roguish feats Hide and Sneak (they do not count against your total). When you attempt these feats while something (or someone else) is offering a distraction, roll with Luck instead Finesse.

☐ Found Family

Take two more connections. Mark exhaustion to suddenly appear in a scene with one of your connections, tumbling out of a hiding spot or nearby area, provided nothing would have kept you from reaching your fellow vagabond.

☐ Street Smarts

When you spend time talking to urchins and outcasts in a clearing, roll with Luck. On a hit, you get an inkling of the clearing's best-kept secrets; pick 1. On a 10+, ask two follow-up questions; the GM will answer honestly.

- you find an out-of-the-way place where the band can lay low
- you learn about a vulnerable target the band can exploit
- you discover a hidden or secret way into an important location

On a miss, your snooping has been noticed; the GM will tell you who takes an interest in you and what you'll have to do to get them to leave you alone.

☐ Underestimated

Until you prove yourself to be a threat, no one will treat you as one. The first time you would mark notoriety with a faction in a session, mark one fewer box. As soon as your Reputation with any faction reaches +2 or -2, lose this move and choose another.

☐ Cutting Words

When you trick an NPC by openly provoking them with insults, roll with Luck instead of Cunning. When you provoke another vagabond by openly mocking them, say what you want them to do and mark up to 3-exhaustion; they have to take the bait and do as you want or mark the same amount of exhaustion.

Notes on The Orphan Moves

For Still Learnin', you are the final arbiter of whether you are acting as you think your idol would act, but you have to be honest about the assessment. If you use this move, you are saying something real about how you see your idol and what they would do. What's more, as they watch your actions, they become aware of how you see them. They might not want to intervene or get involved with your perspective...but if they think you see them in a way wildly out of sync with their own identity, they might want to say something about who they really are and how they would act! After that, you can't really deviate from what they have told you when using this move, unless there is some strong justification for doing so. The GM acts as the final arbiter for that kind of judgment. Fulfilling your idol's nature works exactly the same as if you had the nature on your own character sheet, but you clear your Confidence track instead of your exhaustion track. Changing your idol will also clear your Confidence track...but once you have moved on from someone as your idol, you can never name them as your idol again! You can only name the other PC vagabonds as idols, so at some point, you'll either be stuck with the last available PC as your idol, or you won't be able to have any of them as an idol—that's a good sign that it's time to move on and either retire or change playbooks.

For Easily Overlooked, you need someone or something else to provide an active distraction to use Luck or Finesse. So long as a distraction is present, you're set!

For Found Family, take any two connections from the full available set, including their mechanical effects and benefits. You can mark exhaustion to appear with any of your connections, including these two new ones and your original connections. You cannot use this move to appear with another character if there is no way to make sense of your sudden appearance.

For Street Smarts, nearly every clearing will have some urchins and outcasts—it's usually just a matter of finding them and endearing yourself to them to get them to talk to you. The follow-up questions you get on a 10+ should directly relate to the core piece of information you gain on a hit.

For Underestimated, "a threat" is always an assessment in the eye of the beholder, both for how they treat you and for when they might see you as a threat, but in general, someone who doesn't see you as a threat won't seek any harsh punishments for your misdeeds, nor will they target you in a conflict. They'll start to see you as a threat when you prove yourself a capable or dangerous figure. Remember that if you become too famous (or infamous), you lose this move and cannot take it again, but you gain another move from this playbook to replace it (or from a different playbook if you already have the other Orphan moves).

For Cutting Words, when you try to provoke another PC vagabond to action, remember that the cost for them to ignore your words is exactly the same as however much exhaustion you mark.

Which faction have you served the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Partner

_____ and I seized valuable cargo from a faction together. Who did we rob? Why?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Friend

_____ had a good relationship with my former captain. How have they supported me in taking on the role as my own?

When you help them, you can mark 2-exhaustion to give a +2, instead of 1-exhaustion for a +1.

Rival

_____ once outsmarted me during a heist, and they ended up on top...never again. What did they acquire? Was it material treasure or prestige?

When you challenge them to take a completely unnecessary and excessive risk to prove themselves, they take +1 forward to accept and meet your provocation; if they decline, they mark exhaustion instead.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET SMALL SHIP AND SAIL ON,
THEN CHOOSE ONE MORE

☒ Small Ship

By default, your ship has a wear track with four boxes. Mark wear when it suffers serious damage or when a move calls for it. When your ship's wear track is filled, it is dead in the water and must be repaired at port. If you must mark wear on your ship but its whole track is full, your ship is lost. If you ever lose the ship the GM may present you with an opportunity to get a new one.

Your Ship's Name: _____ Wear ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

Blessings (choose 2):

- ☐ stocked: your ship gains a 2-box depletion track of cargo and gear
- ☐ nimble: take +1 ongoing to tricking NPCs when relying on your ship's speed
- ☐ renowned: take +1 to reputation with a chosen faction while on your ship
- ☐ swift: once per session, mark wear to outrun any pursuer on the water

Flaws (choose 2):

- ☐ dreaded: take -1 to reputation with a chosen faction while on your ship
- ☐ rickety: your ship has one fewer box of wear than usual
- ☐ clumsy: take -1 ongoing to trusting fate when piloting your ship carefully
- ☐ stolen: someone dangerous is pursuing you to recover their property

☒ Sail On

When you travel from clearing to clearing by ship, mark wear on the ship and roll with Luck. On a hit, you reach the next port; the GM will tell you one (mostly) friendly denizen you know there. On a 7-9, they are holding a grudge—work it out or offer at least 2-value to let things go. On a miss, you are caught in a dangerous situation along your route before you arrive at port.

☐ Swashbuckler

When you first charge into battle by swinging, diving, or leaping to engage an enemy in melee at close range, roll with Luck instead of Might.

☐ Eye for Treasure

When you ask around a port about valuable trade, roll with Luck. On a hit, you learn of nearby cargo worth your time. On a 10+, you know exactly where the cargo is held or how to intercept the shipment. On a miss, you hear only of well-guarded or difficult to reach cargo...and your questions start drawing attention.

☐ Plenty of Rum

Once per session, you may plead with a vagabond a second time in a session by sharing your rum (mark depletion) with the target of your pleading.

☐ Sea Legs

When you attempt a roguish feat aboard a ship to blindside, sneak, hide, or perform acrobatics, roll with Luck instead of Finesse.

Notes on The Pirate Moves

For Small Ship, you have a small riverboat (or equivalent vessel) capable of hauling your band and some cargo across the rivers or lakes of the Woodland. Your ship— like any other meaningful piece of equipment—has a wear track. Fill the track, and the ship must be repaired by a skilled craftsdenizen; the ship is lost if you ever have to mark wear when the track is full. You can’t just throw your boat over your shoulder and hike with it to the next clearing, so you have to find somewhere to dock it and someone to keep it safe if you need to travel by foot to the next clearing.

- If you choose “stocked,” you can use the additional depletion track whenever you’re on your boat; clearing the depletion from your ship’s track works like clearing depletion from your own track.
- If you choose “renowned” or “dreaded,” you choose the affected faction at the start of play and only apply the modifier to your Reputation when you’re on, near, or around your ship (or when you invoke it in a conversation directly). In other words, if someone can’t see your ship and doesn’t know you captain her, the modifier doesn’t apply.
- If you choose “stolen,” whoever is hunting you has the means and focus to hunt you all across the Woodland; you can’t stay in one place for long.

For Sail On, you can travel between clearings along rivers or over a lake instead of traveling along a path or through the forest, provided a waterway connects the two clearings. Neither you nor any of the other vagabonds have to mark any exhaustion or depletion in addition to the wear you mark on the ship. If whoever you know in port is holding a grudge, they will act against you—alerting the authorities, refusing you service, etc.—if you don’t work it out or offer them a bribe.

For Swashbuckler, you can only make use of Luck when you first charge into battle with a spectacular entrance. That said, if you’ve defeated one foe and you charge into battle against someone different with enough distance to swing, dive, or leap into the fight, you may be able to use the move again in the same scene.

For Eye for Treasure, the cargo you hear of may be in port...or it may have just left on a boat bound for another clearing. Either way, it’s on you to get access to it, track it down, or make use of the information you’ve gained; you only get specific information about the cargo on a 10+.

For Plenty of Rum, you get to plead with a fellow vagabond a second time in the same session by marking depletion. You can plead with the same vagabond about a new issue or with a new vagabond for the first time, but you can’t plead about the same issue (and offer 2-exhaustion) with the same vagabond; once the target of your pleading has decided, that’s it. Convince a different vagabond, me heartie!

For Sea Legs, you can use Luck instead of Finesse to perform roguish feats on any ship, not just your own vessel.

Background

Why did your parents raise you as a vagabond?

- ☐ They rejected the ordinary life of a clearing of the Woodland
- ☐ They feared their enemies would find them if they settled down
- ☐ They wanted me to make my own choices free of society's influence
- ☐ They never fit in with the denizens
- ☐ They didn't know how else to live

_____
_____

What happened to your parents?

- ☐ Captured by a powerful faction
- ☐ Felled by a rival vagabond
- ☐ Retired to a Woodland clearing
- ☐ Missing in the forest, now presumed dead
- ☐ Killed in battle by agents of a powerful faction
- ☐ _____

Which faction did your parents serve the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction did your parents most often oppose? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Peer

_____ used to work with one of my parents and invited me to join the band when I came of age. How did I impress them with my talents?

• If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Family

_____ was mentored by one of my parents. What vagabond skills did they learn from my parents that I've always struggled to master?

• When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion track.

Protégé

I've known about _____ for my whole life; my parents used to tell me stories about them. What did they do to make a name for themselves among the vagabonds?

• Once per game session, when you spend time training with them, choose one and hold 1:

- Learn tricks of the trade: they choose which roguish feat they teach you, and you may spend hold to attempt that roguish feat as if you had it.
- Spar with them: they choose which weapon skill they teach you, and you may spend hold to use that weapon skill as if you had it.
- Ask them about how they see the world: spend hold to take +1 forward to prove them right or wrong.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET HEIRLOOM WEAPON AND LEGACY, THEN CHOOSE ONE MORE
ADVANCE: GAIN 1 (MAX: 5)

☒ Heirloom Weapon Wear ☐☐☐☐☐☐

Your parents bestowed a family heirloom upon you—it has 4 boxes of wear, and whatever it's value it is priceless to you. If the weapon is ever destroyed, the GM will tell you what tasks you must undertake to restore it.

- Choose a weapon type: dagger, axe, hammer, sword, spear, crossbow, bow
- Choose an appropriate range: intimate, close, far
- Choose two features:

- ☐ Reliable: +2 boxes of wear and an additional range
- ☐ Feared: When you engage in combat against foes who recognize this weapon, inflict morale harm on them
- ☐ Deadly: When you inflict harm with this weapon, inflict +1 harm
- ☐ Double-headed: One edge inflicts injury, the other exhaustion. Declare which side you use at the start of a fight
- ☐ Flexible: Choose 2 weapon skill tags for this weapon
- ☐ Unique: Your weapon is of unusual design; once per session, mark exhaustion to ignore the harm inflicted on you by a single attack
- ☐ Rousing: After you successfully inflict injury on a dangerous enemy, mark wear to clear exhaustion from every ally who saw you land the blow

☒ Legacy ☐☐☐

When you meet someone important for the first time, mark your legacy track to take a 10+ instead of rolling. When your legacy track is full, tell the GM, clear the track, and roll. Take +1 for each “yes” to the following questions:

- Are you in a clearing?
- Is anyone looking for you?
- Do you have +2 or -2 Reputation with at least one faction?

On a hit, someone with unfinished business with your parents finds you. On a 10+, they arrive without warning. On a miss, an ordinary denizen warns you about someone who might seek you out; mark your legacy track.

☐ One of Us

When you try to figure out or persuade vagabonds, bandits, revolutionaries, or outcasts, roll with Luck instead of Charm.

☐ Tall Tales

When you attempt to impress a crowd with a wild story, roll with Luck. On a hit, the crowd is moved; everyone in your band takes +1 ongoing to persuade or trick someone in line with the story. On a 10+, someone foolish even approaches you with profitable work! On a miss, your stories attract someone in desperate need of help you're not equipped to give.

☐ No Jail Can Hold Me

Take the roguish feat pick lock (it does not count against your maximum). When you attempt to escape confinement, mark exhaustion to shift a miss to a 7-9.

☐ Favored

Take +1 Luck (max+3).

Notes on The Prince Moves

For Heirloom Weapon, you still get your normal equipment like everyone else and your family's unique gift. Other than its unique powers, the weapon functions as normal—marking wear, engaging in melee, etc. If it's destroyed, the tasks the GM gives you might involve forging it anew, gathering information about it from allies of your parents, or traveling to a specific clearing to restore it.

- If you choose “Reliable,” you must choose two ranges that work for the weapon (i.e., a sword can't be intimate and far).
- If you choose “Feared,” you inflict the morale harm when you draw or display the weapon for the first time in the combat.
- If you choose “Deadly,” you cannot choose to do less harm with the weapon; you must always apply your full harm to the target, including the +1 harm.
- If you choose “Double-Headed,” the GM may allow you to switch your stance if you get a moment to reset your fighting stance and balance.
- If you choose “Flexible,” you can choose any weapon skill tags you like; make sure you take the weapons skills as well to make use of the tags.
- If you choose “Unique,” you choose to mark the exhaustion and avoid all the harm from a single attack once you know the full impact of the blow. Make sure to tell the table how your heirloom weapon helps you narrowly escape!
- If you choose “Rousing,” you can activate this ability as many times in a scene as you would like, marking wear each time.

For Legacy, marking the legacy track means whoever you are meeting has heard of you and your parents; you can play up the connection between their faction and yourself or your parents to take the +1 forward. When you mark the third box, clear the track and roll immediately. For the questions of that move, someone is “looking for you” if you've previously established in the fiction that someone—a faction, an ally of your parents, etc.—is trying to find you. The results of filling in all three boxes in a prior instance will often lead to someone “looking for you”!

For One Of Us, the one you are trying to convince must be someone on the fringes of society in some way; it would not work on, say, the Marquisate Justice or another denizen that has some kind of establishment in the Woodland.

For Tall Tales, the crowd is moved in line with your story. If you regale them with a tale of your band killing a fearsome bear, they are likely to be persuaded that you can rid them of a similar trouble; if you brag that you freed a clearing from the tyrannical Marquisate, they are likely to be tricked into thinking you are members of the Woodland Alliance. The +1 ongoing lasts until your band leaves the clearing or your tall tale is revealed to be an exaggeration. Note that your tale can be true if your band has done some exciting, wild stuff.

For No Jail Can Hold Me, you can mark exhaustion to shift a miss to a 7–9 when you're picking a lock, shimmying out of ropes, or making any other move designed to secure your freedom. You cannot be held by mere bonds or cages!

For Favored, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

Notes

The Raconteur

You are a storyteller, making coin and earning trust by moving amid the clearings and weaving tales that ultimately teach the denizens the "truth" of what goes on in the Woodland.

Background

Where do you call home?

- ☐ _____ Clearing
- ☐ The forest
- ☐ A place far from here
- ☐ _____

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I want to see all of the Woodland
- ☐ I want to find a worthy hero to write about
- ☐ I want to witness a legendary moment firsthand
- ☐ I want to find the kind of true love found in epic poetry
- ☐ I have been run out of too many clearings to stay still
- ☐ _____

Whom have you wronged the most?

Your Connections

Friend

_____ and I still talk about the time we were run out of a clearing, even though we thought our adventures would lead the powers-that-be to treat us as heroes. What did we do? How did it go wrong?

When you help them, you can mark 2-exhaustion to give a +2, instead of 1-exhaustion for a +1.

Family

_____ and I have been through battles, ruin-delves, heists, and more together. Which particular incident made us close? How did I make it famous?

When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion track.

Lover

Nothing fulfills me as much as spending quality time with _____. What quality do they have that I think eclipses everyone in the Woodland?

Once per session when you share a quiet moment of intimacy, just the two of you, choose one:

- Offer them affection: if they accept it, they clear 3-exhaustion.
- Make them a promise: you take +1 ongoing to keep your word.

YOU GET TOOLS OF THE TRADE,

☒ Tools of the Trade Wear ☐☐☐☐☐

You have a valued (at least to you) symbol of your skill and talent; it starts with 3 boxes of wear and its value is essentially priceless to you.

- Choose a type: musical instrument, poetry book, unique costume, stage prop
- Choose a look: battered, fancy, delicate, stained, pristine
- Choose three features:
  - ☐ Sturdy: +2 boxes of wear; when you tend to your symbol after a public performance, clear a box of wear.
  - ☐ Enchanting: mark wear instead of exhaustion to add +2 when you help another vagabond by distracting someone with your performance
  - ☐ Versatile: choose two equipment tags for your symbol
  - ☐ Revealing: when you perform in public, mark wear to ask any one character who watched “what truly motivates your character?”; take +1 when acting on the answer
  - ☐ Pleasant: when you perform for your band while traveling on a path, mark wear to clear up to 2 additional exhaustion from each vagabond.

When you first put on an earnest, public performance in a clearing, roll with Charm. On a hit, name a faction you flatter; an important member comes forward to offer you work. On a 10+, mark prestige with their faction as well. On a miss, you draw the worst kind of attention to you and your friends.

☐ Adoring Fans

When you first enter a clearing, roll with Charm. On a hit, a fan recognizes you; they relate gossip, offer a place to stay, and show your band around. On a 10+, your fan will go even further to help you. On a miss, you meet a fan with good intentions who immediately makes your situation much, much worse.

☐ All Eyes On Me

When you create a distraction through outlandish performance, mark exhaustion and roll with Charm. On a hit, the room can’t look away; your allies take +1 ongoing to sneak, hide, pickpocket, or trust fate while you perform. On a 10+, hold 1; spend the hold to grant an ally a +3 for one of the aforementioned rolls instead. On a miss, your audience finds something about your performance insulting or misguided; they fall over themselves to give you their opinion.

☐ Quick Fingers, Quicker Eyes

When you read a tense situation while performing, you may always ask one question, even on a miss.

☐ Silver Tongue

When you persuade an NPC with a colorful anecdote, mark exhaustion on a hit to make them reveal something important and relevant about the situation.

☐ Sweet as Honey

Take +1 Charm (max+3).

Notes on The Raconteur Moves

For Tools of the Trade, you still get your normal equipment like everyone else; your symbol of your skill and talent is in addition to your regular gear.

- If you choose “Sturdy,” it only takes you a few minutes to tend to your symbol and clear 1-wear: cleaning your instrument or costume, storing a book, etc.
- If you choose “Enchanting,” you are far better at helping with distracting performances; you don’t mark exhaustion when you mark wear, and you add +2 instead of +1. If you want to conceal your aid or interference or create an opportunity or obstacle in addition to adding +2, you must mark exhaustion. If you choose “Revealing,” the bonus lasts until you leave the clearing or the denizen’s motivation changes substantially.
- If you choose “Pleasant,” you can perform for your band no matter which option your band chooses for traveling. You clear the exhaustion after all other costs are considered, which means that someone might mark 2-exhaustion for traveling and then immediately clear that 2-exhaustion thanks to your performance.

Anyone who offers you work after a public performance hails from the faction your performance flattered. The performance can’t be merely ironic or silly; it’s got to be an earnest attempt to convey your artistic intent, even if that intent is satirical towards one faction and complimentary towards another.

For Adoring Fans, the move triggers the first time you enter a clearing. You’ve got to leave the clearing for some time before the move triggers a second time—going for a walk in the woods for a few hours and coming back doesn’t count as “first entering a clearing.” On a weak hit, your fan will do everything a friendly host would do...but they aren’t going to take any risks, like breaking the law or hurting someone, to help you. On a 10+, they are willing to do much, much more, however, even to the point of putting themselves in danger.

For All Eyes on Me, note that you can’t put on an earnest performance (Tools of the Trade) and a distracting, outlandish performance at the same time. You decide who your allies are that receive the +1 ongoing while you perform, and you must spend your hold—granting the +3—before that particular ally rolls.

For Quick Fingers, Quicker Eyes, your performance can be small or more intimate; you don’t have to be engaging in a large, public performance to ask your additional question.

For Silver Tongue, the colorful anecdote can’t be a trick unto itself, even if the story isn’t true or factual; you’re persuading someone with a story, not tricking them into doing what you want. You can say “Oh, I’ve fought plenty of bears before!”—and regale someone with tales of your adventures fighting those bears—to persuade them to let you hunt down a bear for them, but you can’t use this move to trick them into thinking you’re “Edgar Bearsbane, the famous slayer of bears.”

For Sweet As Honey, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

When you read a tense situation just as violence breaks out, roll with Might instead of Cunning.

☐ Ironhide

When a group inflicts harm on you, suffer 2 fewer harm from each attack (minimum 1-harm); when you inflict harm on a group, inflict 1 additional harm.

☐ Loot and Plunder

When you loot a rich area for valuables, roll with Finesse. On a hit, something out of the ordinary catches your eye; claim it and it's yours. On a 10+ all 3. on a 7-9 choose 1:

- It is worth a lot of money (+2-value)
- It is of special value to a particular faction (+4 prestige if traded to them)
- It is extremely durable (+1-wear)

On a miss, you can get your hands on it, but it is sought by dangerous denizens who are all too willing to kill to take it from whoever possesses it.

☐ Merciful Might

When you try to befriend an NPC you've saved from the wrath of another, spend time helping them further (mark exhaustion) or buy them a drink (mark depletion). Your continued kindness pays dividends; they'll share a valuable secret or grant you a serious favor.

☐ Plan of Attack

When you work out a plan of attack with someone, roll with Might. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 2. You can spend your hold 1-for-1, regardless of distance, while the plan is being carried out to:

- Lend a hand; add +1 to someone's roll (choose after rolling)
- Soften a blow; reduce by one the harm someone suffers from a single attack
- Ensure your gear holds; allow someone to ignore marking depletion or wear

On a miss, hold 1, but your plan encounters some disastrous opposition right from the start.

☐ Fearsome Visage

You can make a pointed threat or publicly draw attention to yourself as an enemy of a faction when you have a Reputation of 0 or lower with that faction, not just the usual -3 or -2 reputation required. Remember, you roll as if your negative reputation was positive, so a -1 Reputation becomes a +1 for the roll and a 0 remains a 0.

Notes on The Raider Moves

For Eye for Battle, you can be the reason that violence is breaking out—just tell the GM you want to read a tense situation as you throw the first punch.

For Ironhide, you’re much more effective fighting groups than any other vagabond; the harm the group inflicts on you is reduced greatly, but it’s still a minimum of 1-harm. Your harm is also increased; you inflict one additional harm that can be further raised by choosing an option like “inflict serious (+1) harm.” A group has to consist of at least five opponents to count as a group (see Root: The RPG, page 214 for more on groups).

For Loot and Plunder, you’re taking stock of an area you’ve already gained access to or captured, looking for valuables a cut above the ordinary spoils. On a hit, the GM will tell you what you find, including the Value and wear of the item. If you choose that it’s worth a lot of money or is extremely durable, add Value or wear to whatever the GM told you; if you choose that it’s of special value to a faction, you can gain +4 prestige with that faction for returning the item to them.

For Merciful Might, you mark the exhaustion or depletion after you save the NPC, further spending time helping them out or buying a drink. If you don’t have the time (or money) to spend, you can’t trigger the move.

For Plan of Attack, you can’t invoke any of the benefits for yourself, but you can spend your hold at any time during the plan’s execution to help any ally—even an NPC—involved in the plan; tell the GM how your planning improved your ally’s chances of success or helped them avoid a cost.

For Fearsome Visage, you usually can’t even trigger make a pointed threat or publicly draw attention to yourself until you have an appropriately negative Reputation; this move allows you to make those moves with a –1 or +0 Reputation because you are so well known as a threat to any faction that doesn’t see you positively.

Background

Where do you call home?

- ☐ _____ Clearing
- ☐ The forest
- ☐ A place far from here
- ☐ _____

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I dislike the hypocrisy of society
- ☐ I am mistrusted by other denizens
- ☐ I want to wander the Woodland
- ☐ I need to find and save a loved one
- ☐ I seek escape from the wars
- ☐ _____

Whom have you left behind?

- ☐ my commander
- ☐ my family
- ☐ my best friend
- ☐ my student
- ☐ No one—I lost those who mattered to me (mark one notoriety with the faction responsible)
- ☐ _____

Which faction have you served the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Protector

I did something that would have gotten me the enmity of a Woodland faction—if _____ hadn't covered for me. What did I do? Why and how did they protect me? Regardless, I feel indebted to them.

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Watcher

I was tricked, conned, or deceived by _____ once. Why do I choose to continue working with them?

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Confidant

_____ was once in a really bad spot; it was only when they listened to me that things turned around for them. What did I say to them that they still remember and live by?

When they come to you in confidence with a problem, mark exhaustion to suggest a course of action to resolve it; if they do as you say to the best of their ability, they clear their exhaustion track.

Playbook Moves

CHOOSE THREE TO START

☐ Silent Paws

You are adept at slipping into and out of dangerous situations without anyone noticing. When you attempt a roguish feat to sneak or hide, you can mark 2 exhaustion to shift a miss to a 7-9.

☐ Slip Away

When you take advantage of an opening to escape from a dangerous situation, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you get away. On a 10+, choose 1. On a 7-9, choose 2:

- You suffer injury or exhaustion (GM's choice) during your escape
- You end up in another dangerous situation
- You leave something important behind

On a miss, you escape, but it costs you—mark injury or exhaustion, GM's choice—and you leave ample evidence behind for your foes to track and follow you.

☐ Poisons and Antidotes

You have expertise in the poisons and antidotes of the Woodland. When you brew a poison, mark depletion and say what effect you want it to have: sleep, weakness, inebriation, or death. Any poison you make requires ingestion or injection; you can use the poison on your weapon or put it in your target's food or drink. When you study a poison or its effects to make an antidote, the GM will tell you what special ingredient you'll need. Get the ingredient and mark 1 depletion to brew the antidote.

☐ Forager

When you travel or pass into a forest, before making any travel move, you can clear your choice of:

- Up to 3-depletion
- Up to 2-exhaustion
- Up to 2-injury

☐ Threatening Visage

When you persuade an NPC with open threats or naked steel, roll with Might instead of Charm.

☐ Dirty Fighter

Take two of the following weapon skills: Trick Shot, Confuse Senses, Improvise Weapon, Disarm, Vicious Strike. None of the skills you take with this move count against your maximum.

Notes on The Ranger Moves

For Silent Paws, keep in mind that you will still incur a risk of the feat on a 7–9, unless you’re willing to mark a third exhaustion to avoid it.

For Slip Away, you need an opportunity to escape, so you might need to take some action first to create that chance. If you end up in another dangerous situation, the GM establishes that situation and how it is different from what you just escaped. If you leave something important behind, the GM ultimately decides what it is.

For Poisons and Antidotes, any poison or antidote you make does require some time to make, along with a place to brew it. When you inflict your poison on someone, it does not take immediate effect; the more severe the effect you choose, the longer it will take to come to fruition, with death poisons taking up to a day or two to fully work. Antidotes, similarly, take some time to fully cure the poison, with more terrible poisons taking more time to cure.

For Forager, make your choice about what to clear before any expenditures for traveling through the forest.

For Threatening Visage, your threats must be believable—if you’re bound to a chair, for example, you might not be able to make a believable threat.

For Dirty Fighter, keep in mind that whatever skills the move grants do not count against your maximum total for advancement (seven skills).

Your Connections

Veteran

_____ and I worked together on my first real task of significance in the Woodland, deposing a dangerous authority figure of a faction. Who did we depose? Why?

When you fight side-by-side or back-to-back with them, both of you have access to the parry weapon move regardless of weapon type, as long as you remain within intimate range of each other. If you choose to inflict morale or exhaustion upon a successful parry, you inflict an additional morale or exhaustion.

Watcher

I see in _____ many reminders of my old master. I am drawn to them, even as I watch them carefully. What is it that reminds me of my old master? How do they feel about my watchful eyes?

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Confidant

_____ loves to listen to me tell stories about my past; in truth, they could make a good apprentice if I were interested. What am I trying to instill in them?

When they come to you in confidence with a problem, mark exhaustion to suggest a course of action to resolve it; if they do as you say to the best of their ability, they clear their exhaustion track.

Playbook Moves

CHOOSE THREE TO START

☐ Always Armed

Take the weapon skill Improvise a Weapon (it does not count against your maximum). When you deal harm with an improvised weapon, deal +1 harm.

☐ Knowing a Lord's Will

When you figure out a denizen of status, authority, or power, roll with Might instead of Charm. When you trick a denizen of status, authority, or power by playing subordinate, roll with Might instead of Cunning.

☐ Well-Mannered

When you enter a social environment dependent on manners and etiquette, roll with Cunning. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 2. Lose all hold when you leave or when social rules fall apart. Spend hold 1-for-1 to:

- Cover up a social faux pas on behalf of yourself or an ally; clear 1 exhaustion.
- Call out someone else's social faux pas; inflict 1-morale harm on them.
- Charm someone; take +1 ongoing to speak to them while you have hold.
- Demonstrate your value; mark prestige with a powerful denizen's faction.

On a miss, the rules of etiquette here are far different from what you expected; mark exhaustion as you commit a gravely impolite error.

☐ Fealty

When you commit yourself to the cause of someone you deem worthy, swear an oath to them stating what task you will complete on their behalf. Mark exhaustion to reroll a move made in pursuit of that task. You cannot commit yourself to another cause until you accomplish the first, or break your oath. If you break your oath, fill your exhaustion track and mark 4 notoriety with the faction whose trust you betrayed. If you fulfill your oath, mark 4 prestige with the faction whose trust you kept.

☐ The Rules of War

When you call upon a reasonable foe to uphold a rule of war, roll with Might. On a hit, they feel obliged; choose one below they must follow. On a 7-9, they choose one that you must follow; disobey, and the obligation ends.

- Show mercy to surrendering foes and prisoners
- Refrain from underhanded tactics in a fight
- Face each other without aid, back-up, or assistance
- Keep the violence away from the unarmed or innocent
- Fight to surrender or subdual, without retreat

On a miss, they feel no obligation to your ideas of war; prepare for a brutal lesson in the rules they adhere to.

☐ Always Watching

Take +1 Cunning (max+3).

Notes on The Ronin Moves

For Always Armed, all the limitations of weapon improvisation apply to you. If you are of a species that has a natural weapon (fangs, claws, etc.), you may apply this +1 bonus to those attacks as well.

For Knowing A Lord's Will, status, authority, and power look different in different settings, and are conferred to an individual by a group consensus (willing or not). A wealthy or titled (duke, magistrate, etc.) denizen or ranked military figure holds obvious authority and status, but so does the head of a thieves guild or respected religious leader.

For Well-Mannered, any more formal or proper setting would be appropriate to the move, but there might be some strange cases that also count—a thieves' guild with a lot of intricate rules on action and hierarchy might count, for example. For each of the options when you spend hold, make sure you actually describe what happened, what faux pas you called out, or which character you charmed (and how).

For Fealty, when you swear the oath and declare your task, make sure you declare a bounded task, something with a finite and clear condition under which it has been accomplished. "Defend Hoproot" is unbounded—it could go on forever—but "Defend Hoproot from the upcoming Redclaw Platoon attack" is specific and clear. "Breaking your oath" can happen whenever you feel appropriate, but it should be clear to everyone—you have broken your oath, and there is no trying to fulfill it later. And the notoriety and prestige you earn for breaking or fulfilling your oath are in addition to any other notoriety or prestige you might earn through those actions.

For The Rules of War, your foe must be "reasonable"—if they are raging, or if they are unlikely to follow any rules of conflict at all, then they don't qualify. If your opponent feels "obliged" to follow a rule, it means they must follow it and cannot take any action contrary to the rule.

For Always Watching, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

Your Connections

Ex-Convict

I got busted, but _____ got me out, so we went on the lam together for a while. What did I do? Who sheltered us?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-notoriety with one faction. When you read a tense situation, you can always ask "What is most valuable here?" for free, even on a miss. Both you and your connection get a +1 when acting on any of your answers.

Friend

_____ and I once met and pulled off a mad, impossible stunt together. What did we do? Why?

When you help them, you can mark 2-exhaustion to give a +2, instead of 1-exhaustion for a +1.

Enabler

_____ joined me on one of my mad capers, and they loved it more than they will admit. What do I love to tempt them with? What risks does it come with?

When you plead with them to join you in reckless action and they agree, they take +1 ongoing to follow the plan in addition to clearing exhaustion.

Masteries

ADVANCE: GAIN 1 BASIC MOVE (MAX: 2)

ADVANCE: GAIN 2 WEAPON SKILLS (MAX: 4)

Playbook Moves

CHOOSE THREE TO START

☐ Explosive Personality

When you wreck something with flagrantly dangerous means (explosives, uncontrolled flame, etc.), roll with Luck instead of Might.

☐ Create to Destroy

When you use available materials to rig up a dangerous device, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you cobble together something that will do what you want, one time. On a 10+, choose one. On a 7-9, choose two. The device is:

- more dangerous than intended
- larger or more unwieldy than intended
- more temperamental and fragile than intended

On a miss, you need some vital component to finish it; the GM will tell you what.

☐ It's a Distraction!

You gain the roguish feat Blindside (it does not count against your maximum).

When you attempt a roguish feat to blindside someone while they are distracted by environmental dangers (a raging fire, an oncoming flood, etc.), roll with Luck instead of Cunning.

☐ Daredevil Luck Armor ☐

You're at your luckiest when you go into danger without hesitation. When you dive into a dangerous situation without forethought or planning, treat yourself as having "Luck Armor," with 1 box of wear (remember, armor is only "destroyed" when you would mark another box of wear, and all its boxes are full). The "Luck Armor" automatically goes away once the danger has passed, and the next time you would have "Luck Armor," you gain it as if it was brand new with clear boxes.

☐ Danger Mask

You have a mask or outfit you wear when you go about your most destructive work—more of a calling card, an identifier of "the real you," than a disguise. Treat it as a piece of equipment with two boxes of wear. While you have your mask on, any notoriety you gain is doubled, any prestige you gain is halved, and take +1 to trust fate and all Scoundrel playbook moves. If your mask is ever taken from you, mark exhaustion. If your mask is ever destroyed, mark 4-exhaustion. If your mask is destroyed, you can make a new mask when time passes.

☐ Better Lucky than Good

When you use a weapon move (basic or skilled), mark exhaustion to roll with Luck instead of the listed stat.

Alternate Playbook Moves

(MAX: 2)

Notes on The Scoundrel Moves

For Explosive Personality, “flagrantly dangerous” means “obviously dangerous to more than just the thing you’re wrecking.” A giant badger might convince himself he can bend the bars of his cell without breaking the walls. But when the Scoundrel uses a “flagrantly dangerous” barrel of explosives, no one is under that misapprehension.

For Create to Destroy, you are limited by available resources. You can’t build a bomb if you have nothing to build a bomb with! That said, marking depletion is a great way to get some supplies you otherwise don’t have around you, and you can have fun coming up with inventive and weird combinations for a dangerous device. Don’t worry about the science! Just know that you need something to make a bomb. But remember that all of the choices in the move mean that the dangerous device doesn’t operate as intended, at some level.

For It’s A Distraction!, there has to be clear and present danger in the situation. The danger has to be real, not imagined, and you cannot trick someone into believing they are in danger if they are not.

For Daredevil, the box of “Luck Armor” is independent of all your other armor. When it “goes away” once the danger has passed, you don’t have to transfer the marked wear to anything else—it’s as if you had temporary extra wear.

For Danger Mask, the mask doesn’t create a totally separate identity. You’d have to spend extra effort, likely tricking watchers, to pin the blame for your actions on a completely different person than yourself—denizens can tell that the tabby cat is still probably the tabby cat, even when they’re wearing a piece of pumpkin on their face. The objective isn’t to hide your deeds, but to adopt a troublemaking demeanor to give yourself a boost, and to let everyone else know that you’re in danger mode!

For Better Lucky Than Good, if you have no more exhaustion boxes to mark, you can still use this move—it is the last thing you do before falling unconscious or incapacitated.

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Partner

_____ and I went up against the forces of a faction in order to bring down an evildoer connected to my nemesis. Who was the evildoer, and why did my partner also want revenge on them?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Protector

_____ is too trusting and needs someone watching their back. They remind me of someone I've lost. Whom do they remind me of, and how?

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Battle-Sibling

_____ and I stormed a stronghold and dealt a major blow to a faction. What faction did we weaken and how are they planning to get back at us?

When you fight side-by-side or back-to-back with them, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves as long as you remain within intimate range of each other.

Playbook Moves

YOU GET THE LIST,

☒ The List

Names: _____

At the start of the game, put two names on your list: your nemesis, and their key accomplice. Take +1 ongoing to pursue vengeance against anyone on your list.

When you wreak vengeance upon someone on your list, remove them and take a Mark from the list below. Once per session, you may add an NPC to your list by taking a Mark:

MARKS:

- ☐ Next time you talk of your joyful life before your loss, clear 2-exhaustion.
- ☐ Next time you talk about your nemesis's treachery, clear 2-exhaustion.
- ☐ Your anger ever boils; take +1 to wreck something, and -1 to ask for a favor.
- ☐ You weary of paltry concerns; mark exhaustion when you persuade an NPC. Take +1 to all weapon moves while you have 3+ exhaustion marked.
- ☐ Only retribution satisfies; you cannot clear more than 1 exhaustion from resting. Clear 2 exhaustion when you add a wrongdoer to your list.
- ☐ Vengeance begets vengeance; an NPC avenger begins pursuing you for retribution, targeting you at your weakest moments.
- ☐ You lose yourself entirely to your vengeance; your character is no longer a PC. The GM may have them appear in again in the future as an NPC.

☐ Never Stop Making Them Pay

Take an additional box of exhaustion (it does not count against your maximum).

Once per battle, you may mark exhaustion after inflicting injury to inflict an additional 2-injury.

☐ Take It From Me Kid

When you persuade an NPC by offering your bitter, hard-won wisdom, roll with exhaustion currently marked (max+4) instead of Charm. On a miss, they reject your worldview violently or embrace it all too fervently.

☐ I Am the Night

Take the roguish feats Hide and Sneak (they don't count against your maximum).

When you attempt a roguish feat to hide or sneak while investigating wrongdoing or pursuing vengeance, roll with Luck instead of Finesse.

☐ At Your Mercy

When you spare an NPC whom you could have destroyed or humiliated, roll with Luck. On a hit, your gesture of mercy soothes your troubled soul (clear all exhaustion) or elicits material gratitude (clear 2 or more depletion, GM's choice). On a 10+, both. On a miss, someone—perhaps even the one you spared—is quick to take malicious advantage of your foolhardy gesture.

☐ Today is a Good Day to Die

Take +1 Luck (max+3).

Alternate Playbook Moves

(MAX: 2)

Notes on The Scourge Moves

For The List, the +1 ongoing to pursue vengeance against anyone on your list helps you out so long as you are making a move that can be easily connected to your quest for vengeance. You can't gain this bonus in disconnected self-defense—if you're fighting some random guard, you can't take +1 just because they might end your life! But you could gain this bonus if you're pulling yourself up a cliff while your nemesis taunts you from above; their presence makes the vengeance much more directly connected. The GM is the final arbiter of whether or not your action deserves the bonus. Wreaking vengeance upon a name on the List should also be fairly easy to see; it represents the point at which, thanks to your actions, they have suffered and been laid low. The GM is the final arbiter of whether you wreak vengeance and have to take a Mark. Most of your Marks place some new effect upon your character, and that effect is permanent; you cannot remove Marks. You may choose to take your last Mark early if you want, turning your PC into an NPC devoted to vengeance, but usually you will only take that last Mark if you have no others to take. When you choose to add names to your List, be sure to try to add significant characters against whom you cannot pursue simple, easy vengeance. Your List is far better used for foes who have a lasting, resilient presence in the Woodland than for local bullies.

For Never Stop Making Them Pay, remember that you can only use this effect once during any given fight, and you can only use it if you are already dealing injury.

For Take It From Me, Kid, treat this move as any other move that allows you to roll with a different stat, simply using your current exhaustion marked instead of another stat.

For I Am the Night, the swap of Luck for Finesse works in both cases, whether you are pursuing vengeance or investigating wrongdoing.

For At Your Mercy, sparing the NPC means letting them go, leaving them unharmed, or something equivalent; you must stop before crossing a meaningful line in order to be considered to have spared them. They, and most who see the action, must understand that you spared them, that you could have destroyed them but chose to do otherwise. If the gesture elicits material gratitude, that gratitude can, but does not have to, come directly from the person you spared. It could also come from a watcher, someone who cares about the person you spared. If you roll a miss, the GM will tell you exactly how your kindness and mercy is turned against you, immediately. It's not enough that the person you spared swears vengeance for some later day; they do something right here and now.

For Today is a Good Day to Die, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

Background

Where do you call home?

- ☐ _____ Clearing
- ☐ The forest
- ☐ A place far from here
- ☐ _____

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I want to wander the Woodland.
- ☐ I'm seeking answers to a mystery
- ☐ I need to find and reconnect with a loved one
- ☐ I am pursuing a treasure
- ☐ I stole and sold something precious from someone dangerous
- ☐ _____

- ☐ my spouse or loved one
- ☐ my best friend
- ☐ my fellow explorer
- ☐ my idol
- ☐ _____

Which faction have you served the most? (mark two prestige for the appropriate group)

With which faction have you earned a special enmity? (mark one notoriety for the appropriate group)

Your Connections

Partner

_____ and I have seen the wonders of the Woodland together. What makes them a stalwart companion on my travels?

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Peer

_____ is famous for a discovery of their own. I greatly respect them! What did they discover? How?

If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Lover

I'm shy about my feelings, but _____ helps me feel strong and confident. What is the first thing I shared with them in a moment of vulnerability?

- Once per session when you share a quiet moment of intimacy, just the two of you, choose one:
- Offer them affection: if they accept it, they clear 3-exhaustion.
- Make them a promise: you take +1 ongoing to keep your word.

YOU GET WORD ON THE STREET,
ADVANCE: GAIN 1 (MAX: 5)

☒ Word on the Street

When you spend time in a clearing talking with locals, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you catch wind of a nearby unexplored wonder or ruin; someone promises to take you to it for a fair fee (1-Value). On a 7-9, the dangers make their price steeper—an additional 1-Value of coin or gear. On a miss, the location is under threat—soon it will be plundered, destroyed, or claimed by another power.

☐ Never Lost Injury ☐ Depletion ☐

Take two additional boxes of injury and depletion you can mark when you confront dangers within a ruin and a +1 ongoing to trusting fate and performing roguish feats while exploring such ancient locales.

☐ Treasure Hunter

When you sell the treasures you found in a ruin at market, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you find some buyers. On a 7-9, take 1. On a 10+, both:

- You get a good price; you get double what such findings are usually worth
- You are popular; mark two prestige with the controlling faction

On a miss, you still sell the items for a fair price, but someone powerful takes offense at your plunder of such sacred sites.

☐ Adventurer Contact

When you try to convince a powerful NPC to supply an exploratory adventure, roll with Cunning. On a hit, they give you 8-Value in resources and depletion—but you must fulfill a request. On a 10+, they ask for something general—more riches, information, a prize or trophy. On a 7-9, they want something specific—a singular treasure, secret knowledge, a lost ritual. On a miss, they mount a competing expedition based on what you have told them.

☐ Watch the Signs

When you first attune yourself to a ruin or mysterious site by taking in its signs, symbols, particular traits, and layout, roll with Cunning. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 2. On a miss, you may mark exhaustion to hold 1. While within that ruin or mysterious site, you can spend your hold 1-for-1 to:

- Identify the quickest path to the closest valuable treasure or knowledge
- Disarm a trap or overcome a natural hazard without cost
- Name a character within reach about to suffer harm; you suffer it instead
- Name a character in the ruin; you cross the distance to them instantly
- Take cover in the ruin; ignore all harm from a single attack or catastrophe

☐ Unstable Ground

When you use a rough or chaotic environment—slippery rocks, a crowded market, etc.—to gain an advantage over your opponents in a fight, you can grapple with them using Finesse instead of Might.

Notes on The Seeker Moves

For Word on the Street, you need to spend a bit chatting with locals to trigger the move. It's possible you could find the local wonder or ruin on your own, but paying the fee ensures you get there quickly and without issue. On a miss, you might still be able to hire someone to take you to the site, but you'll have to negotiate a fair price.

For Never Lost, you don't have to transfer any injury or depletion you marked in these boxes when you leave a ruin, and those boxes go away; they represent your ability to navigate the ruin and acquire resources within it. The next time you enter a ruin, you get two cleared boxes of injury and two cleared boxes of depletion, no matter what you marked in the last ruin.

For Treasurer Hunter, the buyers might be the wealthy elites of a clearing looking for treasures worthy of their status or ordinary denizens who wish to recover their own heritage from the ruins. Either way, a hit means everyone is happy with the sale and eager to pay extra or award you prestige; a miss means you still get paid—less than you would on a hit—but someone isn't happy with your entrepreneurial spirit.

For Adventurer Contract, your benefactor's request is determined by how strong a hit you get. A weaker hit means a more specific request; a strong hit means something more general and easier to obtain or deliver. If you don't honor the request on and after your expedition, the NPC will take action in accordance with their nature...up to and including attempting to murder those vagabonds who made promises they didn't intend to keep!

For Watch the Signs, it doesn't take long to attune to a ruin or mysterious site; a few minutes is usually enough if you're able to concentrate and stay alert. The benefits happen immediately—and in full—when you spend hold: if you “cross the distance” to someone else in the ruin, for example, you take a shortcut that gets you there instantly, and if you “disarm a trap without cost,” you shut it down without marking depletion, injury, or exhaustion.

For Unstable Ground, the environment has to be chaotic enough to knock your opponent off balance. A room that's on fire is plenty tumultuous, but a lightly attended town meeting is not, even if it's held in a small or cramped room.

☐ Breaking and Entering

When you attempt roguish feats to get into or out of a place you've previously been, you can mark exhaustion to make the move as if you had rolled a 10+, instead of rolling.

☐ Disappear Into the Dark

When you slip into shadows while unnoticed, mark exhaustion and hold 1. As long as you remain quiet, move slowly, and hold 1 for this move, you will remain hidden. If you inadvertently reveal yourself, lose your hold. Spend your hold to reveal yourself from a darkened place, suddenly and without warning. If you attack someone immediately after spending the hold, take +3 on the roll.

☐ Rope-a-Dope

When you evade and dodge your enemy so as to tire them out, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you can mark exhaustion to make them mark 2-exhaustion. On a 10+, you can mark exhaustion to make them mark 3-exhaustion. On a miss, they catch you in the middle of a dodge—you're at their mercy.

☐ Small Hands

When you grapple with an enemy larger than you, roll with Finesse instead of Might. On a miss, they overpower you—you're at their mercy.

☐ Master Thief

Take +1 Finesse (max+3).

☐ Nose for Gold

When you figure someone out, you can always ask (even on a miss):

- what is the most valuable thing they are carrying?

Notes on The Thief Moves

For Breaking and Entering, think about the move like casing the joint before you break in later. The more you can get someone to let you inside during the daylight, the more easily you'll be able to get back in that night!

For Disappear into the Dark, you could use the move either instead of hiding or sneaking, or to further capitalize on those roguish feats. It costs you exhaustion, but guarantees you remain hidden for as long as you act carefully and stay quiet. That might put a limit on how far you can move, or what you can do while hidden—you might inadvertently reveal yourself when you try to climb a wall, for example, as a risk of the roguish feat. But you can always spend your hold to suddenly appear from a shadow if there were any reasonable way you might have reached that shadow after disappearing.

For Rope-a-Dope, as long as you describe yourself ducking, dodging, and weaving, you've triggered the move.

For Small Hands, the size difference between you and your enemy must be noticeable—if they're an inch taller, then the move wouldn't apply. If they're half a foot taller, or they weigh half again as much as you, then the move triggers.

For Nose for Gold, the value of the object is with reference to you. It might always be just about the item's Value in terms of the game—something worth more coin. But the GM can also tell you about a valuable object that you would consider especially valuable for whatever reason.

For Master Thief, keep in mind that moves like this are the only way to get +3 in a stat.

Why are you a vagabond?

- ☐ I refuse to keep my ideas to myself
- ☐ I need to rebuild my workshop anew in a safe place
- ☐ I crave adventure
- ☐ I need to find and save my family
- ☐ I need to keep my most dangerous design safe

Peer

_____ and I have been working together well for a while. We read each other's moves easily. How are my skills complimentary to them?

⋮ If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Family

_____ and I had each other's back when we were run out of a clearing because our natures got out of hand. What were we doing? What clearing might struggle to welcome us back?

⋮ When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion track.

Rival

_____ was acknowledged for a great accomplishment; my competitive nature won't let me forget it. What did they do that won praise from others?

⋮ When you challenge them to take a completely unnecessary and excessive risk to prove themselves, they take +1 forward to accept and meet your provocation; if they decline, they mark exhaustion instead.

When you open up your toolkit and dedicate yourself to making a thing or to getting to the bottom of something, decide what and tell the GM. The GM will give you between 1 to 4 conditions you must fulfill to accomplish your goal, including time taken, materials needed, help needed, facilities/tools needed, or the limits on the project. When you accomplish the conditions, you accomplish the goal.

☒ Repair

When you repair destroyed personal equipment with your toolbox, the GM will set one condition as per the toolbox move. Fulfill it, and clear all wear for that equipment. When you repair damaged personal equipment with your toolbox, you do it as long as you spend depletion or value, 1 for 1, for each box of wear you clear.

☐ Big Pockets

Take two extra boxes of depletion (they do not count against your maximum).

☐ Jury Rig

When you create a makeshift device on the fly, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you create a device that works once, then breaks. On a 10+, choose one:

- It works exceptionally well
- You get an additional use out of it

On a miss, the device works, but it has an unintended side effect that the GM will reveal when you use it.

☐ Nimble Mind

When you attempt roguish feats involving mechanisms or locks, mark depletion to roll with Cunning instead of Finesse.

☐ Dismantle

When you dismantle a broken or disabled piece of equipment or machinery, clear 2-depletion.

Notes on The Tinker Moves

For Toolbox, your features are mostly about limiting the conditions the GM might set for you, while most of your drawbacks are about creating more problems for you in the fiction, outside of this move.

- “Dedicate yourself to making a thing or to getting to the bottom of something” means that either you are trying to create a new device, or you are trying to answer some question, performing experiments or examinations to learn difficult-to-obtain information. The conditions the GM gives you are always in direct relation to what you set out to do. A relatively simple device or question might have only a single condition, while an incredibly complicated, rare, or special device might take four conditions to create.
- “Time taken” means the GM tells you how long the work will take; you need a safe space to work for that time, and new events may occur while you’re busy.
- “Materials needed,” “help needed,” and “facilities/tools needed” focus on additional resources or aid of a specialized nature that you need to accomplish your goal. Obtain those resources or aid and you fulfill the condition.
- “The limits on the project” means the GM can tell you how you can’t quite manage the full extent of what you had asked for; if you want to build a fully functional sentient wooden robot, the GM might tell you that the limit is creating only a clockwork automaton, not really a robot. Accept the limit, and the condition is satisfied.

For Repair, there is a big difference between damaged and destroyed. Damaged equipment can be repaired, by you, relatively quickly as long as you have the depletion to do it; destroyed equipment will need something special.

For Big Pockets, this does not affect the load you are able to carry.

For Jury Rig, you still need materials to construct your makeshift device. The GM might ask you to mark depletion if the materials are not available in your environment. You’re also limited by what makes sense based on those materials. If you use a makeshift device, then it usually just works, no additional move necessary; only in extremely uncertain circumstances should the GM ask you to make another move to see what happens. You cannot make out-and-out weapons (like swords or bows) with this move, though you could make mechanisms to blow down doors or walls.

For Nimble Mind, remember the stat swap is for any roguish feat attempted using a mechanism or lock, not just pick lock or disable device. For example, if you’re trying to attempt a roguish feat and fling yourself into the air using a chandelier’s winching mechanism and ropes, then you could roll with Cunning instead of Finesse. Though you do still need to have the feat marked— otherwise you’re trusting fate!

For Dismantle, taking apart a piece of equipment takes a bit of time, but you can take apart everything from a broken cart to a smashed door if you aren’t in a rush.

ADVANCE: GAIN 1 (MAX: 5)

☐ Instigator

When you trick an NPC into fighting another NPC, you can remove one option from the 7-9 list—they cannot choose that option instead of doing what you want.

☐ Pleasant Facade

When you suck up to or otherwise butter up an unsuspecting NPC, roll with Charm. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 2. Spend your hold 1 for 1 to deflect their suspicion or aggression away from you onto someone or something else. On a miss, your attempts at flattery are suspicious—they're going to keep their eye on you.

☐ Desperate Smile

When you trust fate to see you through by begging, pleading, or abasing yourself, roll with Charm instead of Luck.

☐ Charm Offensive

When you play upon an enemy's insecurities, concerns, or fears to distract them with words during a fight, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you create an opening for yourself—make any available weapon move against them at +1, or strike quickly and deal injury to them. On a 7-9, you also tick them off; they aren't listening to you anymore, no matter what you do, until the situation drastically changes. On a miss, you infuriate them—they come at you, hard, and you're not prepared.

☐ Let's Play

When you play a game of skill and wit to loosen another's tongue, roll with Charm. On a hit, they let slip something useful or valuable. On a 7-9, you have to lose the game to get them there; mark one depletion. On a miss, they're better than you ever thought; either mark one depletion and cut your losses, or mark three depletion and they'll start talking.

☐ Pocket Sand

Take the weapon skill Confuse Senses (it does not count against your maximum). When you throw something to confuse an opponent's senses at close or intimate range, roll with Cunning instead of Finesse.

Notes on The Vagrant Moves

For Instigator, keep in mind that even on a 7–9, the GM might still choose that the NPC falls for your trick. You’re best off removing the most likely option for the NPC to choose so that they’re more likely just to fall for your trick than to choose a different, highly unbecoming option from the list.

For Pleasant Facade, think of the move as providing a kind of social armor. Once you have hold, you can spend it to ameliorate misses and 7–9 results as you try to trick or persuade them further.

For Desperate Smile, your situation must be one in which you do not hold the position of power; it is about pulling on the heartstrings of someone to offer your mercy or give you a deal, not about manipulating someone weaker than you.

For Charm Offensive, you have to know your enemy’s insecurities, concerns, or fears to play upon them, so this move will often be preceded by figuring them out. On a 7–9, they’re not listening to you anymore—you can’t persuade them, can’t trick them by talking to them, and definitely can’t use Charm Offensive on them again.

For Let’s Play, the depletion you’re marking represents bets you’re losing in the effort to loosen the tongues of your marks. This move isn’t just for winning a game of chance; it’s for using gambling to get your targets to talk.

For Pocket Sand, you still need to have something nearby to throw. You may choose to always have sand in your pocket, and it would be appropriate for your GM to ask you to mark depletion should you choose to use it.

Your connections set up your relationships with the other vagabonds in your band. Each connection links you and another PC in a unique way.

Battle-Sibling

When you fight side-by-side or back-to-back with them, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves as long as you remain within intimate range of each other. Note that they do not also gain the same benefit, unless they take a Battle-Sibling connection with you as well.

Confidant

When they come to you in confidence with a problem, mark exhaustion to suggest a course of action to resolve it; if they do as you say to the best of their ability, they clear their exhaustion track.

Enabler

When you plead with them to join you in reckless action and they agree, they take +1 ongoing to follow the plan in addition to clearing exhaustion.

Ex-Convict

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-notoriety with one faction. When you read a tense situation, you can always ask “What is most valuable here?” for free, even on a miss. Both you and your connection get a +1 when acting on any of your answers.

Family

When you help them fulfill their nature, you both clear your exhaustion track.

Friend

When you help them, you can mark 2-exhaustion to give a +2, instead of 1-exhaustion for a +1.

Lover

Once per session when you share a quiet moment of intimacy, just the two of you, choose one:

- Offer them affection; if they accept it, they clear 3-exhaustion.
- Make them a promise; you take +1 ongoing to keep your word.

Loyalist

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you once served together. When you ask for a favor from that faction, you may mark 2-exhaustion to take 10+ instead of rolling.

Partner

When you fill in this connection, you each mark 2-prestige with the faction you helped, and mark 2-notoriety with the faction you harmed. During play, if you are spotted together, then any prestige or notoriety gains with those factions are doubled for the two of you.

Peer

If you share information with them after reading a tense situation, you both benefit from the +1 for acting on the answers. If you help them while they attempt a roguish feat, you gain choices on the help move as if you had marked 2-exhaustion when you mark 1-exhaustion.

Protector

When they are in reach, mark exhaustion to take a blow meant for them. If you do, take +1 ongoing to weapon moves for the rest of the scene.

Protégé

Once per game session, when you spend time training with them, choose one and hold 1:

- Learn tricks of the trade; they choose which roguish feat they teach you, and you may spend hold to attempt that roguish feat as if you had it.
- Spar with them; they choose which weapon skill they teach you, and you may spend hold to use that weapon skill as if you had it.
- Ask them about how they see the world; spend hold to take +1 forward to prove them right or wrong.

Refugee

You and your connection are from a clearing that no longer exists. You both share a common cultural practice; when you mark depletion to practice it publicly, a local denizen—either another survivor like yourselves or someone sympathetic to your loss—comes forward to offer you comfort and aid.

Rival

When you challenge them to take a completely unnecessary and excessive risk to prove themselves, they take +1 forward to accept and meet your provocation; if they decline, they mark exhaustion instead.

Veteran

When you fight side-by-side or back-to-back with them, both of you have access to the parry weapon move regardless of weapon type, as long as you remain within intimate range of each other. If you choose to inflict morale or exhaustion upon a successful parry, you inflict an additional morale or exhaustion.

Watcher

When you figure them out, you always hold 1, even on a miss. When you plead with them to go along with you, you can let them clear 2-exhaustion instead of 1.

Species Abilities

Instinct Move: Once per session, clear exhaustion when you break or damage a significant structure or feature.

Basic Moves

Attempt a Roguish Feat

When you attempt a roguish feat you are skilled in, say your goal and roll with Finesse. On a hit, you achieve your goal. On a 7-9, mark exhaustion or one risk of your feat (GM's choice) comes to bear. When you attempt a roguish feat you are NOT skilled in, you are trusting fate.

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of a 10+, choose one:

- immediately accomplish a second appropriate roguish feat, whether or not you possess that feat, as if you had rolled a 10+
- clear 2-exhaustion as you exert control over yourself and the situation

Figure Someone Out

When you try to figure someone out, roll with Charm. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 1. While interacting with them, spend your hold 1 for 1 to ask their player a question:

- is your character telling the truth?
- what is your character really feeling?
- what does your character intend to do?
- what does your character wish I'd do?
- how could I get your character to _____?

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, mark down their name on your character sheet; from this point forward, you can always tell if they are lying to you. If you roll a 12+ against a character whose name you have already marked down, you instead take +1 ongoing to act on the answers to the questions you ask.

Persuade an NPC

When you persuade an NPC with promises or threats, roll with Charm. On a 10+, they see things your way, provided you have given them a strong motive or reasonable bribe. On a 7-9, they aren't sure; the GM will tell you what you need to do to sway them.

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, you may mark exhaustion to treat this move as a 12+ on the sway an NPC Reputation move, even if you don't have a high enough Reputation with their faction to normally sway the NPC in question.

Read a Tense Situation

When you read a tense situation, roll with Cunning. On a 7-9, ask 1. On a 10+, ask 3. Take +1 when acting on the answers.

- what's my best way out / in / through?
- who or what is the biggest threat?
- who or what is most vulnerable to me?
- what should I be on the lookout for?
- who is in control here?

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, you may also ask, "How could I _____?" and fill in the blank with any action you hope to accomplish. If you follow the answer to that question, take a 12+ on the first move you make toward your desired outcome, instead of rolling.

Trick an NPC

When you trick an NPC to get what you want, roll with Cunning. On a hit, they take the bait and do what you want. On a 7-9, they can instead choose one:

- they hesitate; you shake their confidence or weaken their morale.
- they stumble; you gain a critical opportunity.
- they overreact; take +1 forward against them.

MASTERY

On a 12+, they buy into your deception utterly and entirely; it would take obvious, incontrovertible evidence to shake their belief. You can always return to the same character and play up the same trick again, taking a 10+ to trick them the same way instead of rolling.

Trust Fate

When you trust fate to get through trouble, roll with Luck. On a hit you scrape by or barrel through; the GM will tell you what it costs you. On a 10+, fortune favors the bold; your panache also earns you a fleeting opportunity.

MASTERY

On a 12+, fate smiles upon you as you receive an incredible and surprising windfall of luck. You accomplish your aim without cost, and you receive an immediate fortunate benefit; the GM will tell you what bounty befalls you.

Wreck Something

When you wreck something, roll with Might. On a hit, you seriously break it; it can't be used again until it's repaired. On a 7-9, you're imprecise and dangerous; you cause collateral damage, attract attention, or end up in a bad spot, GM's choice.

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, choose one from the list:

- inflict 2-injury on any foes in the area (from splinters, debris, falling infrastructure, etc.)
- you break, smash, or destroy something far larger and more substantial than you normally could (an entire building, a mountain face, etc.)
- you can grab up shards of useful material from the wreckage; clear 2-depletion

Help or Interfere

When you help or interfere with another vagabond, mark exhaustion to add +1 or -2 to their roll (after rolling). Mark exhaustion again to select one of the following:

- conceal your help or interference
- create an opportunity or obstacle

Plead with a PC

When you plead with a PC to go along with you, they clear 1 exhaustion if they agree to what you've proposed. You may use this move only once per session.

| Sneak           | Get into or out of places without being seen                                       | Break something, draw unwanted attention, plunge into danger |
| Tracking        | Hunt someone down, identify tracks, follow a trail of clues                        | Detection, plunge into danger, take too long                 |
| Use Device      | Operate machinery, wield ancient devices or artifacts, attempt vehicular stunts    | Break something, plunge into danger, weak result             |

Risks Definitions

BREAK SOMETHING

Break something you're carrying or in the environment. Possibly mark wear.

DETECTION

Straight up get noticed by onlooker.

DRAW UNWANTED ATTENTION

Either create hostile onlookers where before no one cared, or call attention without actually being detected.

EXPEND RESOURCES

Use up supplies. Mark depletion or exhaustion as the GM chooses.

LEAVE EVIDENCE

Leave behind evidence that can later lead an investigation against you or expose your allies to retribution.

PLUNGE INTO DANGER

Seize the chance to act and run into a more dangerous situation.

TAKE TOO LONG

Take too much time, leading the situation to change around you in some meaningful way.

WEAK RESULT

Get a hard choice about exactly what you want, or just straight up don't quite get everything you want.

Weapon Moves

All vagabonds can use Engage, Grapple, or Target, if they have a weapon with the right range.

Engage in Melee

When you engage an enemy in melee at close or intimate range, roll with Might. On a hit, trade harm. On a 10+, pick 3. On a 7–9, pick 1.

- inflict serious (+1) harm
- suffer little (-1) harm
- shift your range one step
- impress, dismay, or frighten your foe

Grapple an Enemy

When you grapple with an enemy at intimate range, roll with Might. On a hit, you choose simultaneously. Continue making choices until someone disengages, falls unconscious, or dies. On a 10+, you make one choice first, before beginning to make simultaneous choices.

- you strike a fast blow; inflict injury
- you wear them down; they mark exhaustion
- you exploit weakness; mark exhaustion to inflict 2-injury
- you withdraw; disengage to close range

Target Someone

When you target a vulnerable foe at far range, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you inflict injury. On a 10+, you can strike again before they get to cover—inflict injury again—or keep your position hidden, your choice.

Special Weapon Moves

To use a special weapon move, you must have both a weapon with the appropriate tag and the weapon skill. (Improvise Weapon and Confuse Senses just require usable materials. Hammerpaws does not use a weapon, and Hurl might not need a weapon.)

By default, unarmed vagabonds do 1 exhaustion harm. Armed vagabonds do 1 injury harm.

Battle Fury

When you fling yourself into a fury of weapon, tooth, and claw in an all-out attack at intimate range, mark wear on your weapon and roll with Luck. On a hit, fill your exhaustion track. For each box you mark, inflict 2-injury on your target. On a 7–9, your target also inflicts their harm upon you.

This move does not require the weapon to be tagged with intimate range; weapons with close range may also be used.

Charge

When you charge at an opponent at far range, mark exhaustion and roll with Might. On a hit, they must choose to either mark 2-exhaustion or allow you to push them—you say where they are driven, and you say what range you now stand at. On a 10+, inflict morale harm on them as well.

Cleave

When you cleave armored foes at close range, mark exhaustion and roll with Might. On a hit, you smash through their defenses and equipment; inflict 3-wear. On a 7–9, you overextend your weapon or yourself: mark wear or end up in a bad spot, your choice.

MASTERY

On a 12+, you inflict 6-wear instead. Any excess wear instead becomes injury or exhaustion (your choice) dealt to your foes.

Confuse Senses

When you throw something to confuse an opponent's senses at close or intimate range, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you've thrown them off balance, blinded them, deafened them, or confused them, and given yourself an opportunity. On a 10+, they have to take some time to get their bearings and restore their senses before they can act clearly again. On a 7–9, you have just a few moments.

MASTERY

On a 12+, choose one:

- you successfully confuse the senses of a whole group; apply the results of the 10+ move to any foes you choose in range
- you knock a single foe so off-kilter you can take them out exactly as you choose right now, without triggering any move

Disarm

When you target an opponent's weapon with your strikes at close range, roll with Finesse. On a hit, they have to mark 2-exhaustion or lose their weapon—it's well out of reach. On a 10+, they have to mark 3-exhaustion instead of 2.

MASTERY

On a 12+, your opponent both marks 3-exhaustion and loses their weapon.

Frightful Flourish

When you flourish your weapon when you engage a new enemy, roll with Charm. On a hit, they suffer 2-morale harm and mark exhaustion. On a 10+, you do not mark exhaustion.

This move does not require a special weapon tag.

Hammerpaws

When you come to blows with an armed opponent at close or intimate range while you are unarmed, roll with Finesse. On a hit, they inflict their harm on you. On a 7-9, choose 2. On a 10+, choose 3.

- you inflict 2-exhaustion on your opponent
- you shift your range one step
- you deflect some of their incoming blows; suffer little (-1) harm
- you inflict wear on their equipment with precise strikes
- you take an object from them; they must mark exhaustion to stop you

This move does not require a special weapon tag.

Harry a Group

When you harry a group of enemies at far range, mark wear and roll with Cunning. On a 10+, both. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- inflict 2-morale harm
- they are pinned or blocked

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, you inflict an additional 2-injury or 2-morale, your choice.

Hurl

When you hurl a weapon or dangerous object not intended for throwing at an enemy at far range, mark exhaustion and roll with Might. On a hit, your hurled weapon strikes your target; mark wear on the weapon and inflict 1-injury and 1-exhaustion on your target. On a 7-9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 2.

- mark an additional wear on the hurled item to inflict an additional 1-injury
- the hurled item rebounds to somewhere reachable, instead of out of sight or out of reach
- your target is knocked off their feet by the throw

This move does not require a special weapon tag.

Improvise Weapon

When you make a weapon out of improvised materials around you, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you make a weapon; the GM will tell you its range tag and at least one other beneficial tag based on the materials you used. On a 7-9, the weapon also has a weakness tag.

MASTERY

On a 12+, you may choose your weapon's range and two beneficial tags it bears (as long as they make sense to the item).

Long Shot

When you pull hard on your bow's draw to extend its range beyond far, mark wear and exhaustion to roll any far range weapon move (target someone, pinpoint shot, etc.) with Might instead of the move's normal stat, paying the additional cost(s) of the weapon move as well.

This weapon skill requires your weapon to be tagged with far range, this skill, and the tag for whatever weapon move you are using (if needed).

Lunge

When you make an outright lunge at a foe within close range, choose an amount of injury between 1-injury and 3-injury and roll with Finesse. On a hit, you inflict that amount of injury—ignoring armor—but if your target survives (or if other foes are present) they can take advantage of your over-extension to inflict the same amount on you. On a 7-9, they can inflict 1-injury more upon you than you had originally chosen to inflict upon them.

Paired-Fighting

When you and another vagabond pair fight back to back against foes at close range, you each mark exhaustion and one of you rolls with the following modifiers (max +3):

- +1 if you have a connection with each other
- +1 if you are outnumbered
- +1 for every 2 additional exhaustion you mark between the two of you

On a hit, you together inflict 1-injury on every foe within close range (or 3-injury total against a group), and you each suffer 1-injury. On a 7-9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 2.

- you each suffer little (-1) harm you inflict an additional 2-injury to any single target (including a single group) of your choice
- you inflict 2-morale harm
- you create a path for the two of you to retreat or advance

Paired fighting does require both vagabonds to have this skill, and both vagabonds to have a weapon with the paired fighting weapon skill tag.

Parry

When you try to parry the attacks of an enemy at close range, mark exhaustion and roll with Finesse. On a hit, you consume their attention. On a 10+, all 3. On a 7–9, pick 1.

- you inflict morale or exhaustion (GM’s choice)
- you disarm your opponent; their weapon is out of hand, but in reach
- you don’t suffer any harm

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, you can immediately riposte, choosing one:

- you inflict 2-injury with a strike that pierces their defenses; they cannot absorb the injury with armor
- you inflict 2-morale with an insulting line or gesture that demeans them; you inflict 2-exhaustion with a quick punch or blow intended to disorient and knock them out

Pinpoint Shot

When you take the time to fire a shot at far range with pinpoint accuracy, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you put the shot exactly where you choose:

- if you target an NPC’s weak point, inflict 3-injury (unblockable by armor)
- if you target a piece of equipment’s weak point, inflict 2-wear
- if you target something in the environment, you strike it, cut it, or break it as appropriate

On a 7–9, your current vantage point isn’t quite right; you need to move to a better one before you can make the perfect shot. Mark exhaustion to scramble there, and then choose as normal.

Point-Blank Shot

When you fire a shot at point-blank range (intimate range), mark any combination of up to 2-wear and up to 2-exhaustion, and roll with Luck. On a hit, you put your shot into your target; inflict injury equivalent to the wear and exhaustion you marked, combined. On a 10+, you can also skip back after your shot, moving to close range before your opponent can grab you or otherwise retaliate.

Your weapon does not need to be tagged with intimate range to use this weapon skill.

Pommel Strike

When you use the pommel of your weapon to strike an enemy at intimate range (even with a weapon not tagged for intimate range), roll with Luck. On a hit, they mark 2-exhaustion. On a 10+, they must also pick 1:

- you seize an advantageous position in the fight
- you shake their confidence; inflict 1-morale harm
- you knock them off-kilter; their next blow does -1 harm

Quick Shot

When you fire a snap shot at an enemy at close range, roll with Luck. On a hit, inflict injury. On a 7–9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 2.

- you don’t mark wear
- you don’t mark exhaustion
- you move quickly and change your position (and, if you choose, range)
- you keep your target at bay—they don’t move

MASTERY

On a 12+, take all four options from the list and inflict 2-injury instead of 1-injury.

Storm a Group

When you storm a group of foes in melee, mark exhaustion and roll with Might. On a hit, trade harm. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7–9, choose 1.

- you show them up; you inflict 2-morale harm
- you keep them off balance and confused; you inflict 2-exhaustion
- you avoid their blows to the best of your ability; you suffer little (-1) harm.
- you use them against each other; mark exhaustion again and they inflict their harm against themselves

MASTERY

On a 12+, take all four options from the list and choose one for double effect.

Surprise Jab

When you strike with a surprise weapon at intimate range, mark exhaustion and roll with Finesse. On a 7–9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 3:

- you inflict serious (+1) harm (you may pick this option multiple times)
- your enemy must mark 2-exhaustion or drop what they are holding
- you seize something vulnerable from them (item, position, etc.)

Once you’ve used surprise jab, you must successfully hide that weapon before this move can be used a second time.

Sweep

When you sweep your bow at an enemy or group of enemies at close range (even with a bow not tagged with close range), mark exhaustion and roll with Finesse. On a 7–9, the fall back 1 range. On a 10+, choose 1 additional:

- they stumble and slip, buying you more time
- they crash into each other; inflict 1-injury
- they are frightened or dismayed; inflict 1-morale harm

Switch Hands

When you shift your grip to change your dominant hand in the middle of an extended bout with a foe, roll with Finesse. On a 7-9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 2:

- your new dominant hand is fresher; clear 2-exhaustion
- your opponent is startled by the shift; they mark morale harm
- your shift gives you an immediate opportunity; mark exhaustion to seize it and inflict 2-injury

Trick Shot

When you fire a clever shot designed to take advantage of the environment at any range, mark wear and roll with Finesse. On a 7-9, choose 2. On a 10+, choose 3.

- your shot lands in any target of your choice within range, even if it's behind cover or hidden (inflicting injury or wear if appropriate)
- your shot strikes a second available target of your choice
- your shot cuts something, breaks something, or knocks something over, your choice
- your shot distracts an opponent and provides an opportunity

MASTERY

On a 12+, take all four options from the list, and your shot strikes a third available target of your choice.

Vicious Strike

When you viciously strike an opponent where they are weak at intimate or close range, mark exhaustion and roll with Might. On a hit, they suffer serious (+1) harm and cannot mark wear on their armor to block it. On a 10+, you get away with the strike. On a 7-9, they score a blow against you as well.

MASTERY

On a 12+, in addition to the results of the 10+, you strike them so well you incapacitate them, choosing one from the list:

- they cannot change position—fleeing, advancing, maneuvering, etc.—until they receive medical aid
- they cannot wield a weapon until they receive medical aid
- they cannot communicate until they receive medical aid

Species Moves

Add moves from your species into your Playbook. These moves DO count against your maximum number of Playbook moves.

Built-in Weapons

Available Species: Cat, Fox, Bird of Prey, Wolf, Wolverine, Rooster, Goat, Bobcat

Your claws, fangs, or talons are natural weaponry, with intimate range, using up no Load and inflicting injury instead of exhaustion. Choose one positive weapon tag from the list

- Barbed, Fast, Intimidating, Precise, Quick, Sharp, Signature

and one weapon flaw tag from the list:

- Identifiable, Slow, Ugly, Unwieldy

Camouflage

Available Species: Lizard, Toad, Frog

When you target someone, you can mark exhaustion to keep hidden, even on a 7-9 or when you choose to strike again.

Cashed Resources

Available Species: Fox, Squirrel, Mole, Chipmunk, Armadillo, Platypus

You've hidden resources all over the forest, sometimes even in locations that you've since forgotten. When you search for one of your caches, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you find a stash of resources; clear 2-depletion. On a 7-9, the search takes forever; mark exhaustion. On a miss, your wandering puts you in danger before you realize it.

Click Tongue

Available Species: Songbird, Squirrel, Poison Dart Frog

When you use clicks, hand gestures, and body language to coordinate with another vagabond who is helping you, they can conceal their assistance or create an opportunity for you without marking exhaustion.

Convenient Hideout

Available Species: Fox, Rabbit, Mole, Badger, Mouse

Your eyes are adept at finding good, safe places to hunker down. When you attempt to lay low in the forest, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you find a convenient hideout nearby. On a 10+, pick 2. On a 7-9, pick 1:

- Food and water are easily accessible from the hideout
- The area is untouched and undisturbed by other denizens of threats
- The route to the hideout is safe and easy

On a miss, you reach the hideout—choose 1—but you aren't alone when you arrive.

Curl Up

Available Species: Hedgehog, Tortoise, Armadillo, Porcupine

When you curl up to bolster yourself from incoming harm, roll with Might instead of Luck when trusting fate; on a 7-9, you can always mark exhaustion to avoid the cost imposed by the GM.

Drawing Up Plans

Available Species: Beaver, Corvid

When you work with the leaders of a clearing to organize a large-scale project, roll with Charm. On a hit, the people of the clearing rally behind your efforts and finish the project. On a 7-9, choose 1. On a 10+ choose 3:

- the project doesn't take a lot of time
- the project doesn't use up a clearing resource
- the project is high-quality and lasting
- no one resents your orders

On a miss, your involvement in the project draws negative attention before it can be completed; mark 2-notoriety with a relevant faction that gets involved to stop you.

Eyes in the Back of Your Head

Available Species: Bird of Prey, Cat, Wolf

When someone ambushes you, springs a trap on you, or tries to sneak up on you, roll with Cunning. On a hit, you react before they can strike; your ambusher must choose one:

- they cause a commotion; they draw unwanted attention to their attack
- they stumble and hesitate; you take +1 ongoing against them for the scene
- they lose their nerve; they mark 2-morale harm before the fight starts

On a miss, your involvement in the project draws negative attention before it can be completed; mark 2-notoriety with a relevant faction that gets involved to stop you.

Garner Sympathy

Available Species: Rabbit, Mouse, Corvid, Otter

When you plead with a PC by guilting them into going along with you, mark exhaustion to allow them to clear 2-exhaustion instead of one when they agree to what you have proposed.

Long Reach

Available Species: Frog, Toad, Lizard

Take the Pickpocket roguish feat (it does not count toward your limit). When you grab something just outside of close range (or closer) with your sticky tongue, you can roll with Might instead of Finesse.

Desmerizing Gaze

Available Species: Bird of Prey, Cat, Lizard, Goat

When you get an NPC alone and have time without distractions to hypnotize them, you can trick an NPC rolling with Charm instead of Cunning.

Nine Lives

Available Species: Cat, Corvid, Wolverine, Opossum

Once per session, when you mark your last box of injury, mark exhaustion to ignore the blow entirely and stay on your feet long enough for one last act of heroism. Once the deed is done, you collapse, unconscious.

Nocturnal Senses

Available Species: Bat, Cat, Bird of Prey

When you read a tense situation in total darkness, you can always ask "How can I use the darkness to my advantage?" even on a miss.

One Hawk's Trash

Available Species: Raccoon, Squirrel, Rat, Chipmunk, Vulture

When you dig around in a giant trash heap looking for information about the local denizens, mark exhaustion and roll with Luck. On a hit, pick 1 from the list below. On a 10+, you also find an item worth 1-Value or clear 2-depletion, your choice:

- you find something a high-status NPC threw away; the GM will tell you about their hidden allies and who threatens their position
- you find something a vulnerable NPC threw away; the GM will tell you how you can help them or exploit their vulnerability
- you find something a dangerous NPC threw away; the GM will tell you their hidden weakness or vulnerabilities

On a miss, you are confronted by another group of scavengers who don't like the competition.

Posturing

Available Species: Bird, Lizard, Porcupine, Badger, Weasel

When you persuade an NPC with threats, roll with Might instead of Charm. In addition, on a hit, you may also mark exhaustion to ensure they don't tell anyone about what they've agreed to do for you.

Scent Spray

Available Species: Skunk, Hedgehog, Poison Dart Frog

When you use your scent when confusing senses, roll with Might instead of Finesse. You can mark exhaustion to turn a miss into a 7-9 result.

Scenting the Clearing

Available Species: Dog, Wolf, Vulture

When you sniff out the details of a new clearing, roll with Cunning. On a 10+, ask two questions from the list below. On a 7-9, ask one.

- What's the most surprising scent I pickup in the clearing's most public area?
- What interesting scent trail catches my attention, and where does it lead?
- What scent has somebody taken effort to hide, and where do I smell it?
- What smells like the most dangerous place in the clearing?
- What smells like the safest place in the clearing?

On a miss, ask one, but your sniffing around leaves you distracted from another threat; it gets the drop on you.

Searching the Cracks

Available Species: Fox, Mouse, Otter, Raccoon

When you carefully search someone's private space for secrets, roll with Luck. On a hit, the GM will either tell you there are none here—they're not hiding anything—or that you found something surprising, incriminating, or telling. On a 7-9, you leave no evidence behind or you can take something with you, your choice. On a 10+, both, or you can plant something. On a miss, something you find is strange and distracts you...just long enough to be caught!

Sense of Danger

Available Species: Mouse, Squirrel, Rabbit

Take +1 Cunning (max +3).

Shell

Available Species: Tortoise

You can always parry—even when you don't have a weapon—and don't have to mark exhaustion the first time you parry in a scene.

Spines

Available Species: Hedgehog, Porcupine

Mark exhaustion to inflict 1-injury to anyone in intimate range.

Stroke of Luck

Available Species: Rabbit, Duck

Take +1 Luck (max +3).

Tight Squeeze

Available Species: Mouse, Weasel, Cat, Lizard

When you squeeze through a tight space, roll with Finesse. On a hit, you make it through to the other side. On a 7-9, mark injury or mark 3-wear on your gear, your choice. On a miss, you're stuck and something on the other side isn't looking too friendly.

Steady as a Rock

Available Species: Hedgehog, Tortoise, Badger, Wolverine, Goose

When you dedicate yourself to protecting another vagabond in a fight, mark exhaustion and hold 3. During the fight, mark exhaustion or spend 1 hold while in intimate range of that vagabond to do one of the following:

- act as a shield; prevent injury to them from a single attack
- act as an improvised weapon (close, large, unwieldy) for them
- act as a brace; give +1 to their weapon move attacking a target in close or far range

Underground Tunnels

Available Species: Rabbit, Fox, Mole, Armadillo, Chipmunk, Badger

Take the Hide roguish feat (it does not count against your limit). When you attempt to hide by burrowing underground, roll with Might instead of Finesse.

Reputation Moves

Your Reputation is the overall representation of how well or poorly a faction views you.

- Prestige helps you gain positive Reputation.
- Notoriety pushes you towards negative Reputation.

Ask for a Favor

When you ask for a reasonable favor based on your reputation, roll with Reputation with the appropriate faction. On a hit, they'll grant you what you want. On a 7–9, it costs your rep a bit; clear prestige or mark notoriety, your choice. On a miss, they refuse and view you with suspicion; mark notoriety.

| Rep.   | WHAT YOU MIGHT GET                                                             |
|--------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| +2, +3 | Minor military backup, 5- or 6-Value in monetary or physical resources         |
| +1     | Free equipment repair, full depletion resupply, a comfortable place to stay    |
| 0      | Information, one or two boxes of depletion resupply, a barebones place to stay |
| -1     | A few moments to hear you out                                                  |
| -2, -3 | A head start                                                                   |

Meet Someone Important

When you meet with someone important for the first time, roll with Reputation for their faction. On a hit, you're aware of their wider reputation (if any), and they're aware of yours (if any). On a 7–9, pick one. On a 10+, both.

- you've heard stories; ask a question about them, and the GM will tell you one story you've heard about them as an answer.
- they've heard something in your favor; take +1 forward when you first try to play up your connection with them and their faction.

On a miss, you only know the basics about them, and they've heard stories about you and the things you've done, true or false—prepare for major complications.

Endorse a New Leader

REQUIRES +1 OR HIGHER REPUTATION

When you openly endorse an individual as the new leader of a faction's forces and/or presence in a clearing, roll with Reputation with that faction. On a hit, you throw your support behind that individual and the faction's representatives in that clearing react. On a 7–9, the GM chooses 2. On a 10+, the GM chooses 1.

- the faction's current leadership in the clearing is directly opposed; you need to handle them before your endorsed candidate can take over
- the denizens of the clearing aren't on board; you need to speak to denizen leadership and convince them, or expect direct opposition
- the faction's enemies in the clearing want to take advantage of the shift in power; keep an eye out for conspiracies and plots

On a miss, after you publicly announce your support something new and dangerous is revealed about the leadership or the individual you endorsed that reframes the situation.

Vilify a Leader

REQUIRES +1 OR HIGHER REPUTATION

When you openly vilify an existing leader of a faction's forces and/or presence in a clearing, roll with Reputation with that faction. On a hit, you've stirred up dissent—the leader's departure from power is set in motion. They will be removed from power when next time passes...unless they take other action (alliances, use of force, etc.) to quash the dissent. In the meantime, on a 7–9, the GM chooses 2. On a 10+, the GM chooses 1.

- your words are taken up and elaborated upon; resistance to the leader you targeted threatens to get out of control, involving violence or arson
- the leader (or their defenders and supporters) grows more radical in their defensiveness; they will respond to any threats to their position with force
- you are singled out for your blunt outspokenness; expect reprisals

On a miss, your words wind up stoking opposition—more denizens, agents, and faction members come out in support of the leader you tried to vilify.

Forge Resistance

REQUIRES +2 OR HIGHER REPUTATION

When you promise to lead a group of downtrodden NPCs when they are faced with a frightful situation, desperate odds, or organized oppression, roll with your Reputation for their faction. On a hit, they rally, finding new strength in your words; they coalesce into an appropriately-sized group that will follow you. On a 10+, a capable leader also emerges from the group to lead alongside you; they will tell you what you need to do to inspire them to lead on their own. On a miss, your attempt to hearten the downtrodden draws unwanted attention from their enemies, trampling the hope you wished to foster; mark 2-notoriety with those you tried to lead and brace yourself for their enemies.

Sway an NPC

REQUIRES +2 OR HIGHER REPUTATION

When you try to sway an open or vulnerable NPC by appealing to their belief in your reputation, roll with Reputation for their faction. On a hit, you can change their mind about the world; say what you want them to believe, and the GM will rewrite their drive accordingly. On a 7-9, you use up some goodwill; clear 3-prestige. If you don't have enough prestige to clear, mark the remainder in notoriety. On a miss, the NPC takes the wrong message away from what you say; the GM will rewrite their drive accordingly.

Draw Attention

REQUIRES -2 OR LOWER REPUTATION

When you try to publicly draw attention to yourself as an enemy of a faction, roll with Reputation for that faction, treating it as positive (+2 or +3) for this roll. On a hit, you draw out the faction's resources to oppose you; brace yourself. On a 7-9, choose 1; on a 10+, choose 2.

- the faction employs significant military strength to chase you down
- the faction deploys an available, capable NPC agent (of your choice) to chase you down
- the faction is rattled by your threat; mark 2-notoriety with them

On a miss, your enemies are already moving against you quietly; the GM tells you how they catch you unprepared.

Intimidate Enemy Troops

REQUIRES -2 OR LOWER REPUTATION

When you draw attention to yourself and threaten enemy troops by wielding your Reputation through an intimidating display, roll with Reputation with the enemy's faction, treating it as positive (+2 or +3) for this roll. On a hit, you put fear into the enemy. On a 7-9, pick 1. On a 10+, pick 2.

- the enemy troops won't act until their leader makes a rallying speech or cry to them—the leader is exposed and vulnerable to attack
- the enemy troops will target you, above all else, when they attack the enemy troops are rattled; inflict 2-morale harm on the group

On a miss, the enemy is invigorated by their anger at you, and they act right now, in full force.

Command Resources

REQUIRES +3 REPUTATION

When you command an NPC to give you significant, valuable resources, roll with Reputation for their faction. On a 10+, you get what you need as soon as they can get it to you. On a 7-9, they impose a condition on how you can use the resources, or what you must return to the faction in recompense. On a miss, they don't have what you need, but they tell you a way you can get it at a steep cost or some serious difficulty.

Lead Troops in Battle

REQUIRES +3 OR HIGHER REPUTATION

When you lead troops of a faction in battle, roll with Reputation with that faction. On a hit, they accept you as their commander for the fight. On a 7-9, hold 2. On a 10+, hold 3. Spend your hold 1-for-1 during the fight to commit them to:

- take and hold a location
- rout a substantial enemy presence take an enemy leader captive
- destroy a fortification or resource defend a group or location

On a miss, your troops engage in battle but with a confused command structure—they wind up embroiled in chaotic battle across the entire area, and in their confusion, they're losing.

Call Upon The Enemies of Your Enemies

REQUIRES -3 REPUTATION

When you spread word that you're looking for allies against a powerful foe in the area, roll with your Reputation with that foe's faction, treating your Reputation as positive (+3) for this roll. On a hit, you discover powerful allies who are willing to help, but they're beset by their own internal squabbles. On a 7-9, you realize that your foe has eyes and ears amongst them; you risk exposing your new friends to serious consequences if you move them to action while the traitor is still active. On a miss, your foolish call for help leads you right into a trap set by your enemies.

Make a Pointed Threat

REQUIRES -3 REPUTATION

When you make a pointed threat to an NPC by wielding your reputation, roll with Reputation for their faction, treating it as positive (+3) for this roll. On a 10+, they are rattled; they must surrender, retreat, or charge, GM's choice. On a 7-9, you must make a demonstration of your dangerous intent first, before they are rattled. On a miss, your reputation precedes you; they reveal how they prepared for someone like you.

Faction-Specific Reputation Moves

Your Reputation is the overall representation of how well or poorly a faction views you.

- Prestige helps you gain positive Reputation.
- Notoriety pushes you towards negative Reputation.

Plan New Project

REQUIRES +2 MARQUISATE REPUTATION

When you convince Marquisate officers to begin a new significant project, roll with Reputation with the Marquisate. On a hit, they begin the project. On a 7-9, the GM chooses 3. On a 10+, the GM chooses 2.

- it will take time; check back in after time passes
- it requires special resources; the Marquisate agents will tell you what they need
- it requires elimination of a threat first; the Marquisate agents will point you at the threat
- it can't be quite what you asked for—just something close enough; the Marquisate agents will tell you what form it takes

On a miss, the Marquisate cannot undertake your project right now because the Marquisate's resources—and you—are required elsewhere; the GM will tell you why, and where.

Wield Bureaucracy

REQUIRES +2 EYRIE REPUTATION

When you wield the bureaucracy of the Eyrie Dynasties to achieve your ends while time passes, roll with Reputation with the Eyrie. On 7-9, choose 1. On a 10+, choose 2.

- you gather information from your contacts; ask the GM any three questions about the Woodland, and they will answer truthfully from the Eyrie's perspective
- you push the Eyrie to allocate resources just a bit differently; they will deliver some available resource to a clearing of your choice, as long as it makes any sense to do so
- you add a stipulation to an upcoming Eyrie attack or action; the soldiers will follow it
- you arrange a meeting or audience with any Eyrie individual at a place of your choosing; the GM will tell you when the meeting takes place
- you get Eyrie courts to add or repeal a legal requirement within any one Eyrie-controlled clearing; the Eyrie theoretically must follow it

On a miss, the Eyrie's bureaucracy plays back, and you find yourself charged with a duty you hadn't planned on from Eyrie authorities; fulfill it before time passes next, or mark 3-notoriety.

Incite Revolt

REQUIRES +2 WOODLAND ALLIANCE REPUTATION

When you incite local Woodland Alliance sympathizers and agents to revolt, roll with Reputation with the Woodland Alliance. On a hit, the revolt is imminent—you have to prepare! It will take place when next time passes. On 7-9, the GM chooses 2. On a 10+, the GM chooses 1.

- you need to convince at least one local sympathizer to get important resources or support for the revolt; otherwise, it will fail
- you need to weaken, destroy, or incapacitate a specific opposing force; otherwise, the revolt will fail
- you need to steal weapons or equipment for local sympathizers; otherwise, the revolt will fail
- you need to rally a local group by doing them a favor; otherwise, the revolt will fail

On a miss, the revolt fires off right now—well before you are ready, and while the opposing forces might be prepared for you. Good luck.

Conduct Sanctioned Trade

REQUIRES +2 RIVERFOLK COMPANY REPUTATION

When you write up an exchange of goods or services between any parties and sign it in the name of the Riverfolk Company, roll with Reputation with the Riverfolk Company. On a hit, you form a proper agreement the Company will uphold, by force if it must—name the parties (including you), their responsibilities and promises, and any extra penalties for breach of contract. On a 7-9, Company support—mercenaries, trade embargoes, etc.—still comes, but at a cost; when you want a Company agent to help uphold the contract, you'll have to offer a 1-Value bribe before they will act. On a 10+, the contract is airtight; provided you have a copy in hand, Company agents will enforce the contract in full. On a miss, your contract has a loophole or error in it; the Riverfolk Company won't enforce it, and it's only a matter of time before a participating party takes advantage.

Preach to the Choir

REQUIRES +2 LIZARD CULT REPUTATION

When you preach a sermon with a message to a crowd of Lizard Cultists, roll with Reputation with the Lizard Cult. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 1. Spend your hold 1-for-1 to make the crowd:

- bring someone forward and deliver them
- bring forward goods and offerings (providing you with at least 6-Value)
- unite and fight for you, destroying or attacking a target of your choice
- repair or defend something of your choice
- go quietly back to their lives

On a miss, the mob hears your message incorrectly, and acts on that belief.

Tap Criminal Networks

REQUIRES +2 CORVID CONSPIRACY REPUTATION

When you tap the local Corvid Conspiracy networks for a favor, pick your favor from the list below and roll with Reputation with the Corvid Conspiracy.

- illicit goods, left in a hidden drop location for you
- assassination, accomplished quietly and without fuss
- sabotage, conducted on valuable equipment
- blackmail, collected and delivered to you for use
- secret intelligence, captured and safely sent to you

On a 7-9, the Conspiracy fulfills the favor, but leaves a request for you too—a favor for a favor. On a 10+, the Conspiracy just leaves a reminder that it might call upon you at some later date. On a miss, your illicit communications with the Conspiracy go awry—someone else gets your request, and they aren't happy.

Requisition Permits

REQUIRES +2 GRAND DUCHY REPUTATION

When you requisition permits from the Grand Duchy, roll with Reputation with the Duchy. On a hit, you can requisition a permit with certain access rights granted. These rights remain legal until when next time passes. On a 7-9, choose 2 access rights. On a 10+ choose 3.

- you are permitted to travel through Grand Duchy tunnels with the aid of a Duchy guide, allowing you to move between any two clearings connected by tunnels without making a roll
- you are permitted to obtain supplies from Grand Duchy caches and citadels with impunity; any time you reach such a cache, you may take up to 4-Value in supplies, no questions asked
- you are permitted access to members of Duchy Parliament; you can ask any Duchy outpost for news on their locations, and you can always gain access to them, no questions asked
- you are permitted to pass freely and without molestation in Duchy controlled areas, no matter whether you are carrying weapons or obvious contraband or not
- you are permitted to act directly against or harm any individuals not openly protected by the Duchy, and any individuals openly protected against the Duchy if you can prove their culpability in a crime

On a miss, a Duchy official comes to interrogate you about your requests for permit; expect undesirable scrutiny.

Impress an Audience

REQUIRES +2 DENIZENS REPUTATION

When you try to impress a group of denizens with a tale of your folk heroism, roll with Reputation with the Denizens. On a hit, they are suitably awed by your noble deeds; hold 1. You can spend that hold to have a plucky denizen step forward to help you in a useful way when you're in need of assistance. On a 10+, the denizen you call forward with your hold is important or particularly skilled. On a miss, hold 1, but the local denizens are so convinced of your heroism that they need you to help them with an urgent problem; agree to what they're asking of you or mark 2-notoriety and lose the hold.

Incite a Mob

REQUIRES +2 HUNDREDS REPUTATION

When you call upon a mob of the Hundreds to join you in razing a building or looting something valuable, roll with Reputation with the Hundreds. On a hit, a small group joins you in your merry destruction, doing their fair share of the work until there's no more razing or looting to do. On a 10+, the group is larger (medium group) or especially devoted (two additional morale boxes). On a miss, your small group is poorly trained and of foul humor; they outstay their welcome with you and are impossible to control in any meaningful way.

Shepherd Relic

REQUIRES +2 KEEPERS IN IRON REPUTATION

When you request the Keepers in Iron grant you a relic to aid your cause, roll with Reputation with the Keepers. On a hit, they offer you a relic you can use to pursue your goals in the Woodland; the GM will tell you what the relic does and under what condition they will expect it to be returned. On a 7-9, pick 1. On a 10+, pick 3:

- the relic can exploit a weakness of your enemy (or of an obstacle)
- the relic strengthens your position with a powerful NPC, your choice
- the relic can bolster your allies when working with you for the cause
- the relic has properties that work in an unusually beneficial way

On a miss, the Keepers still offer you a relic—pick 1, as with a 7-9—but you must also agree to shepherd another item or person for them to a clearing of their choice.

Gravel Moves

When your band travels between clearings, time passes, when you go dungeon delving, or when circumstances trigger a move.

Travel Along the Path

When you travel from clearing to clearing along the path, the band collectively decides how it travels and one member rolls:

- at a relaxing pace: everyone clears 3-exhaustion; the band collectively marks a total of 2-depletion; -1 to the roll.
- at an average pace: everyone clears 2-exhaustion; the band collectively marks 1-depletion; +0 to the roll.
- safely, quickly, and under the radar: the band collectively marks 1-depletion for supplies; +1 to the roll.
- Urgently fast: everyone marks exhaustion; +2 to the roll.

On a hit, you reach the next clearing in a timely fashion. On a 10+, the trip is uninterrupted and quick. On a 7-9, you encounter something noteworthy on the path—a caravan, a battleground, or something else odd passing through. On a miss, you are caught in the middle of a dangerous situation before you arrive at the next clearing.

Travel Through the Forest

When you travel from clearing to clearing through the forest, the band collectively decides how it travels and one member rolls:

- slowly, foraging heavily: everyone clears 2-depletion; the band collectively marks an exhaustion for each band member; -1 to the roll.
- carefully, avoiding trouble: the band collectively marks one depletion or exhaustion for each band member; +1 to the roll.
- as quickly as possible: everyone marks exhaustion and depletion; +2 to the roll.

On a hit, you pass through the forest to any clearing on the other side. Along the way, one of you spots an interesting site; you leave markers so you can return after you finish your trip. On a 10+, the transit is largely safe. On a 7-9, something from the forest is following you; you can let it track you, or every vagabond marks exhaustion to lose it. On a miss, you run afoul of one of the forest's dangers during the trip, and you can't escape it easily; deal with it before you can reach the clearing on the other side.

Search for Ruins

When you travel into the forest to search for ruins, one member of the band rolls for the group:

- if the band has a detailed map of the area, take +1
- if any vagabond has +2 Luck or greater, take +1
- if any vagabond has more than 1-injury marked, take -1
- if the band doesn't have a local guide, take -1

On a hit, you find the site you seek, safely arriving at the gates of the ruins! On a 10+, you discover a safe and inviting area nearby; everyone can clear an exhaustion if you make camp before delving deeper. On a 7-9, you instead spot a threat of the ruins blocking your path forward; you'll have to find a way past or through it to enter the ruins themselves. On a miss, the ruins find you; a threat of the ruins drags you deeper in before you have time to prepare for your delve.

Return from a Forest Ruin

When you return from a forest ruin, the band collectively decides how it travels and one member of the band rolls for the group:

- calmly and quietly, taking time to retrace your steps. The band collectively marks 1-depletion for each member; +0 to the roll.
- quickly and efficiently, conserving resources. Everyone marks 1-exhaustion; +1 to the roll.
- fleeing toward safety. Everyone marks 2-exhaustion or 2-injury—their choice—and 2-wear; +2 to the roll.

On a hit, you make it to a nearby clearing—carrying whatever you obtained on your delve—and largely avoid the dangers and obstacles of the forest. On a 7-9, your return to civilization, however, is marred by a reminder of the War and its consequences. On a miss, something catches up with you before you can make it out of the forest...or you discover too late that someone you don't trust awaits your return!

Press Forward

When you press forward into a new area of the deep ruins, a member of the band must mark 1-depletion; if you can't or won't mark depletion, a threat of the ruin comes to bear on your band.

Delve Deeper

When you delve deeper into a ruin toward a new level through an open pathway, one member of the band rolls for the group:

- if every member of the band is free of injury, take +1.
- if the band collectively marks 2-depletion and 2-wear, take +1.
- if the band is dealing with an active threat or crisis, take -2.

On a hit, your band moves to the next level of the deep ruins. On a 10+, your descent is auspicious; you find some natural resources or a secure place to camp, your choice. On a miss, you descend...but a serious threat of the ruins comes to bear, trapping you on the lower level until you deal with it or find another route.

Scavenge for Resources

When your band scavenges for resources in the deep ruins, one member of the band rolls a number of dice equal to the level you are on currently, plus however many safe chambers are adjacent to the band's location. Individual vagabonds in the band can spend these dice by their value to:

- 1-2: recover 1-depletion
- 3-4: recover 1-depletion and 1-wear
- 5-6: clear 2-depletion or discover an item worth 3-value

The band can only make this move once per level of the ruins; you must descend to a new level in order to scavenge again.

Make Camp in the Ruins

When your band makes camp in the deep ruins, each member of the band marks any amount of depletion, and one member of the band rolls with the total (max +4, including the bonuses below).

- if there's a useful resource nearby (water, food, etc), take +1.
- if there's shelter or security (caves, stone doors, etc.), take +1.
- if a member of the band forgoes any benefits to stand watch, take +1.

On a hit, the band gets some rest; each member clears an exhaustion. On a 7-9, each member also picks 1. On a 10+, they instead pick 2:

- you get some sleep; clear an additional exhaustion.
- you have time for makeshift repairs; clear 1-wear.
- you map the area; take an extra die when scavenging this level.

On a miss, the supplies you spent are wasted as a threat of the ruin suddenly comes to bear; tell the GM the watch order, and they will tell you who first spots the danger now upon you.

Retreat Back to the Surface

When you retreat from the ruins back to the surface, one member of the band rolls for the group:

- if you can chart a course out through safe rooms, take +1.
- if each member of the band marks 1-exhaustion, take +1.
- if the band is retreating in the face of an active threat, take -1.
- if any member of the band is burdened, take -2

On a 10+, you scramble back to the surface, emerging to relative safety wherever you first entered the ruins. On a 7-9, one threat of the ruins blocks your escape; you must deal with it before you can claw your way out. On a miss, you find yourself trapped between an obstacle that blocks your path forward and a threat that won't stop advancing.

Session Moves

A vagabond can earn one advancement each session for each drive they fulfill. A PC advances just as soon as they fulfill the condition of the drive.

Advancement

When you advance by following a drive, choose ONE from the list:

- Take +1 to a stat (max +2)
- Take a new move from your playbook (max 5 moves from your own playbook)
- Take a new move from another playbook (max 2 moves from other playbooks)
- Take up to two new weapon skills (max 7 total)
- Take up to two new roguish feats (max 6 total)
- Add 1 box to any one harm track (max 6 each)
- Take up to two new connections (max 6 total)
- Master one basic move or up to two weapon skills you already know (max of 2 basic moves and 4 weapon skills mastered)

You cannot take more than one advance per drive per session.

Playbook Update (OPTIONAL)

At the end of a session, you may choose ONE element of your playbook to update or change from the following options:

- Replace one drive with a new drive from any playbook
- Replace nature with a new nature from any playbook
- Replace a connection (both type and subject) with a new connection from any playbook

Equipment

Creating Equipment

Equipment is always special or valuable. A rope, a torch, or glass bottle isn't "equipment," unless there's something special about it, represented by tags or by multiple boxes of Wear. To build a piece of equipment, assign it tags and boxes of wear. Add up all the costs of the equipment's traits to determine its final Value:

- Each box of wear on the equipment costs 1 Value.
- If the equipment is a weapon, it automatically gets 1 Range: intimate, close, or far. Depending upon GM approval and weapon type, you can add another range to your weapon for 1 Value.
- Each weapon move tag on a weapon costs 1 Value.
- Each positive tag on the equipment costs 1 Value.
- Each negative tag refunds 1 Value.

Equipment can have 0 boxes of Wear; such equipment is destroyed immediately if it suffers any wear.

The GM is the final arbiter of what Tags make sense on any given item, following the fiction. You can't have a small dagger tagged with Large, a hammer tagged with Sharp, or a bow tagged with Reach. Similarly, a small dagger with 5 boxes of wear, or a suit of plate armor with 1 box of wear, are both so unlikely as to be avoided.

By default most equipment of any significant size—around large dagger/short-sword sized—takes up 1 Load. Smaller equipment takes up no Load; larger equipment should be marked with a tag indicating it takes up more Load (like Weighty).

- Wear is a special harm track for equipment.
- Tags represent special traits, moves, abilities, and other mechanical effects the equipment is capable of.
- Weapon Move Tags allow a wielding vagabond to use a particular weapon move.
- Range is the distance at which the weapon is effective and usable.
- Load represents how much it weighs a vagabond down to carry.
- Value represents worth, much more than in terms of money.

Basic Value Formula

Value = Boxes of Wear + Extra Ranges + Weapon Move Tags + Special Tags – Flaw Tags

| VALUE | WORTH                                                                                                                                 |
|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | A day's worth of food, decent healing supplies for a non-life-threatening wound, a pouch of coin, a night's rest at an inn            |
| 2     | A very simple dagger, basic tools for farming or smithing, a traveling cloak                                                          |
| 3-4   | A basic sword or bow, simple leather armor, a shield, a decent wheelbarrow, a week's rest at an inn                                   |
| 5-6   | A decent sword or bow, good leather or chain armor, a wagon cart, two weeks' rest at an inn                                           |
| 7-10  | An excellent weapon, good plate armor, a chest laden with gold, an ancient jewel-encrusted cup from a ruin, a simple riverworthy boat |

Getting Help

The majority of vagabonds in Root RPG cannot craft equipment. The Tinker can, thanks to their toolbox, but that move has its own rules about crafting and creation. Generally speaking, the minimum cost in Value for a Tinker to make an item is equivalent to the item's normal Value—a sword with 2-wear and a single weapon skill tag would still cost at least 3-Value of materials to make.

A vagabond can always pay a competent crafter to make their own equipment, of course. In all such cases, though, there is uncertainty, and the GM and player should expect to see the scene in action. Crafting a new item to a vagabond's specifications isn't a simple thing, and the crafter might charge more or ask for a favor in return. Just the same, a vagabond might persuade a crafter to take on the job for a lowered price, or ask for a favor and have the crafter make it for free (if they have a high enough Reputation).

Crafting Roll

The expectation in Root RPG is that, by spending value, an appropriate amount of time, and by working with a skilled maker, a vagabond can get whatever item they desire with no check. But if you wish to introduce into your game an element of uncertainty in the quality of the item being crafted, spend the value of the desired item and make a Crafting Roll:

- Roll with Reputation of the faction crafting the item. If you are the Tinker, roll with Cunning.
- -1 if the item is being made hastily, in an unsafe location or situation, or under duress.

On a hit, the item is crafted according to your desires. On a 7-9, the item also includes 1 negative tag that the GM chooses. On a miss, the item has some detail (a tag, boxes of wear, etc.) missing or includes 2 negative tags that the GM chooses. The spent value is not recovered, but the final value of the item is reassessed and reflects the finished piece.

Positive Tags

- ✦ ACCURATE: When you inflict injury with this weapon, mark exhaustion to target a specific part of your target's body and impair it until they have time to heal. (Bow, Knives)
- ✦ AKIMBO: Mark exhaustion when wielding a dagger in each hand to inflict 1 additional injury. (Smaller weapons in pairs)
- ✦ ARROW-PROOF: Ignore the first hit dealing injury from arrows that you suffer in a scene. (Armor)
- ✦ BADGERFOLK HILT: When wielding this weapon, you can mark wear to avoid being disarmed. (Hilted weapons)
- ✦ BARBED: When you catch someone with this weapon's end, mark exhaustion to move to intimate range and grapple with them as if you had rolled a 10+. (Spears, Axes, Chains)
- ✦ BEGUILING: When you attempt to trick or persuade an NPC while you wield or display this item, mark exhaustion when you roll a 12+ to include Mastery options as if you had those Masteries. (Armor, Clothes, Trinkets)
- ✦ BINDING: When you engage in melee at close range, add this choice to the list:
  - Mark wear to wrap up your opponent's weapon; then, mark up to 2-exhaustion. Your opponent must mark the same amount of exhaustion, or you wrench the weapon from their hands. (Chains, Whips)
- ✦ BLEND: When you use this item to blend into the appropriate environment, mark wear to roll Sneak or Hide as if you had those feats. If you do have those feats, mark wear in the same situation to instead take +1 ongoing for the scene. (Camouflage, Local Clothing, etc.)
- ✦ BLUNTED: This weapon inflicts exhaustion, not injury. (Hammer, Staff)
- ✦ CATHARTIC: When you use this item for a recreational activity with another vagabond, mark 2-wear for both vagabonds to each clear 2-exhaustion. (Art Supplies, Bow and Arrow, etc.)
- ✦ CATFOLK STEEL: Mark wear when engaging in melee to shift your range one step, even on a miss. (Armor, Weapons)
- ✦ CEREMONIAL: Choose an attached faction. While this item is displayed, treat yourself as having +1 Reputation with that faction, and -1 Reputation with other factions. (Anything)
- ✦ COMFORTABLE: This item counts as 1 fewer Load. (Armor)
- ✦ COMMON: When repairing this item, you can repair twice as much wear for the same Value. (Anything)
- ✦ CONCAVE: When you engage in melee while holding this shield, mark exhaustion on a hit to knock your opponent off balance; you create an opportunity for yourself or your allies. (Shields)
- ✦ CORVID CLOTH: When you use this item to approach an unsuspecting target, mark wear to roll Blindside or Pickpocket as if you had those feats. If you do have those feats, mark wear in the same situation to instead take +1 ongoing for the scene. (Cloaks, Hoods)
- ✦ CRANE CARVED: When you use the Long-shot weapon skill with this bow, do not mark exhaustion. (Bows)
- ✦ DEFLECTING: You may mark wear on this weapon as if it was a shield or armor; it does not count as a shield or armor for any other effects. (Gauntlets, Specialized swords)
- ✦ DISARMING: When wearing this item, you are underestimated. Mark exhaustion to change a miss to a 7-9 or a 7-9 to a 10+ when tricking an NPC by appearing weak or nonthreatening. (Tattered-seeming Clothes, Burlap Robes)
- ✦ DISTRACTING: When you grapple with an enemy while you wield or display this item, mark exhaustion to change a miss to a 7-9 or a 7-9 to a 10+. (Anything visibly or audibly distracting for your enemy)
- ✦ DISGUISED: Until this item is revealed as a weapon, it will be treated as if it isn't one. When you attempt the Blindside roguish feat with this weapon while it is still unrevealed, mark wear to shift a miss to a 7-9 or a 7-9 to a 10+. (Any weapon disguised as a commonplace object)
- ✦ DURABLE: If this item would ever be destroyed, permanently remove 1-wear from it instead. If it ever has no wear remaining, it is destroyed. (Anything)
- ✦ EAGLECRAFT: Mark wear when engaging in melee to both make and suffer another exchange of harm. (Weapons)
- ✦ ENSIGILED: This item is marked with a faction's seal. When wielding or displaying this item, you can make the faction-specific Reputation move associated with that faction as if your Reputation was one level higher [max+4]. (Anything)
- ✦ ENTANGLING: When you target a vulnerable foe with this weapon, aim for the head or the feet. If the feet, then on a hit, instead of inflicting harm, your target becomes entangled and falls. They must take time to free themselves before moving. If the head, then on a hit, mark wear and inflict 2-injury. (Bolas, Whips, etc.)

Positive Tags CONTINUED

✚ EXPLOSIVE: When this item is destroyed, it explodes and deals 3-injury to everyone in its range (close). It also starts fires and destroys structures. (Dynamite, Grenades, etc.)

✚ FASCINATING: After you meet someone important, mark exhaustion and pick 1; you tell them how you used the item to:

- Defend a faction, person, or clearing; they will tell you some current news relevant to that thing.
- Fight a faction, person, or idea; they will reveal their true allegiance in the conflict you've described.
- Serve a faction, person, or cause; they will point you toward others who share your loyalty to that thing.

You can mark exhaustion to ask a followup question; they must answer it honestly, but can be cagey with the details. (Anything)

✚ FAST: Mark wear when engaging in melee to suffer 1 fewer harm, even on a miss. (Smaller or thinner weapons)

✚ FRIENDLY: When you meet someone important, mark exhaustion to roll with your Reputation +1. (Armor, nonthreatening weapons like Staves)

✚ FLEXIBLE: When you grapple with someone, mark exhaustion to ignore the first choice they make. (Armor)

✚ FOXFOLK STEEL: Ignore the first box of wear you mark on this item each session. (Weapons and Some Armor)

✚ HAIR TRIGGER: Mark wear to target a vulnerable foe at close range instead of far. (Crossbow)

✚ HEALER'S KIT: Mark wear to clear exhaustion. Mark 2-wear to clear injury. (Healer's Kit)

✚ HEAVY BLUDGEON: Mark exhaustion to ignore your enemy's armor when you inflict harm. (Hammer, Mace)

✚ HEAVY DRAW WEIGHT: When you target a vulnerable foe with this bow, mark exhaustion to inflict 1 additional injury. (Bow)

✚ HIDDEN: Mark exhaustion when being searched or examined to ensure this item goes unnoticed. Mark wear to attempt the Blindside roguish feat if you don't have it, or to take a 10+ to Blindside if you do have it. (Stiletto, Baton)

✚ HILT GUARD: When you parry with this weapon, you can mark wear instead of exhaustion. (Dagger, Rapier, Sword)

✚ IMPRESSIVE: When you storm a group wielding this item, mark wear to inflict 2-morale harm on them, in addition to the consequences of your roll. (Skull-shaped Hammer, Black Sword)

✚ INCENDIARY: This item inspires members of one faction, and angers and upsets members of another. When you openly give this item to an interested party in order to spread its message, mark prestige equal to this item's Value with the positive faction, and notoriety equal to this item's Value with the negative faction. (Pamphlets, Libel, Slandorous Texts)

✚ INTIMIDATING: When you flaunt this item to persuade an NPC through threats, you can mark 2-notoriety with their faction to shift a miss to a 7-9 or a 7-9 to a 10+. (Any weapon)

✚ INSPIRING: When you use this item to help another vagabond, you can mark wear instead of exhaustion. (Anything)

✚ INTRIGUING: Mark wear when you play this instrument to ask an audience member a question from figure someone out. (Musical Instrument)

✚ INVIGORATING: When you consume this item, mark 2-injury to clear all your exhaustion and add 2 boxes to your exhaustion track for the rest of the scene (they go away at the end of the scene, whether they are marked or unmarked, with no further harmful effects either way). (Stimulant)

✚ IRON BOLTS OR FLANGES: This weapon inflicts 1 additional wear when its harm is absorbed by armor. (Bow, Crossbow, Mace)

✚ LARGE: Mark exhaustion when inflicting harm with this weapon to inflict 1 additional harm. (Weapons)

✚ LEGENDARY: This item has its own reputation track, referred to as Legend, equivalent to 15 boxes of Prestige. It starts with Legend +1, and has no Legend boxes marked. To reach Legend +2, it would have to have 10 boxes of Legend marked, and then would clear its track. To reach Legend +3, it would have to have 15 boxes of Legend marked. This item also has a favored faction and a hated faction. Any time you wield this item openly, you do not mark prestige or notoriety at all. Instead, you mark Legend on this item when you aid the favored faction and injure the hated faction. For Reputation moves, roll with the item's Legend instead of your own Reputation. Whenever any session goes by in which you did not mark any Legend on this item, clear 1 box of Legend from this item. If you have no boxes to clear, reduce its Legend by 1. (Anything)

✚ LIGHT: This item doesn't count towards your Load. (Anything made from lighter materials than normal)

Positive Tags CONTINUED

✚ LUXURY: After creation, this item is worth +3-Value. (Anything)

✚ MENACING: While wielding or displaying this item, you can intimidate enemy troops with -1 Reputation—instead of -2 Reputation or lower—and you always inflict an additional morale harm on the group, even on a miss. (Armor, Weapons)

✚ METAL BOSS: When you engage in melee with an opponent, mark wear to inflict exhaustion in addition to all other harm. (Shield)

✚ METAL RIM: When you absorb injury as wear on this shield in close combat, you may mark an additional wear to immediately strike back with the edge of the shield and inflict injury. (Shield)

✚ MOUSEFOLK STEEL: Mark wear to engage in melee using Cunning instead of Might. (Weapons)

✚ MIGHTY: When you wreck something with this item, mark 2-wear to shift a miss to a 7–9 or a 7–9 to a 10+ result. (Explosives, Heavy weapons)

✚ NASTY: When you grapple with an enemy, both yours and your enemy's first choice is doubled in effect. (Heavy Gauntlet or other heavy weapon)

✚ NOTCHED: When you inflict wear on armor or another weapon, mark wear to inflict 2 additional wear. (Bladed weapons)

✚ OILED STRING: Mark wear to use the weapon skill quick shot even if you don't have it. (Bow)

✚ OTTERFOLK WEBBING: Increase your carrying capacity by 2-Load. (Armor, Clothes, Packs)

✚ POISON: When you target a vulnerable foe, inflict exhaustion instead of injury; your target is poisoned until cured. While poisoned, each time they take a significant or strenuous action, inflict exhaustion. If they fall unconscious, inflict injury every 6 hours until they receive the cure or perish. (Anything envenomed or poisoned)

✚ PRECISE: Mark wear to ignore your enemy's armor when you inflict harm. (Thin weapons)

✚ PUNCH THROUGH: Mark exhaustion when dealing harm at intimate range to ignore your enemy's armor. (Daggers)

✚ QUICK: Mark exhaustion to engage in melee with Finesse instead of Might. (Small or fast weapons)

✚ RABBITFOLK STEEL: Mark wear to engage in melee with Finesse instead of Might. (Weapons)

✚ RALLYING: While you wield or display this item, you can lead troops of a faction in battle with +2 Reputation—instead of +3 Reputation—with their faction; you always gain 1 additional hold, even on a miss. (Anything)

✚ RATFOLK IRON: When you engage in melee, mark exhaustion to choose an additional option. (Weapons)

✚ REACH: When you engage in melee, mark wear on this weapon to inflict harm instead of trading harm; you cannot use this tag if your enemy's weapon also has reach. (Large, tall weapons)

✚ REFRESHING: When you take some time to relax and drink or eat from this item with a group, mark 3-wear, +1 additional wear for each participant past the third. Every participant clears all exhaustion. (Meal, Flask)

✚ RIPPER: When you inflict injury on an opponent with this weapon, you may mark wear; if you do, they must mark 2-exhaustion, or they permanently lose 1 injury box. This tag costs 2-Value instead of 1-Value. (Edged weapons)

✚ REINFORCED: While wearing this armor, you may absorb injury as exhaustion 1-for-1 instead of absorbing it as wear. (Armor)

✚ SCATTERED SPIKE: When you throw out caltrops to cover a door, path, or small area, mark any amount of wear. Anyone who crosses the caltrops must either take time and pass cautiously, or mark injury for each wear you marked to cover the area. (Caltrops)

✚ SEASONED: When adding ingredients to this item for cooking, treat the meal as an item with the Refreshing tag and Wear equal to the amount of Depletion or Value spent on those ingredients. (Cookware)

✚ SHARP: Mark wear when inflicting harm with this weapon to inflict 1 additional harm. (Edged weapons)

✚ SHORT LIMBS: Mark wear to fire a quick shot at far range. (Small bow)

✚ SILENCED: Mark wear to attempt the Blindside roguish feat if you don't have it; if you do have Blindside, mark wear to ensure that you do not draw unwanted attention, even on a miss. (Bows, Crossbows)

- ✦ SOOTHING: Mark exhaustion when you play this instrument in a quiet moment to clear exhaustion from each of your listeners. (Musical Instrument)
- ✦ SPECIALIZED: When you craft this item, choose a move from your playbook that you haven't unlocked. While you wield or wear this item, you can mark wear and exhaustion to make use of that move for the scene. This tag costs 2-Value instead of 1-Value. (Anything)
- ✦ STURDY: When you would mark wear on this item, you may mark exhaustion instead. You cannot mark exhaustion to absorb injury with this tag. (Anything)
- ✦ SYMBOLIC: Choose a faction; when you endorse or vilify a new leader of that faction, remove an option from the list before the GM picks. (Anything)
- ✦ TAPERED: When you attempt the Blindside roguish feat, mark wear to inflict an additional 2-harm. (Daggers)
- ✦ THICK: When you mark wear on this shield to block a hit, you only ever mark 1-wear, even if you are blocking more harm from a single hit. (Shield)
- ✦ THIEF KIT: When you attempt a roguish feat appropriate for this item, you may mark wear on this item instead of marking exhaustion to avoid a risk coming to bear on a 7–9. (Tools, specially made armor or weapons)
- ✦ THORNBACK: When an opponent grabs you while you are wearing this item, mark exhaustion to inflict 1-injury. Until they let you go, they suffer 1-injury each time they act against you. (Armor)
- ✦ THROWABLE: Mark exhaustion to target a vulnerable foe with this weapon at far range. (Daggers, Grenades)
- ✦ TIGHTLY WOVEN: When you take a few seconds to repair this armor after a fight, clear 1-wear you marked during the fight. (Chain Armor)
- ✦ TRICKY: When you use this item to trick an NPC by distracting them at a distance, on a 7–9 mark wear to eliminate one option from the trick an NPC move before the NPC picks. (Bolas, Bows)
- ✦ UNASSUMING: Until you harm an enemy, they will never deem you more of a threat than other vagabonds with arms and armor. (Robes, Staves)
- ✦ VERSATILE: When you move to or from a range this weapon can reach, mark wear to make a quick strike and inflict injury on any opponent in this weapon's range. (Fast weapons)
- ✦ WELL-KEPT: This piece of armor has been well-maintained and repaired over the years, so much so that it is very difficult to destroy. This armor is never destroyed for all of its wear being filled; it can only be destroyed by filling every box of wear, and then taking direct, intentional action to destroy it with specialized tools or a particularly destructive environment. (Old but sturdy armor)

Negative Tags

- BORROWED: This item is on loan from a high-status benefactor and must eventually be returned. When you create an item with this tag, name the faction, and the GM names the benefactor. Your benefactor is always able to find you, and has many envoys at their disposal. When time passes, one comes to collect; roll with Luck. On a hit, the envoy asks for a favor; do it, and you can keep the item. On a 10+, the envoy also gives you a chance to purchase the item instead; the GM will tell you the cost. On a miss, you must return the item or face grave consequences. This tag refunds 6-Value instead of 1-Value. (Anything)
- BRITTLE: The first time you mark wear on this item during a session, mark an additional box. Any time a foe inflicts wear on this item, they inflict 1 additional wear. (Armor, Tools, Weapons)
- BULKY: This weapon cannot be hidden and is always visible while on your body. Mark exhaustion whenever you attempt a roguish feat or trust fate to sneak, hide, blindside, or perform an act of acrobatics. (Large weapons)
- BURDENSOME: When you travel from clearing to clearing along the path, you may only do so at a relaxed or average pace. (Armor)
- CLUMSY: When you engage in melee with this item, you cannot choose to suffer little (–1) harm. When you wreck something with this item, you always cause collateral damage, even on a 10+. (Explosives, Weapons)
- CONSPICUOUS: When you target a vulnerable foe at far range, you cannot keep your position hidden, even on a 10+. Mark wear to ignore this effect. (Any far-range weapon that is particularly noisy or visible)
- CONTRABAND: When this item is created, choose a faction that recognizes it as illegal. When someone in a position of authority with that faction discovers you are carrying this item, mark 2-notoriety; they will immediately attempt to confiscate it. You may apply this tag again to select an additional faction. (Armor, Clothes, Weapons)
- COVETED: When you first arrive in a clearing, roll with Luck. On a hit, this item attracts unwanted attention from the local denizens; the GM will tell you who has their eye on it. On a 7-9, their interest is intense; they offer to purchase it, try to steal it, or simply attempt to take it, GM's choice. On a 10+, the interest is good-natured—admiration of the craft, interest in the object's history—and modest. On a miss, someone powerful in the clearing decides to pursue this item, even at great cost. (Anything)
- CUMBERSOME: Mark 1-exhaustion when you don your armor—clear 1-exhaustion when you take it off. (Heavy Armor)
- CUSTOM FITTED: This item can only be wielded or worn by a particular species of animal common in the Woodland. When this item is created, choose the single type of animal that can use it—all others find it nearly impossible to use and must mark an exhaustion to take any meaningful action while doing so. This tag cannot be chosen by a player when creating an item; only the GM can assign this tag to an item. (Anything)
- CURSED: Allied NPCs suffer morale harm when they see you bearing this item. (Anything with a hateful myth around it)
- DANGEROUS: Mark injury—in addition to any other consequences—when you make a weapon move with this item and roll a 7-9. (Some explosives, difficult weapons)
- EERIE: When you persuade someone while displaying this item and roll 7-9 or a miss, mark notoriety in addition to any other consequences of your roll. (Anything strange or unusual)
- EXPENDABLE: When you throw this weapon, it is automatically destroyed. (Explosives, Caltrops, Bearings)
- FLAMBOYANT: When you attempt a roguish feat to sneak or hide, you incur an additional risk, even when using Mastery options. (Anything)
- FRAGILE: When you make a weapon move with this weapon, mark wear on it. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect. (Light weapons)
- HARD TO HOLD: When you grapple with an enemy, if you roll a 7-9, you lose your grip on this item in addition to the other consequences of your roll. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect. (Anything with poor grip)
- HATED: Take –2 Reputation with the faction that loathes this item while it is displayed. If you reveal this item to foes from that faction, they clear morale as they are energized by anger at you. (Anything)
- IDENTIFIABLE: This item is known to be associated with a particular individual. Anyone who sees it instantly recognizes it and associates you with that individual. (Anything)

Negative Tags CONTINUED

- IMMORAL: While this item is displayed, you cannot persuade or ask for a favor from denizens most directly insulted by its immoral nature. Take -1 to ask for a favor from all other denizens while this item is visible. (Cat Claw Knuckles, Bird Beak Necklace, etc.)
- INCRIMINATING: When any significant individual member of the faction offended by this item first sees you bearing it, mark notoriety with that faction. (Anything)
- LOOSE WEAVE: For each injury you absorb with this armor, mark 2-wear instead of 1-wear. This tag refunds 2-Value instead of 1-Value. (Chain armor)
- MAKESHIFT: This item cannot be repaired. This negative tag refunds 2-Value instead of 1-Value. (Anything created with Improvise a Weapon)
- NOISY: When you wreck something using this item, you always attract attention, regardless of the roll. (Explosives)
- SCARCE: The tools to repair this item are not commonplace. Standard repairs can clear wear to one box fewer than maximum (so an item with 3 boxes of wear could only ever be repaired through standard means to 2-wear marked). Full repairs for this item require specialists with rare equipment. (Anything antique or rare)
- SHABBY: In addition to any other consequences, mark wear on this item when you roll a miss while wielding it. (Weapons, Tools, etc.)
- SHODDY: Repairing this item costs twice as much Value per box of wear cleared. (Anything)
- SLOW: When you engage in melee with this weapon, choose one fewer option. Mark wear to ignore this effect. (Heavy weapons)
- SOFTWOOD: When you mark wear on this shield instead of marking injury, mark additional wear. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect. (Shields)
- SUSPICIOUS: When you wear, wield, or otherwise display this item, you must mark an additional exhaustion to attempt to evade detection or hide from someone actively looking for you. (Anything)
- UGLY: Take -1 to meet someone important while they can see this item. Mark exhaustion to hide it. (Weapons or handheld items)
- UNBALANCED: When you engage in melee, you pick one fewer option on a hit. (Heavy weapons)
- UNIMPRESSIVE: While you wield or wear this item, you always inflict one fewer morale harm and take -1 to meet someone important. (Armor, Weapons)
- UNWIELDY: Take a -1 to all weapon moves—both basic and special weapon moves—made with this weapon. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect. (Anything)
- WEIGHTY: This item counts as 1 additional Load. (Anything large)
- WICKED: Anyone who sees this weapon will deem its wielder a threat, at least to be watched carefully. When you inflict any harm with this weapon, mark notoriety with an observing faction for each harm inflicted. (Weapons)

— Hard to Hold: When you grapple with an enemy, if you roll a 7-9, you lose your grip on this item in addition to the other consequences of your roll. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect.

Blade of the Last Dynasty / Sword of the Grue King ■■■■■

Value: 12 | Load: 1 | Range: Close
Weapon skill tags: Parry, Vicious Strike

✚ Legendary: This item has its own reputation track, referred to as Legend, equivalent to 15 boxes of Prestige. It starts with Legend +1, and has no Legend boxes marked. To reach Legend +2, it would have to have 10 boxes of Legend marked, and then would clear its track. To reach Legend +3, it would have to have 15 boxes of Legend marked. This item also has a favored faction (the Eyrie) and a hated faction (the Alliance). Any time you wield this item openly, you do not mark prestige or notoriety at all. Instead, you mark Legend on this item when you aid the favored faction and injure the hated faction. For reputation moves, roll with the item's Legend instead of your own Reputation. Whenever any session goes by in which you did not mark any Legend on this item, clear 1 box of Legend from this item. If you have no boxes to clear, reduce its Legend by 1.

✚ Luxury: After creation, this item is worth +3-Value.

— Identifiable: This item is known to be associated with a particular individual. Anyone who sees it instantly recognizes it and associates you with that individual.

— Brittle: The first time you mark wear on this item during a session, mark an additional box. Any time a foe inflicts wear on this item, they inflict 1 additional wear.

Royal Oak Bow ■■■■

Value: 7 | Load: 2 | Range: Far
Weapon skill tags: Trick Shot

✚ Accurate: When you inflict injury with this weapon, mark exhaustion to target a specific part of your target's body and impair it until they have time to heal.

✚ Heavy Draw Weight: When you target a vulnerable foe with this bow, mark exhaustion to inflict 1 additional injury.

— Weighty: This item counts as 1 additional Load.

Harp Bow ■■■■

Value: 6 | Load: 1 | Range: Close
Weapon skill tags: Quick Shot

✚ Disguised: Until this item is revealed as a weapon, it will be treated as if it wasn't one. When you attempt the Blindside roguish feat with this weapon while it is still unrevealed, mark wear to shift a miss to a 7-9 or a 7-9 to a 10+.

✚ Short Limbs: Mark wear to fire a quick shot at far range.

Crossbow ■■

Value: 6 | Load: 1 | Range: Far
Weapon skill tags: Trick Shot

✚ Oiled String: Mark wear to use the weapon skill quick shot even if you don't have it.

✚ Hair Trigger: Mark wear to target a vulnerable foe at close range instead of far.

Clockwork Wristbow ■■

Value: 4 | Load: 0 | Range: Far
Weapon skill tags: Quick Shot, Point-Blank Shot

✚ Hidden: Mark exhaustion when being searched or examined to ensure this item goes unnoticed. Mark wear to attempt the Blindside roguish feat if you don't have it, or to take a 10+ to Blindside if you do have it.

— Scarce: The tools to repair this item are not commonplace. Standard repairs can clear wear to one box fewer than maximum (so an item with 3 boxes of wear could only ever be repaired through standard means to 2-wear marked). Full repairs for this item require specialists with rare equipment.

Automatic Crossbow ■■■■

Value: 5 | Load: 1 | Range: Far
Weapon skill tags: Harry a Group, Storm a Group

✚ Hair Trigger: Mark wear to target a vulnerable foe at close range instead of far.

— Conspicuous: When you target a vulnerable foe at far range, you cannot keep your position hidden, even on a 10+. Mark wear to ignore this effect.

— Scarce: The tools to repair this item are not commonplace. Standard repairs can clear wear to one box fewer than maximum (so an item with 3 boxes of wear could only ever be repaired through standard means to 2-wear marked). Full repairs for this item require specialists with rare equipment.

Thrown

Blow Gun ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1 | Range: Far

✚ Poison: When you target a vulnerable foe, inflict exhaustion instead of injury; your target is poisoned until cured. While poisoned, each time they take a significant or strenuous action, inflict exhaustion. If they fall unconscious, inflict injury every 6 hours until they receive the cure or perish.

Bull Whistle Blowgun ■ ■

Value: 4 | Load: 0 | Range: Far

✚ Accurate: When you inflict injury with this weapon, mark exhaustion to target a specific part of your target's body and impair it until they have time to heal.

✚ Common: When repairing this item, you can repair twice as much wear for the same Value.

✚ Poison: When you target a vulnerable foe, inflict exhaustion instead of injury; your target is poisoned until cured. While poisoned, each time they take a significant or strenuous action, inflict exhaustion. If they fall unconscious, inflict injury every 6 hours until they receive the cure or perish.

✚ Fragile: When you make a weapon move with this weapon, mark wear on it. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect.

Sling and Rocks ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 0 | Range: Close

Weapon skill tags: Harry a Group

Custom Sling ■ ■

Value: 6 | Load: 0 | Range: Close, Far

Weapon skill tags: Harry a Group, Trick Shot

✚ Tricky: When you use this item to trick an NPC by distracting them at a distance, on a 7–9 mark wear to eliminate one option from the trick an NPC move before the NPC picks.

Bolas ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1 | Range: Far

Harm: Special

✚ Entangling: When you target a vulnerable foe with this weapon, aim for the head or the feet. If the feet, then on a hit, instead of inflicting harm, your target becomes entangled and falls. They must take time to free themselves before moving. If the head, then on a hit, mark wear and inflict 2-injury.

Armor

These pre-generated equipment lists are examples of what might be found throughout the Woodland. Use these when you need to stat up a piece of equipment quickly, or when you need a template you can change to make something special.

Armor

Leather Armor ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Flexible: When you grapple with someone, mark exhaustion to ignore the first choice they make.

Chainmail ■ ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 2

✚ Tightly Woven: When you take a few seconds to repair this armor after a fight, clear 1-wear you marked during the fight.

— Weighty: This item counts as 1 additional Load.

Plate Armor ■ ■ ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 2

✚ Arrow-proof: Ignore the first hit dealing injury from arrows that you suffer in a scene.

— Cumbersome: Mark 1-exhaustion when you don your armor—clear 1-exhaustion when you take it off.

Heavy Gambeson ■

Value: 2 | Load: 1

✚ Reinforced: While wearing this armor, you may absorb injury as exhaustion 1-for-1 instead of absorbing it as wear.

Scavenged Armor ■ ■

Value: 2 | Load: 1

✚ Disarming: When wearing this item, you are underestimated. Mark exhaustion to change a 7-9 to a 10+ or a miss to a 7-9 when tricking an NPC by appearing weak or nonthreatening.

— Makeshift: This item cannot be repaired. This negative tag refunds 2-Value instead of 1 Value.

Keepers' Cuirass ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

Value: 5 | Load: 2

✚ Reinforced: While wearing this armor, you may absorb injury as exhaustion 1-for-1 instead of absorbing it as wear.

✚ Thornback: When an opponent grabs you while you are wearing this item, mark exhaustion to inflict 1-injury. Until they let you go, they suffer 1-injury each time they act against you.

✚ Well-Kept: This piece of armor has been well-maintained and repaired over the years, so much so that it is very difficult to destroy. This armor is never destroyed for all of its wear being filled; it can only be destroyed by filling every box of wear, and then taking direct, intentional action to destroy it with specialized tools or a particularly destructive environment.

— Weighty: This item counts as 1 additional Load

Shining Aegis ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

Value: 4 | Load: 2

✚ Distracting: When you grapple with an enemy while you wield or display this item, mark exhaustion to change a 7-9 to a 10+ or a miss to a 7-9.

✚ Inspiring: When you use this item to help another vagabond, you can mark wear instead of exhaustion.

✚ Symbolic: Choose a faction; when you endorse or vilify a new leader of that faction, remove an option from the list before the GM picks.

— Cumbersome: Mark 1-exhaustion when you don your armor—clear 1-exhaustion when you take it off.

— Flamboyant: When you attempt a roguish feat to sneak or hide, you incur an additional risk, even when using Mastery options.

Robes

Robes ■

Value: 2 | Load: 1

✚ Unassuming: Until you harm an enemy, they will never deem you more of a threat than other vagabonds with arms and armor.

Forest Cloak ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Blend: When you use this item to blend into the appropriate environment, mark wear to roll Sneak or Hide as if you had those feats. If you do have those feats, mark wear to instead take +1 ongoing for the scene.

Performer's Garb ■ ■

Value: 4 | Load: 1

✚ Disarming: When wearing this item, you are underestimated. Mark exhaustion to change a 7-9 to a 10+ or a miss to a 7-9 when tricking an NPC by appearing weak or nonthreatening.

✚ Distracting: When you grapple with an enemy while you wield or display this item, mark exhaustion to change a 7-9 to a 10+ or a miss to a 7-9.

Sacrificial Leathers ■ ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Ensigled (Lizard Cult): This item is marked with the seal of the Lizard Cult. When wielding or displaying this item, you can Preach to the Choir as if your Reputation was one level higher [max+4].

✚ Flexible: When you grapple with someone, mark exhaustion to ignore the first choice they make.

— Immoral: While this item is displayed, you cannot persuade or ask for a favor from denizens most directly insulted by its immoral nature. Take -1 to ask for a favor from all other denizens while this item is visible.

Cloak of the Corvid King ■■■■

Value: 4 | Load: 1

✚ Corvid Cloth: When you use this item to approach an unsuspecting target, mark wear to roll Blindsight or Pickpocket as if you had those feats. If you do have those feats, mark wear in the same situation to instead take +1 ongoing for the scene.

✚ Ensiled (Corvid Conspiracy): This item is marked with the seal of the Corvid Conspiracy. When wielding or displaying this item, you can Tap Criminal Networks as if your Reputation was one level higher [max+4].

— Contraband (Eyrie Dynasties & Grand Duchy): This item is considered illegal by the Eyrie and Grand Duchy. When someone in a position of authority with those faction discovers you are carrying this item, mark 2-notoriety; they will immediately attempt to confiscate it.

Shields

Spiked Shield ■■

Value: 4 | Load: 1

✚ Nasty: When you grapple with an enemy, both yours and your enemy's first choice is doubled in effect.

✚ Distracting: When you grapple with an enemy while you wield or display this item, mark exhaustion to change a 7-9 to a 10+ or a miss to a 7-9.

Concave Shield ■■■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Concave: When you engage in melee while holding this shield, mark exhaustion on a hit to knock your opponent off balance; you create an opportunity for yourself or your allies.

— Softwood: When you mark wear on this shield instead of marking injury, mark additional wear. Mark exhaustion to ignore this effect.

Turtle Shell Pavise ■■■■

Value: 5 | Load: 1

✚ Arrow-proof: Ignore the first hit dealing injury from arrows that you suffer in a scene.

✚ Thick: When you mark wear on this shield to block a hit, you only ever mark 1-wear, even if you are blocking more harm from a single hit.

— Immoral: While this item is displayed, you cannot persuade or ask for a favor from turtles, who are most directly insulted by its immoral nature. Take -1 to ask for a favor from all other denizens while this item is visible.

Buckler ■■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Metal Rim: When you absorb injury as wear on this shield in close combat, you may mark an additional wear to immediately strike back with the edge of the shield and inflict injury.

Garge Shield ■■■

Value: 4 | Load: 1

✚ Metal Boss: When you engage in melee with an opponent, mark wear to inflict exhaustion in addition to all other harm.

Kite Shield ■■■■

Value: 6 | Load: 1

✚ Arrow-Proof: Ignore the first hit dealing injury from arrows that you suffer in a scene.

✚ Thick: When you mark wear on this shield to block a hit, you only ever mark 1-wear, even if you are blocking more harm from a single hit.

Helmets

Bear Skull Helmet ■■

Value: 2 | Load: 1

✚ Impressive: When you storm a group wielding this item, mark wear to inflict 2-morale harm on them, in addition to the consequences of your roll.

— Cursed: Allied NPCs suffer morale harm when they see you holding this item.

These pre-generated equipment lists are examples of what might be found throughout the Woodland. Use these when you need to stat up a piece of equipment quickly, or when you need a template you can change to make something special.

Collapsible Paraglider ■■■

Value: 4 | Load: 2

✚ Thief Kit: When you attempt a roguish feat appropriate for this item, you may mark wear on this item instead of marking exhaustion to avoid a risk coming to bear on a 7–9.

✚ Sturdy: When you would mark wear on this item, you may mark exhaustion instead. You cannot mark exhaustion to absorb injury with this tag.

Portable Easel & Paints ■■■■

Value: 4 | Load: 2

✚ Cathartic: When you use this item for a recreational activity with another vagabond, mark 2-wear for both vagabonds to each clear 2-exhaustion.

➖ Weighty: This item counts as 1 additional Load.

Masterwork Instrument ■■■■

Value: 6 | Load: 1

✚ Inspiring: When you use this item to help another vagabond, you can mark wear instead of exhaustion.

✚ Signature: Whenever you earn prestige or notoriety while showing this item, mark 1 additional prestige or notoriety.

Flute ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Intriguing: Mark wear when you play this instrument to ask an audience member a question from figure someone out.

Grappling Gun ■■■■

Value: 4 | Load: 1

✚ Thief Kit: When you attempt a roguish feat appropriate for this item, you may mark wear on this item instead of marking exhaustion to avoid a risk coming to bear on a 7–9.

➖ Scarce: The tools to repair this item are not commonplace. Standard repairs can clear wear to one box fewer than maximum (so an item with 3 boxes of wear could only ever be repaired through standard means to 2-wear marked). Full repairs for this item require specialists with rare equipment.

Herb Satchel ■■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Healer's Kit: When you use these supplies to provide medical aid to someone (including yourself), mark wear to clear exhaustion from them, or mark 2-wear to clear injury from them.

Cast-iron Cookpot ■■

Value: 2 | Load: 2

✚ Seasoned: When adding ingredients to this item for cooking, treat the meal as an item with the Refreshing tag and Wear equal to the amount of Depletion or Value spent on those ingredients.

➖ Weighty: This item counts as 1 additional Load.

Oilskin Pouch ■■

Value: 3 | Load: 0

✚ Otterfolk Webbing: Increase your carrying capacity by 2-Load.

✚ Sturdy: When you would mark wear on this item, you may mark exhaustion instead. You cannot mark exhaustion to absorb injury with this tag.

➖ Ugly: Take –1 to meet someone important while they can see this item. Mark exhaustion to hide it.

Lichenlily Brooch ■■■

Value: 7 | Load: 0

✚ Beguiling: When you attempt to trick or persuade an NPC while you wield or display this item, mark exhaustion when you roll a 12+ to include Mastery options as if you had those Masteries.

✚ Luxury: After creation, this item is worth +3-Value.

➖ Flamboyant: When you attempt a roguish feat to sneak or hide, you incur an additional risk, even when using Mastery options.

Libelous Documents ■■■

Value: 3 | Load: 1

✚ Incendiary: This item inspires members of one faction, and angers and upsets members of another. When you openly give this item to an interested party in order to spread its message, mark prestige equal to this item's Value with the positive faction, and notoriety equal to this item's Value with the negative faction.

➖ Incriminating: When any significant individual member of the faction offended by this item first sees you bearing it, mark notoriety with that faction.

Consumables

Caltrops ■■

Value: 3 | Load: 1 | Range: Special
Harm: Special

✚ Scattered Spike: When you throw out caltrops to cover a door, path, or small area, mark any amount of wear. Anyone who crosses the caltrops must either take time and pass cautiously, or mark injury for each wear you marked to cover the area.

Corvid Explosives ■ ■

Value: 2 | Load: 1

✚ Mighty: When you wreck something with this item, mark 2-wear to shift a miss to a 7–9 or a 7–9 to a 10+ result.

Box of Fine Snuff ■

Value: 6 | Load: 0

✚ Invigorating: When you consume this item, mark 2-injury to clear all your exhaustion and add 2 boxes to your exhaustion for the rest of the scene (they go away at the end of the scene, whether they are marked or unmarked, with no further harmful effects either way).

✚ Luxury: After creation, this item is worth +3-Value.

Belt of Smoke Bombs ■ ■

Value: 4 | Load: 0

✚ Thief Kit: When you attempt a roguish feat appropriate for this item, you may mark wear on this item instead of marking exhaustion to avoid a risk coming to bear on a 7–9.

✚ Light: This item doesn't count towards your Load.

Salamander Spit ■

Value: 3 | Load: 1 | Range: Close, Intimate

✚ Throwable: Mark exhaustion to target a vulnerable foe with this weapon at far range. with this weapon at far range.

✚ Explosive: When this item is destroyed, it explodes and deals 3-injury to everyone in its range (close). It also starts fires and destroys structures.

✚ Expendable: When you throw this weapon, it is automatically destroyed.

Relics

Ancient Diadem ■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

Value: 5 | Load: 0

✚ Legendary: This item has its own reputation track, referred to as Legend, equivalent to 15 boxes of Prestige. It starts with Legend +1, and has no Legend boxes marked. To reach Legend +2, it would have to have 10 boxes of Legend marked, and then would clear its track. To reach Legend +3, it would have to have 15 boxes of Legend marked. This item also has a favored faction (the Eyrie) and a hated faction (the Alliance). Any time you wield this item openly, you do not mark prestige or notoriety at all. Instead, you mark Legend on this item when you aid the favored faction and injure the hated faction. For reputation moves, roll with the item's Legend instead of your own Reputation. Whenever any session goes by in which you did not mark any Legend on this item, clear 1 box of Legend from this item. If you have no boxes to clear, reduce its Legend by 1.

✚ Fascinating: After you meet someone important, mark exhaustion and pick 1; you tell them how you used the item to:

- Defend a faction, person, or clearing; they will tell you some current news relevant to that thing.
- Fight a faction, person, or idea; they will reveal their true allegiance in the conflict you've described.
- Serve a faction, person, or cause; they will point you toward others who share your loyalty to that thing.

You can mark exhaustion to ask a followup question; they must answer it honestly, but can be cagey with the details.

✚ Luxury: After creation, this item is worth +3-Value.

✚ Eerie: When you persuade someone while displaying this item and roll 7-9 or a miss, mark notoriety in addition to any other consequences of your roll.

✚ Coveted: When you first arrive in a clearing, roll with Luck. On a hit, this item attracts unwanted attention from the local denizens; the GM will tell you who has their eye on it. On a 7-9, their interest is intense; they offer to purchase it, try to steal it, or simply attempt to take it, GM's choice. On a 10+, the interest is good-natured—admiration of the craft, interest in the object's history—and modest. On a miss, someone powerful in the clearing decides to pursue this item, even at great cost.

Harm

Clearing Harm

You can clear depletion by gaining new supplies or money—filling your pockets with useful items and coin again. Gathering useful supplies from the forest and scrounging about in someone's home both clear depletion.

- Clear 1-depletion: a small payment from a denizen, rummaging through a normal denizen's larder, a few hours spent foraging in the forest
- Clear 2-depletion: a decent wage from a denizen, rummaging through a normal denizen's whole house, a day or so spent foraging in the forest
- Clear 3-depletion: a decent wage from a wealthy denizen, rummaging through a workshop of a wealthy denizen, a couple days spent foraging in the forest
- Clear 4-depletion: a significant wage from a powerful denizen, rummaging through a wealthy denizen's whole house, a week spent foraging in the forest

You can clear exhaustion by fulfilling your nature or by getting some good rest—sleeping, recovering, and taking a break. Getting a night's rest in a real bed is the best way to recover exhaustion.

- Clear 1-exhaustion: a night's rest in a safe and well set-up camp site in the forest, a night's rest in someone's loft, a notably good meal
- Clear 2-exhaustion: a week's rest in a safe and well set-up camp site in the forest, a night's rest in a bed in a denizen's home, an exceptional meal
- Clear 3-exhaustion: a week's rest in a bed in a denizen's home, a night or two's rest in a nice plush bed in a very safe place, a safe and indulgent feast
- Clear 4-exhaustion: a week's rest in a nice plush bed in a very safe place, good eating and drinking for a week

You can clear injury by receiving medical attention—someone tending to your wounds, splinting broken bones and applying poultices to bruised limbs. Most often it requires a real healer and not just a fellow vagabond.

- Clear 1-injury: a vagabond tends to your wounds (mark depletion for supplies), a healer spends an hour tending to your wounds (1-Value of supplies), a week of bed rest
- Clear 2-injury: a healer spends a day or less tending to your wounds (and requires 2-Value of supplies), two weeks of bed rest
- Clear 3-injury: a healer spends a week or less tending to your wounds (and requires 3-Value of supplies), a month of bed rest
- Clear 4-injury: a healer spends two weeks or more tending to your wounds (and requires 4-Value of supplies)

You can clear wear by repairing the damaged item—restringing, tightening, rebinding and making repairs, instead of making the item anew. Vagabonds are adept at making low-level repairs, but serious repairs require greater skill.

- Clear 1-wear: a vagabond spends a few hours repairing the item (marking depletion), a trained expert spends an hour repairing the item (and requires 1-Value of supplies)
- Clear 2-wear: a vagabond spends a couple days repairing the item (marking 2-depletion), a trained expert spends a few hours repairing the item (and requires 2-Value of supplies)
- Clear 3-wear: a trained expert spends a couple days repairing the item (and requires 3-Value of supplies)
- Clear 4-wear: a trained expert spends a week or more repairing the item (and requires 4-Value of supplies)

Harm Past the End of the Track

When you mark harm, it means you're using up resources and approaching some dangerous fate past the end of the harm track. If you've marked all the boxes on a given track, then you're in some dangerous state:

- If all your depletion is marked, your pockets are empty. You're broke, unless you're carrying some extra treasure. If you need to mark depletion when your depletion track is full, you are utterly spent and can't mark it.
- If all your exhaustion is marked, you're wiped out, on the door of collapsing entirely. You can still move, still act, but you can't push yourself any further. If you need to mark exhaustion when your exhaustion track is full, you collapse into submission or unconsciousness. The GM decides what your state is. You aren't dead—not right away—but you are helpless and at your enemy's mercy. Your friends might be able to save you, but you can't act on your own; maybe you're dazed and concussed...or just so tired your body won't respond.
- If all your injury is marked, you're on death's door. You likely need medical attention, now. If you need to mark injury when your injury track is full, you die.
- If all of an item's wear is marked, the item is about to break. It's only damaged now, and is still repairable. If you need to mark wear when your item's wear track is full, the item is damaged beyond repair. Cross the item off your equipment list.

Character Creation

Setup Your Character

- 1 Choose a playbook. Your playbook is an archetype that represents the overarching kind of vagabond you are, what special moves you have, and what kind of jobs you perform.
- 2 Choose a name, species, and details. Your species describes what kind of animal you are, and might affect how other denizens see you. Your details refer to your outward presentation and demeanor. Circle as many options as apply.
- 3 Choose where to add +1 to your stats. Your stats represent your particular strengths and weaknesses, and are used when you trigger moves. You can add +1 to a stat of your choice, but you cannot raise a stat beyond +2 at this point.
- 4 Choose your background. Background questions help fill in detail about your character's history. Answer each background question, either choosing an option and fleshing it out with some details, or describing a different answer. Your last two background questions have you mark prestige and notoriety; mark it on your reputation track as appropriate.
- 5 Choose your nature. Your nature represents your character's innermost self, and way of relieving stress. Fulfilling your nature helps you clear exhaustion. Select one nature from the two options.
- 6 Choose your drives. Your drives represent your character's goals and desires. Fulfilling drives earns advancements for your character. Each drive can earn one advancement per session. Select two drives from the four options.
- 7 Choose your moves. Most playbooks get three total moves. Most get to choose from their list. Choose your special moves, abilities unique to your character (for now).
- 8 Choose your roguish feats (if needed). Roguish feats are special larcenous skills; if they are marked on your playbook, you are particularly adept at those tasks. Many playbooks start with feats selected; some have you choose.
- 9 Choose your weapon skill(s). Weapon skills are special moves you use with suited weapons. Choose as your playbook instructs, usually a single skill from the bold options.
- 10 Spend starting value on equipment. Your starting value is listed, and you can choose and create equipment with it. Anything you don't spend, you keep as coin. Make sure you fill in your "Burdened" and "Max" Load values.
- 11 Once everyone is done with their character creation through step 10, go around and introduce them.
- 12 Then go around again and do connections. Connections represent the bonds between the vagabonds. Each player fills in another vagabond's name in each connection.
